"Beverly Hill at Hillcroft — Lee High School — Expanding intellectual horizons and preparing students for their future."

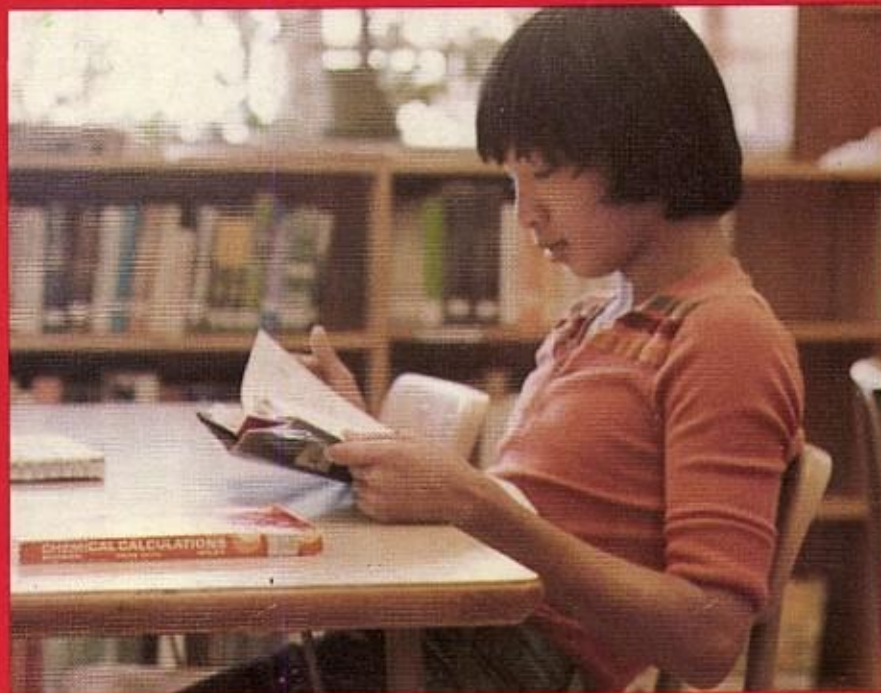

Such a ridiculous statement! The students of Lee in 1978 never considered this conventional goal of pure preparation. We lived for the present, in a world of our own creation, a community that harbored every component of the massive society outside. Personalities and activities, successes and failures, and emotions — all were vital elements of both worlds.

But our bountiful energy as young adults led to a burst of life that could seldom be found in the outer world, and experiences etched memories on our minds with a force we would never feel again — totally within the confines of our brief high school existence.

We saw a mixture of fresh outlooks with past tradition. Remaining witnesses of the '74 riot had graduated with the previous senior class. Though our cliquish tendencies were obviously present, the hardline "jet-freak-kikker" distinctions became less noticeable.

Spirited tradition and overall optimism remained with us. — The world of Lee truly vibrated with life.

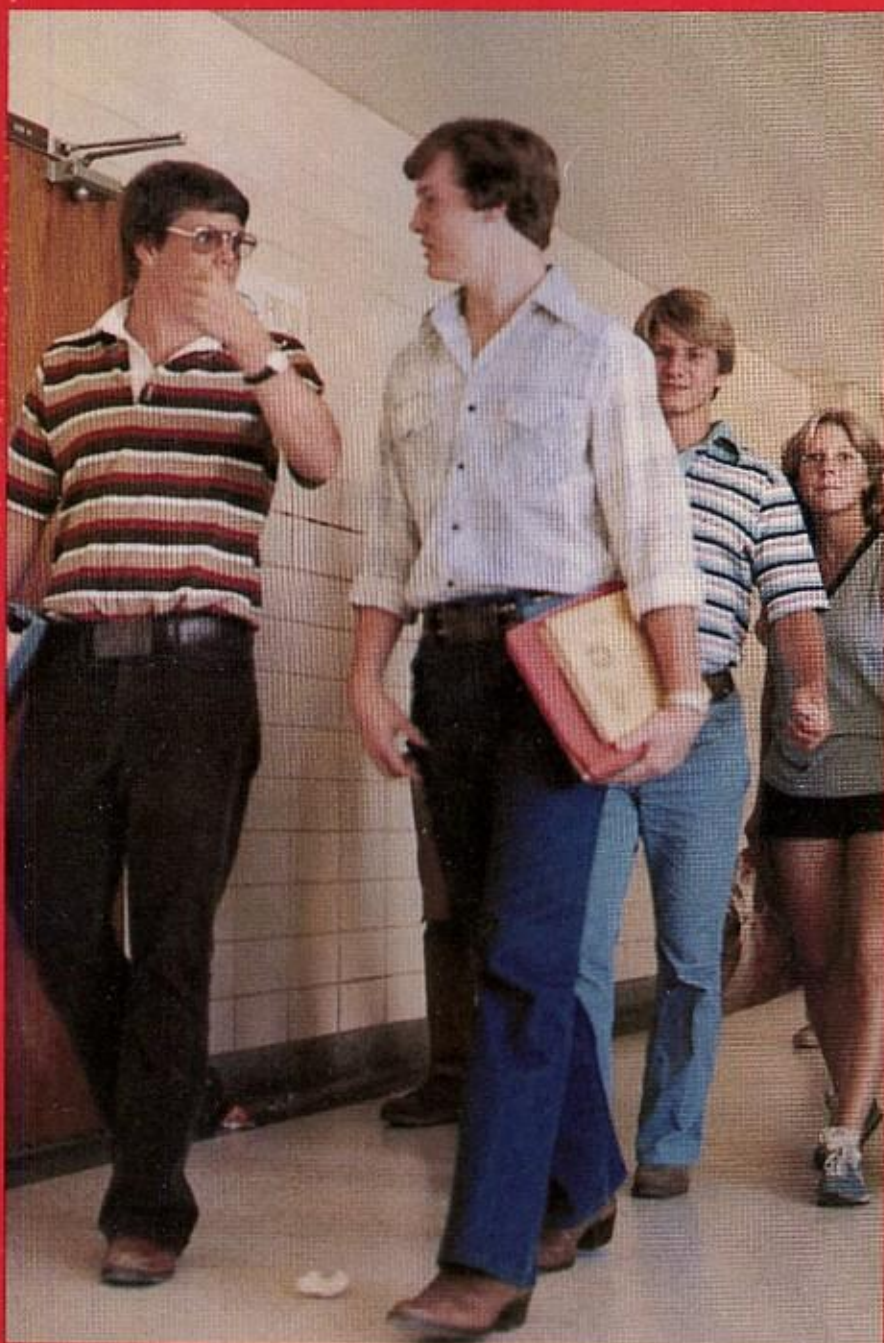

Sharon,
I've had lots
of fun in English.
Thank you for the help.
I hope I see a good next year. Have a good summer.

Sharon,
 Although I haven't
 known you that well,
 I can tell you are a really nice girl. I hope that your senior year is as much fun as mine was. Best of Luck,
 Diana

Our teenage world gave us unparalleled opportunities for activity. "What we did" exposed our interests, and outlets for participation took differing forms to satisfy our 2088 diverse personalities.

Although a majority chose not to join with school-oriented functions, few could avoid the impact of the minority's spirit. Football games at Butler Stadium were social phenomena. The win-loss record clearly reflected the effects of a year for rebuilding, but the pride during pep rallies never died. What games lacked in excitement, we made up with flirtatious habits in the stands.

The impressive procession of floats before the Lee-Sharpstown homecoming game exhibited the unity of school spirit. Cooperation among the entire student body also became the theme of an active "clean up" campaign. Filth never left our lives, but dedication improved the campus appearance.

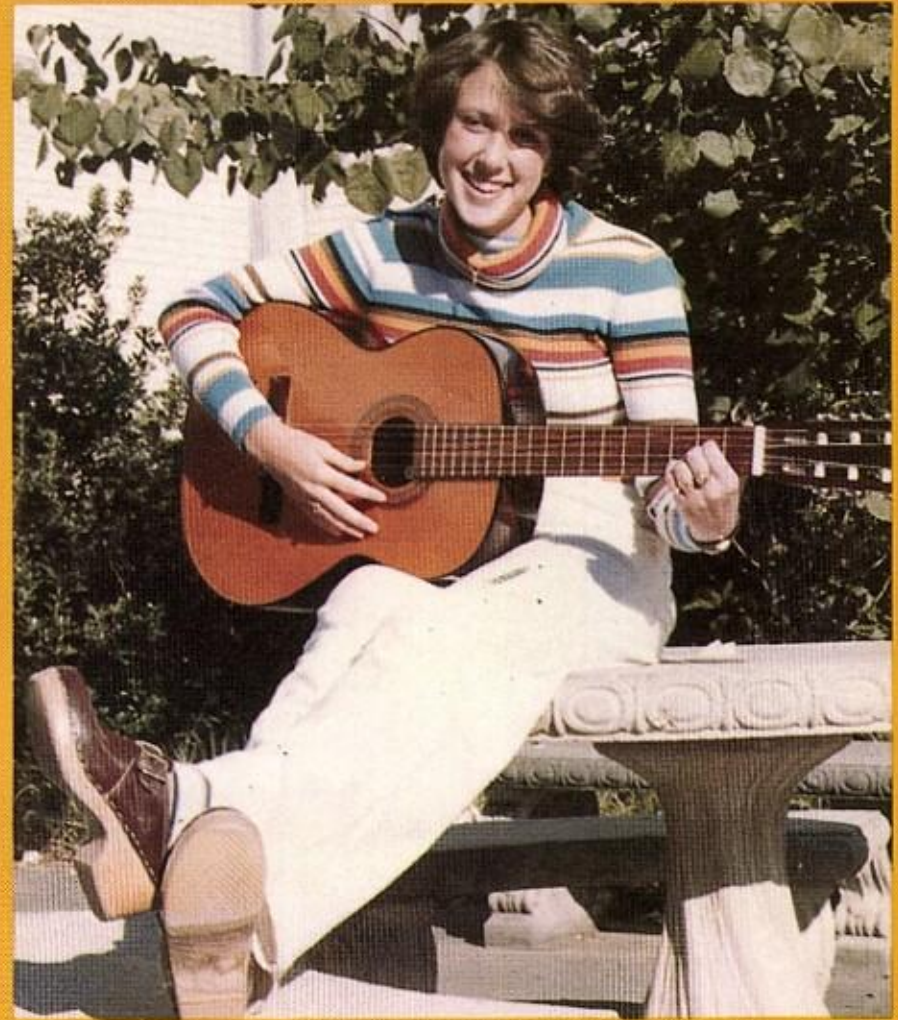

The discontented continually complained of Lee's faults. The appearance of Jojos Restaurant wiped away a portion of the field, hardening our hatred for the parking conditions. Student Council maneuvers gave us a renewed hope that the ancient student parking lot would be extended. HISD food remained ever unpopular. Food establishments on Hillcroft, Richmond, and Westheimer enticed our appetites, calling for further attempts at an open campus proposal.

The religious revival of the mid-'70s retained strength in '78; Young Life sessions added a totally different dimension to the year. Depleted finances demanded after school and weekend working hours. As in school, the immediate results overshadowed the experiences gained. Spiritual and financial support for the present kept us alive.

Our past experiences and relationships with other students affected the extent of our involvement. Sophomores received a year of exposure. Juniors formed the core of activity, while Seniors accepted trend-setting roles and looked toward graduation with a sense of confusion — where had the time gone???

But time had not wasted away. We learned, not only in the conventional sense, but through continuous involvement.

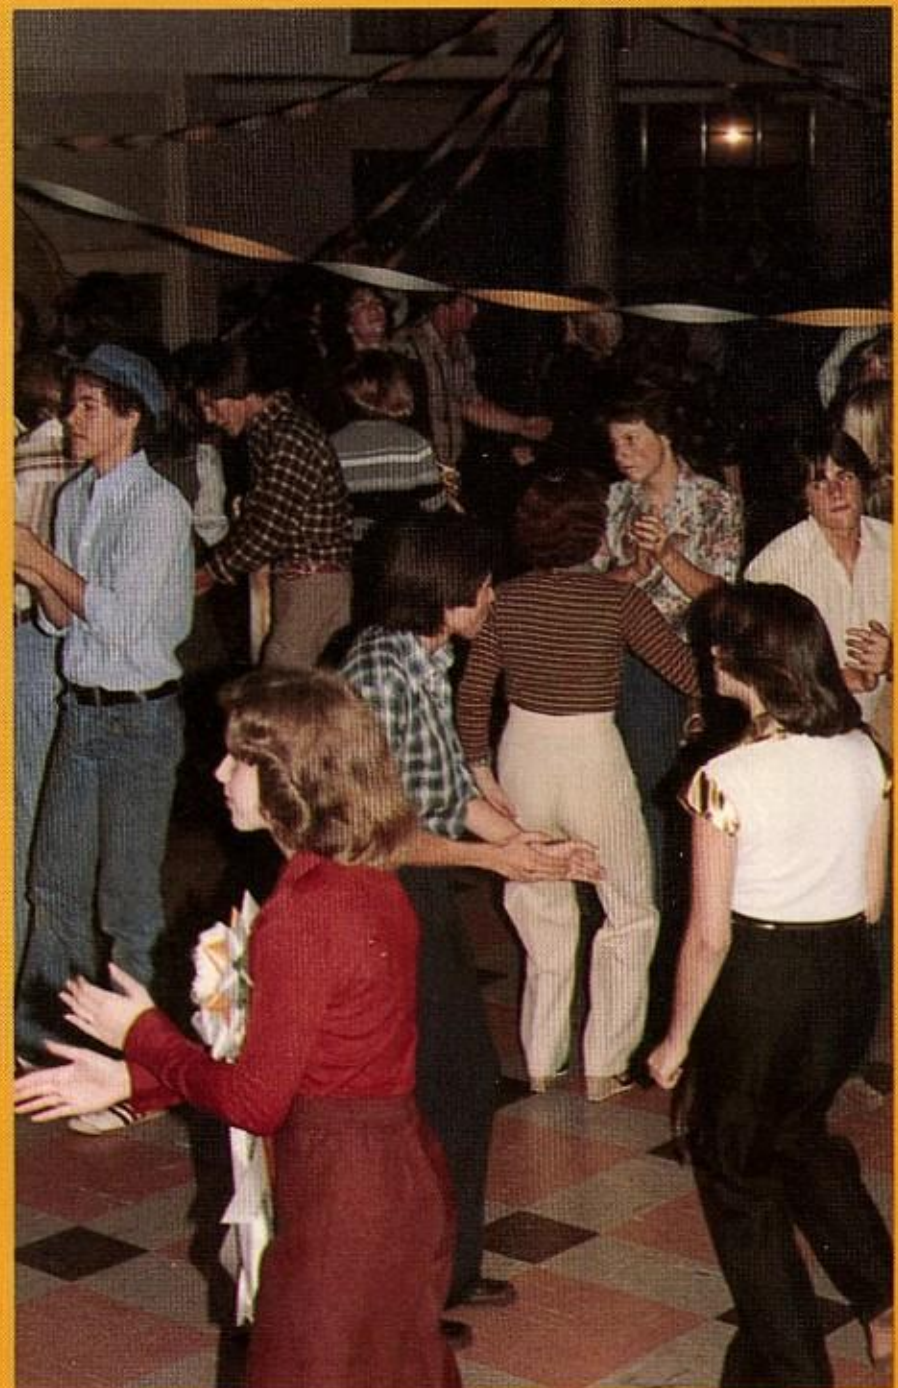

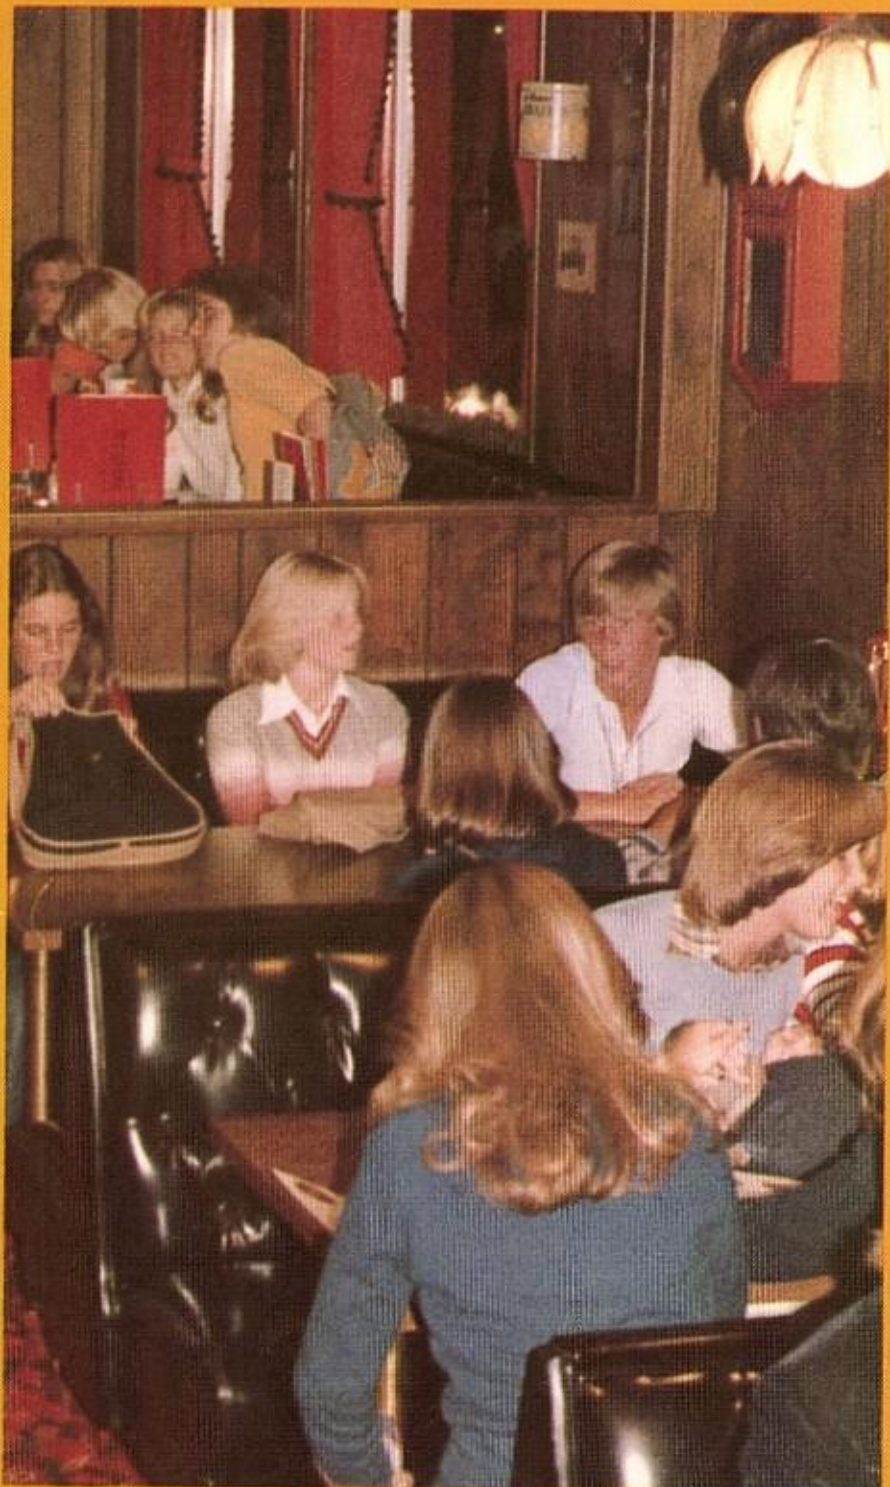

We will never forget what we liked, what "turned us on" — the trends, the fads, the purely enjoyable aspects of life. These provided the flavor for our actions, the uniqueness of our year.

Across The Street Restaurant seldom witnessed a day without Lee students entering the door. Curiosity sent us throughout Houston seeking "original" places for weekend excitement, but familiarity drew us back to the hang-outs. Westheimer, from far off Ashford to mysterious Montrose, became our drag, passing through the core of an expanding Houston. For the sociable majority, parties and dances of various forms highlighted memories as well as calendars.

Ventures away from the tense city brought relaxation. The adventurous surfed in Galveston or water-skied in the Hill Country. Austin and College Station added special attractiveness to out of town trips, especially for college-bound seniors.

Clothes and cars exposed our true natures. Lee males placed a virtual monopoly on Levis jeans and cords. The "tacky" female look of the past gave way to a more feminine wardrobe, and we couldn't help noticing the topsiders and Oxford shirts of the few who went with the college prep look. We drove to school in jeep-type vehicles, sports cars, vans, or the old family car. The automobile remained a sign of status.

Music paralleled our personalities. We had a strong tendency to relate memories with specific tunes. From hard, electric cords to soothing melodies — all found admirers among us. The Eagles, Fleetwood Mac, Waylon and Willie, attracted our admiration, but opinions differed when comparing Cat Stevens and Linda Ronstadt to Ted Nugent and Kiss. Seventy-eight signalled the arrival of Foreigner and the Emotions, the increased popularity of Heart and James Taylor, and the sad departure of the King of Rock, Elvis Presley. Concerts joined followers in the Coliseum and Summit, while more personal performances were held in the Music Hall and Texas Opry House.

Surrounding our own, we found a world of excitement, a world of enjoyment.

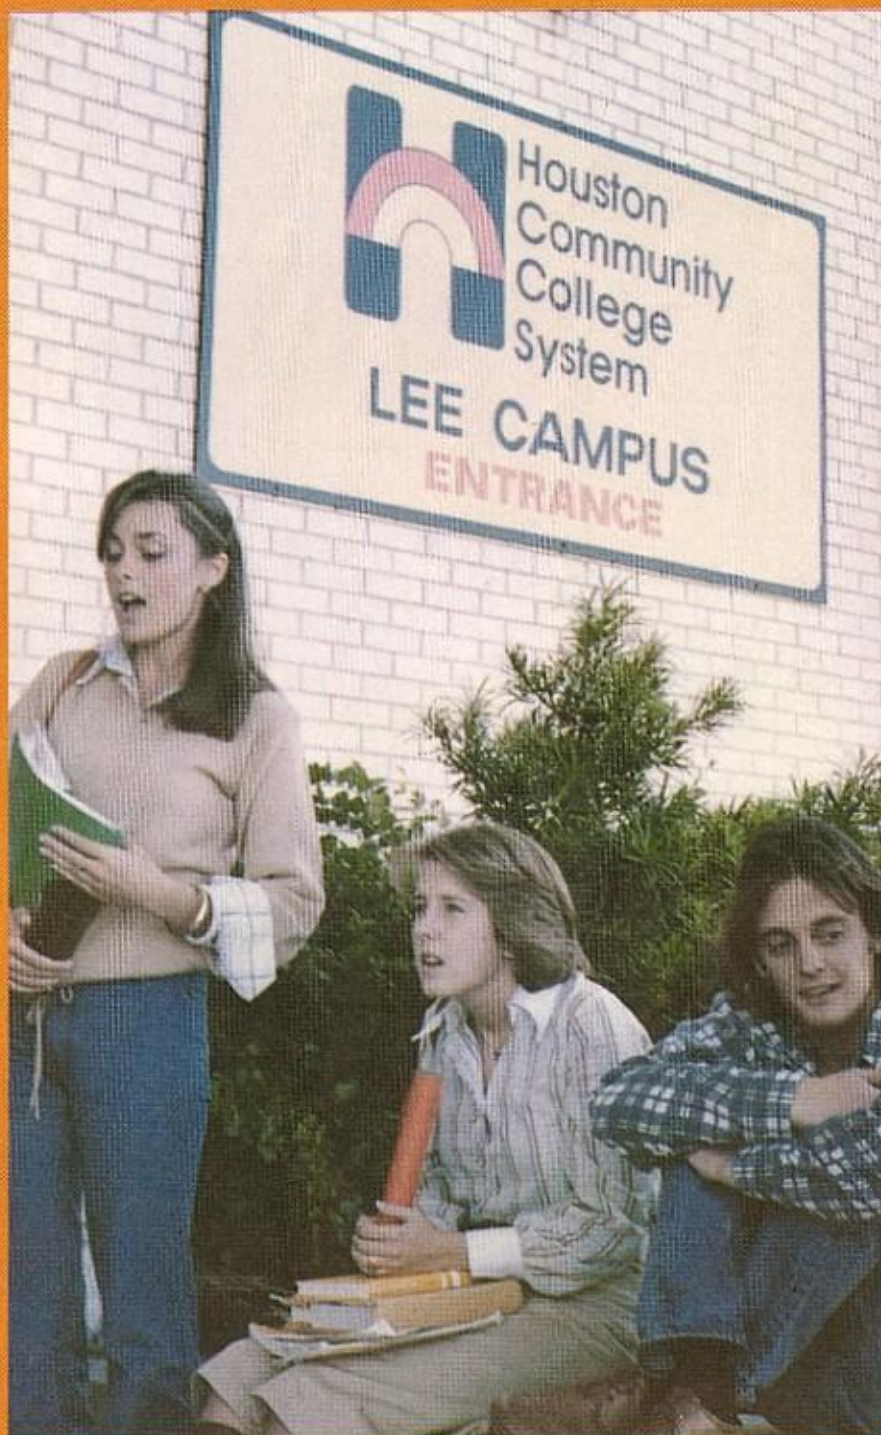

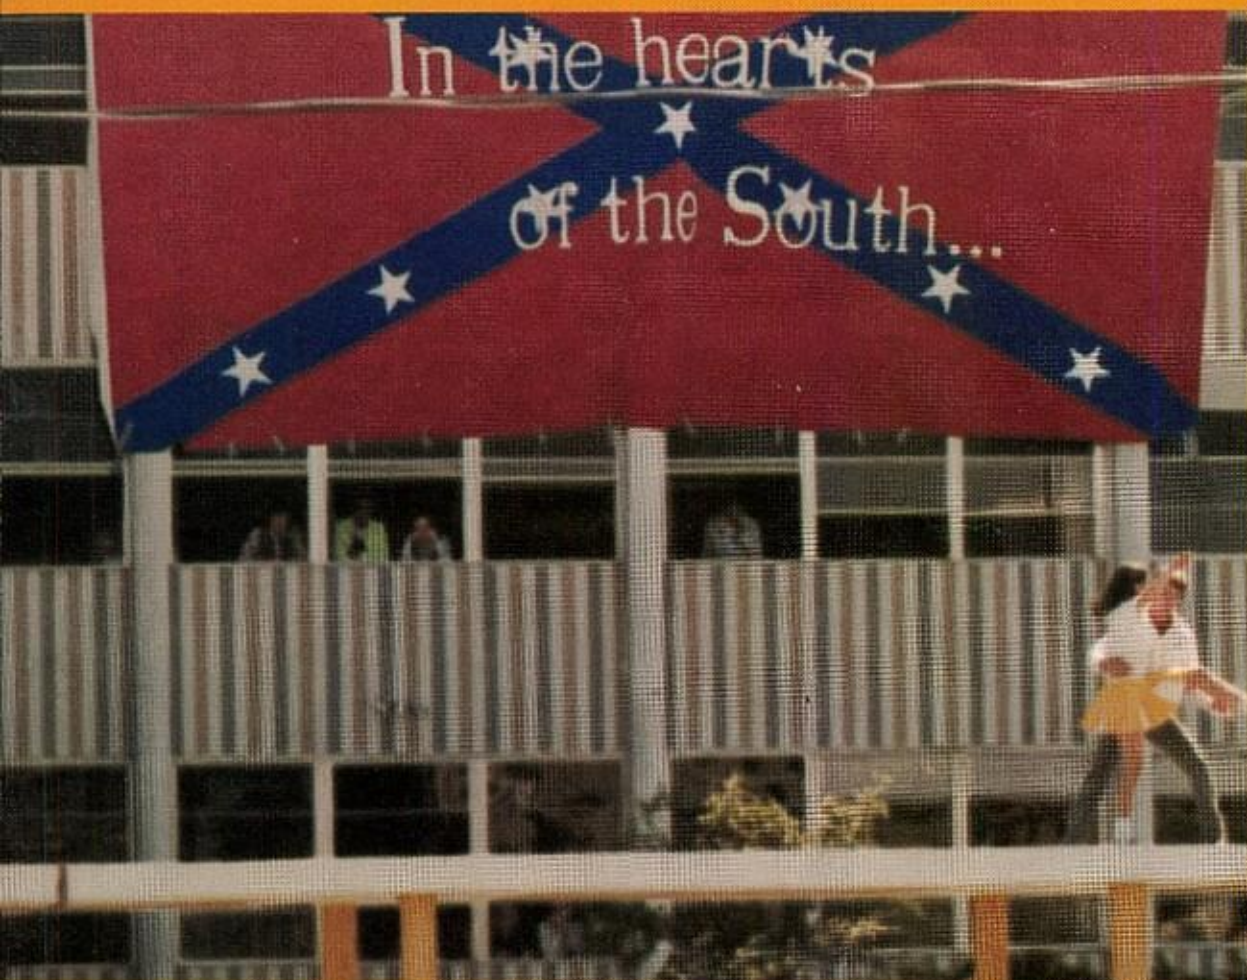

Intrusions from the outside world forced us to accept a fact: Lee High School represented a mere speck in the realistic society of man. This onslaught of reality forced adaptation, while influencing ever-changing opinions and testing our maturity.

Houston Community College hit us directly. Plastered on the front of Lee was a rude, yellow sign — symbolizing a realization that “our” school was not truly ours — only a set of walls temporarily housing our bodies.

The martyred Joe Campos Torres met injustice across town, but the question of police authority invaded the campus area. Rapid construction near the school meant less parking space. Inevitable parking fines and $27.50 tow charges threatened us constantly, leading to cries of “unfair” as police officers passed down Unity every week with no remorse for the tickets given.

Although Mayor Fred Hofheinz freely vacated the leading position in the nation’s 5th largest city, the ’77 mayor’s race attracted no single vibrant personality. The three major candidates, Briscoe, McConn, and Ginther, resided in the Lee area. Crackdown attempts on pornographic establishments, transportation improvements, and the heated Westheimer Independent School District — each issue affected the Southwest Area. Nevertheless, the race received little attention from students.

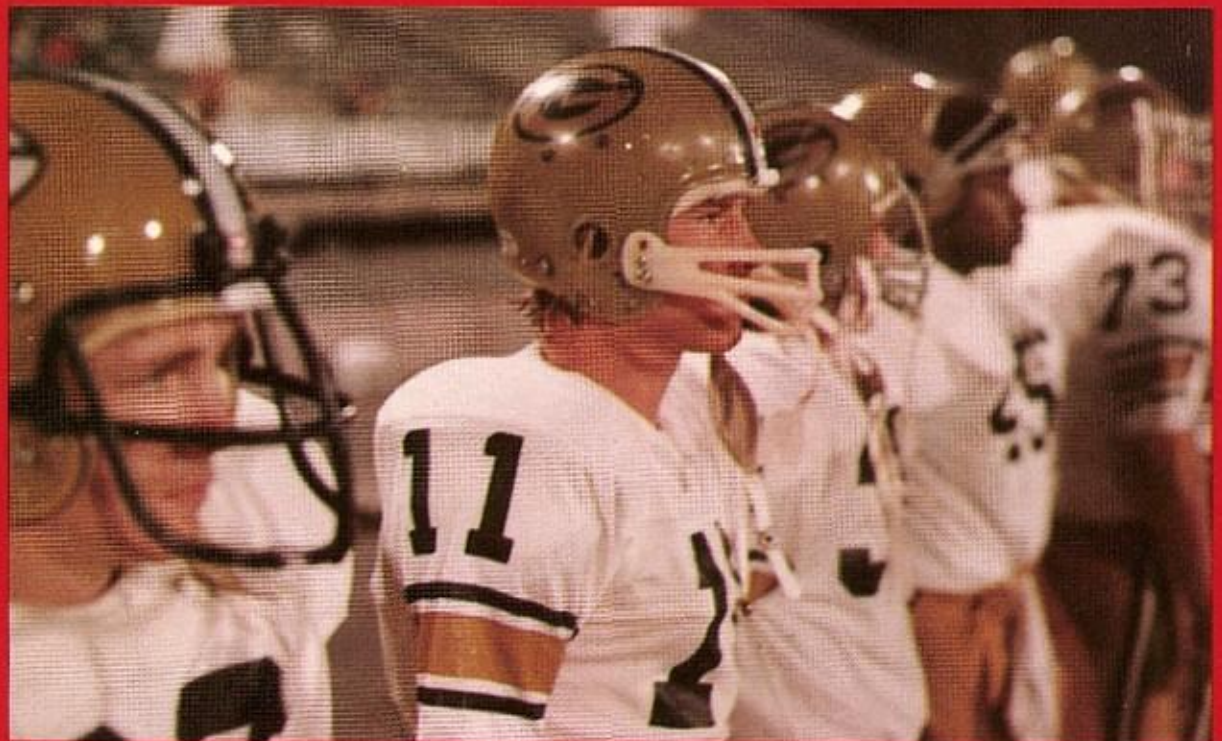

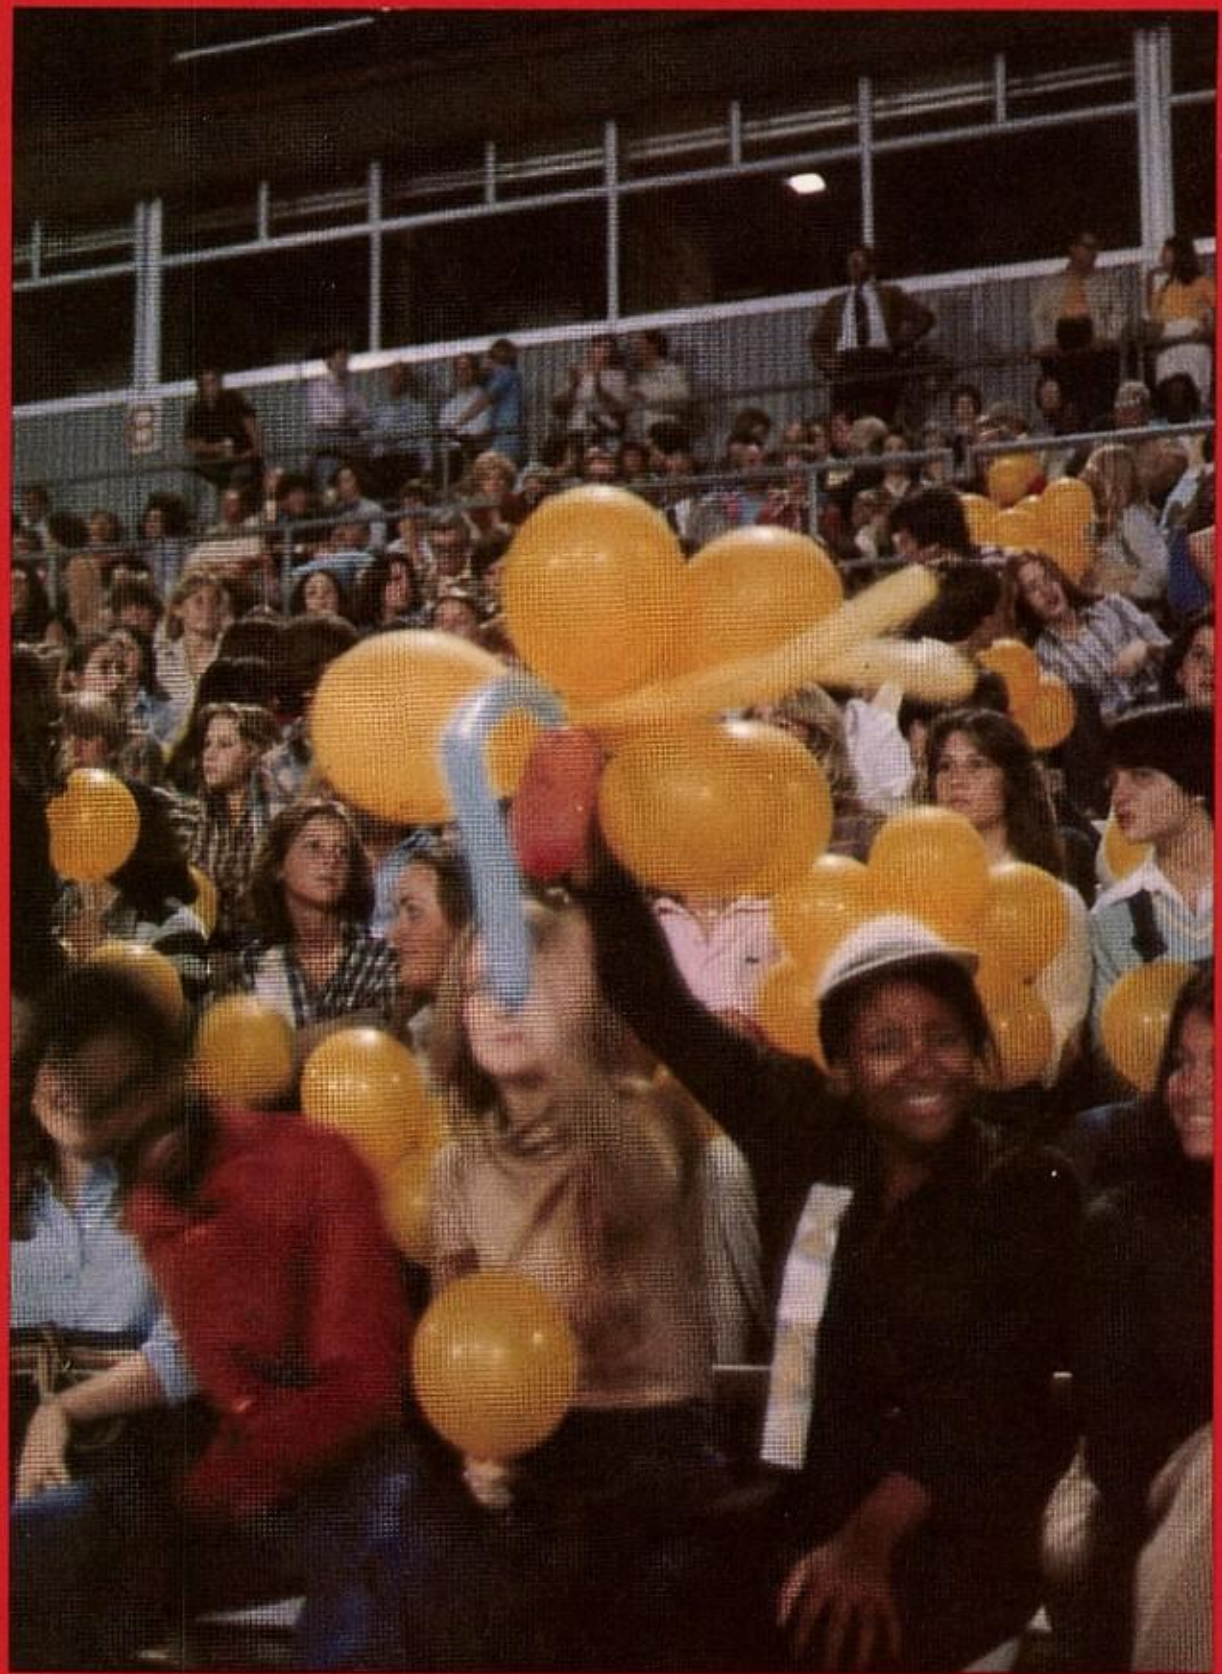

We focused on national events. Jimmy Carter's first year as President uncovered few mysteries about the man. He strongly advocated the return to a society more conscience of morals, but the Bert Lance affair placed a dark stain on his previously clean record.

The signing of the Panama Canal Treaty sparked national controversy. The outspoken among us sent Lee's contribution to the voice of opposition in the form of a candid petition.

As individuals, we seldom permitted the outside world to invade our private convictions, but our exposure to an abundance of ideals demanded that we look deeper into ourselves and locate our position in a modern, changing society.

Uncontrollable factors forced us closer in our high school community. Yet, above all we were individuals of a personal world. Looking inward, we discovered a maturing young person, growing faster than we could help — one-fourth of our entire life spent by graduation day.

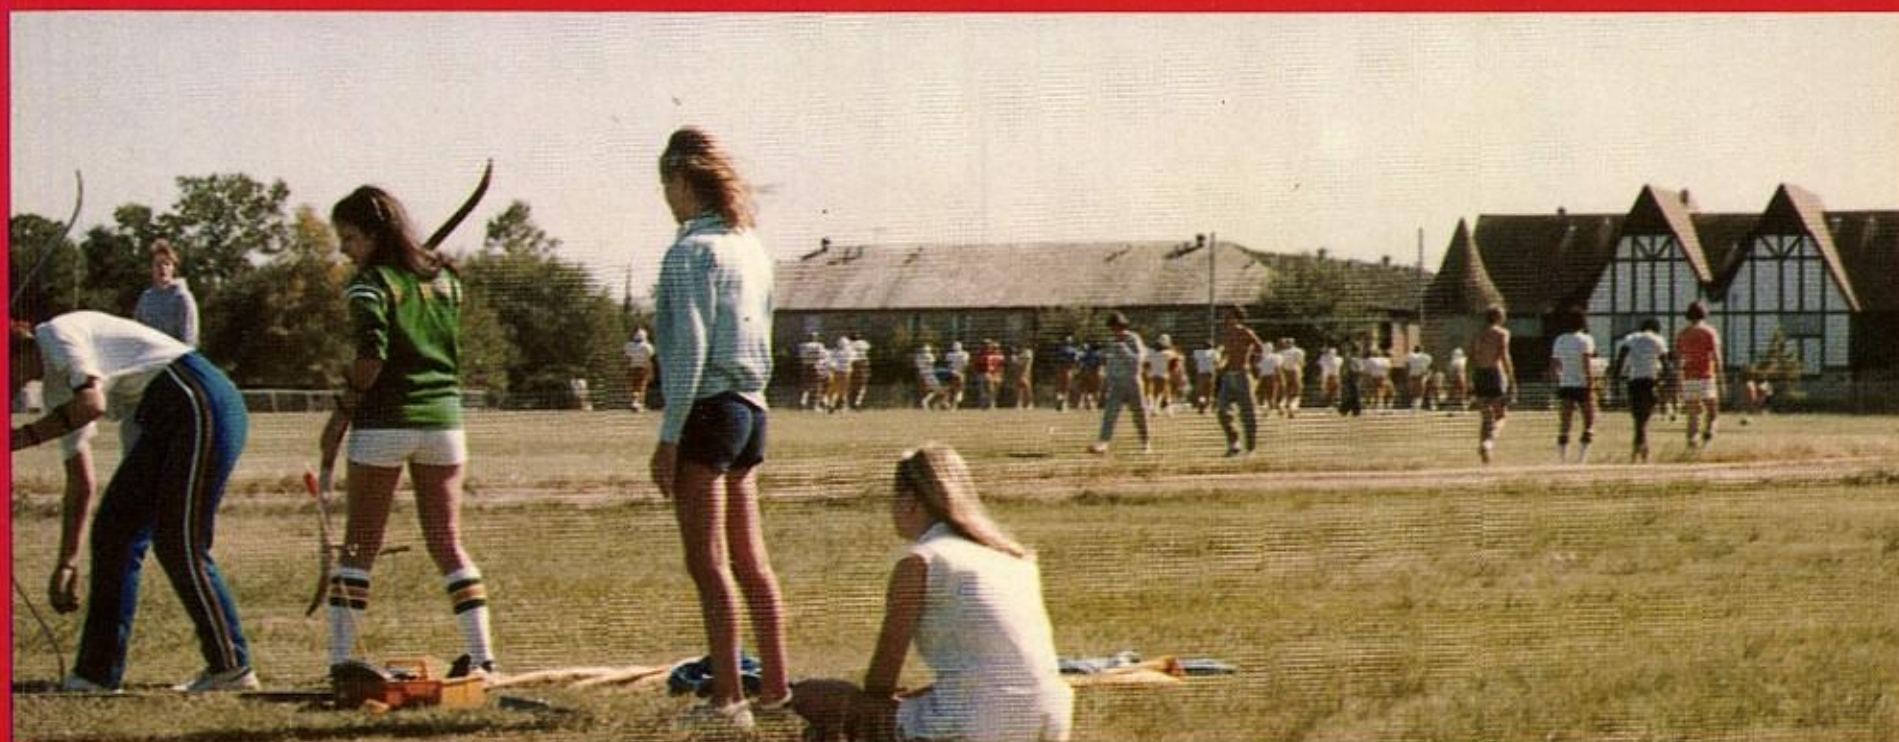

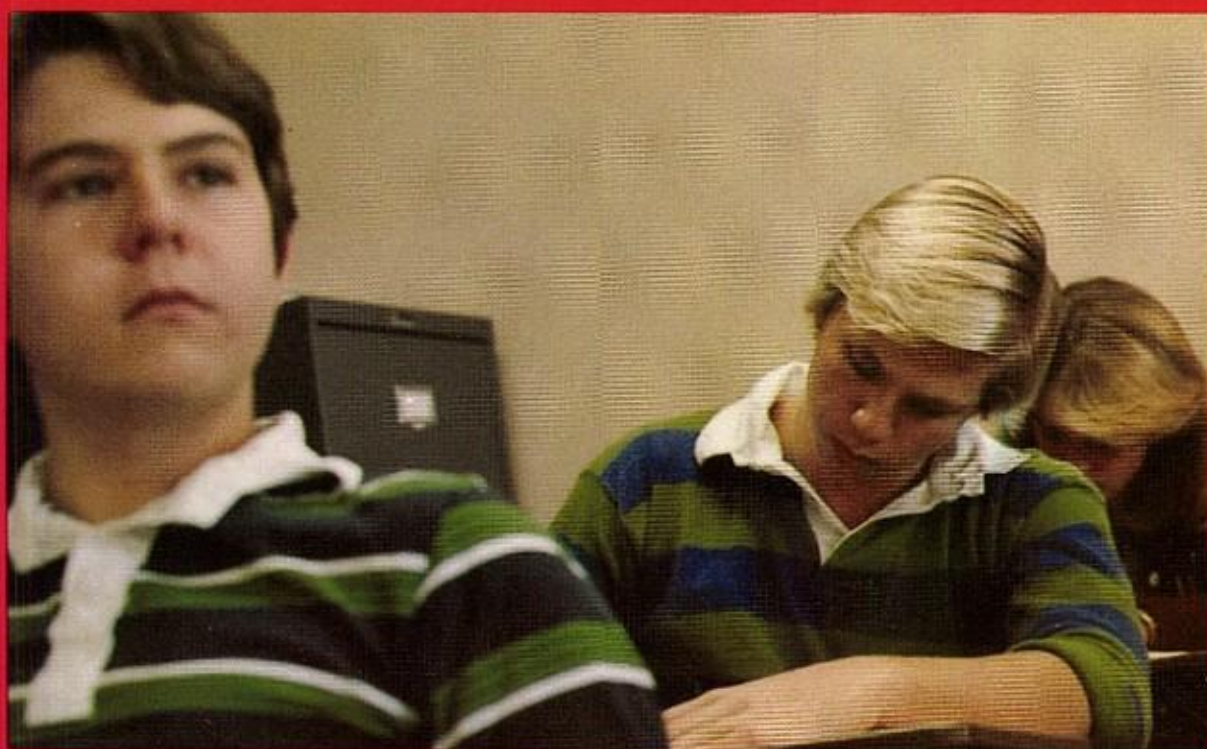

We discovered stunning truths. Impressions from the year would remain forever, and the self-image we had formulated during high school would influence our attitudes throughout life. We would remember the pleasant "firsts" — and likewise, we would recall the sadder times, those occasions of hurt feelings and alienation from security. Yes, a party in one sense, but the year brought traumatic situations to each of us.

We looked at our generation of the late '70s: Alcoholism on the increase, teenage suicide reaching epidemic proportions, broken homes — these harsh aspects offset pleasant memories for many.

Nevertheless, we thrived on happiness and lived on in spite of anxieties. Whether we lived as conformists or exhibited true individualism, each of us, each citizen of Lee, contributed to the pulse of student life.

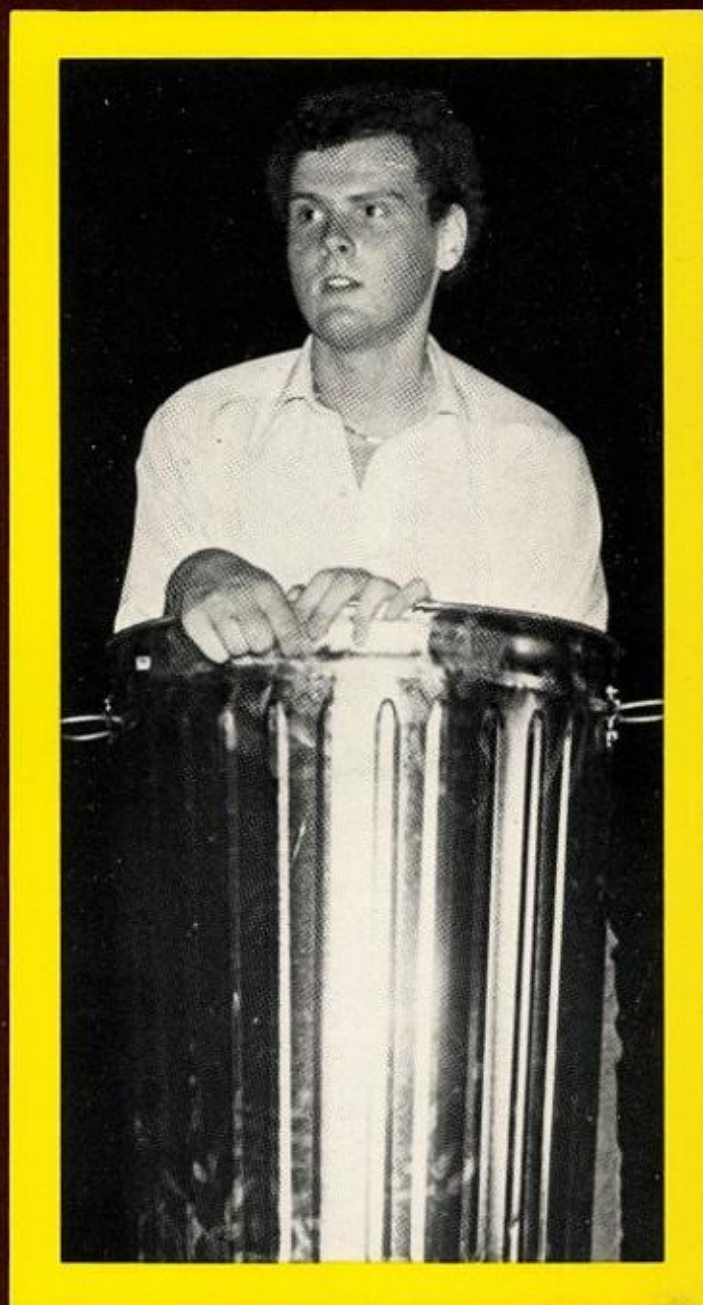

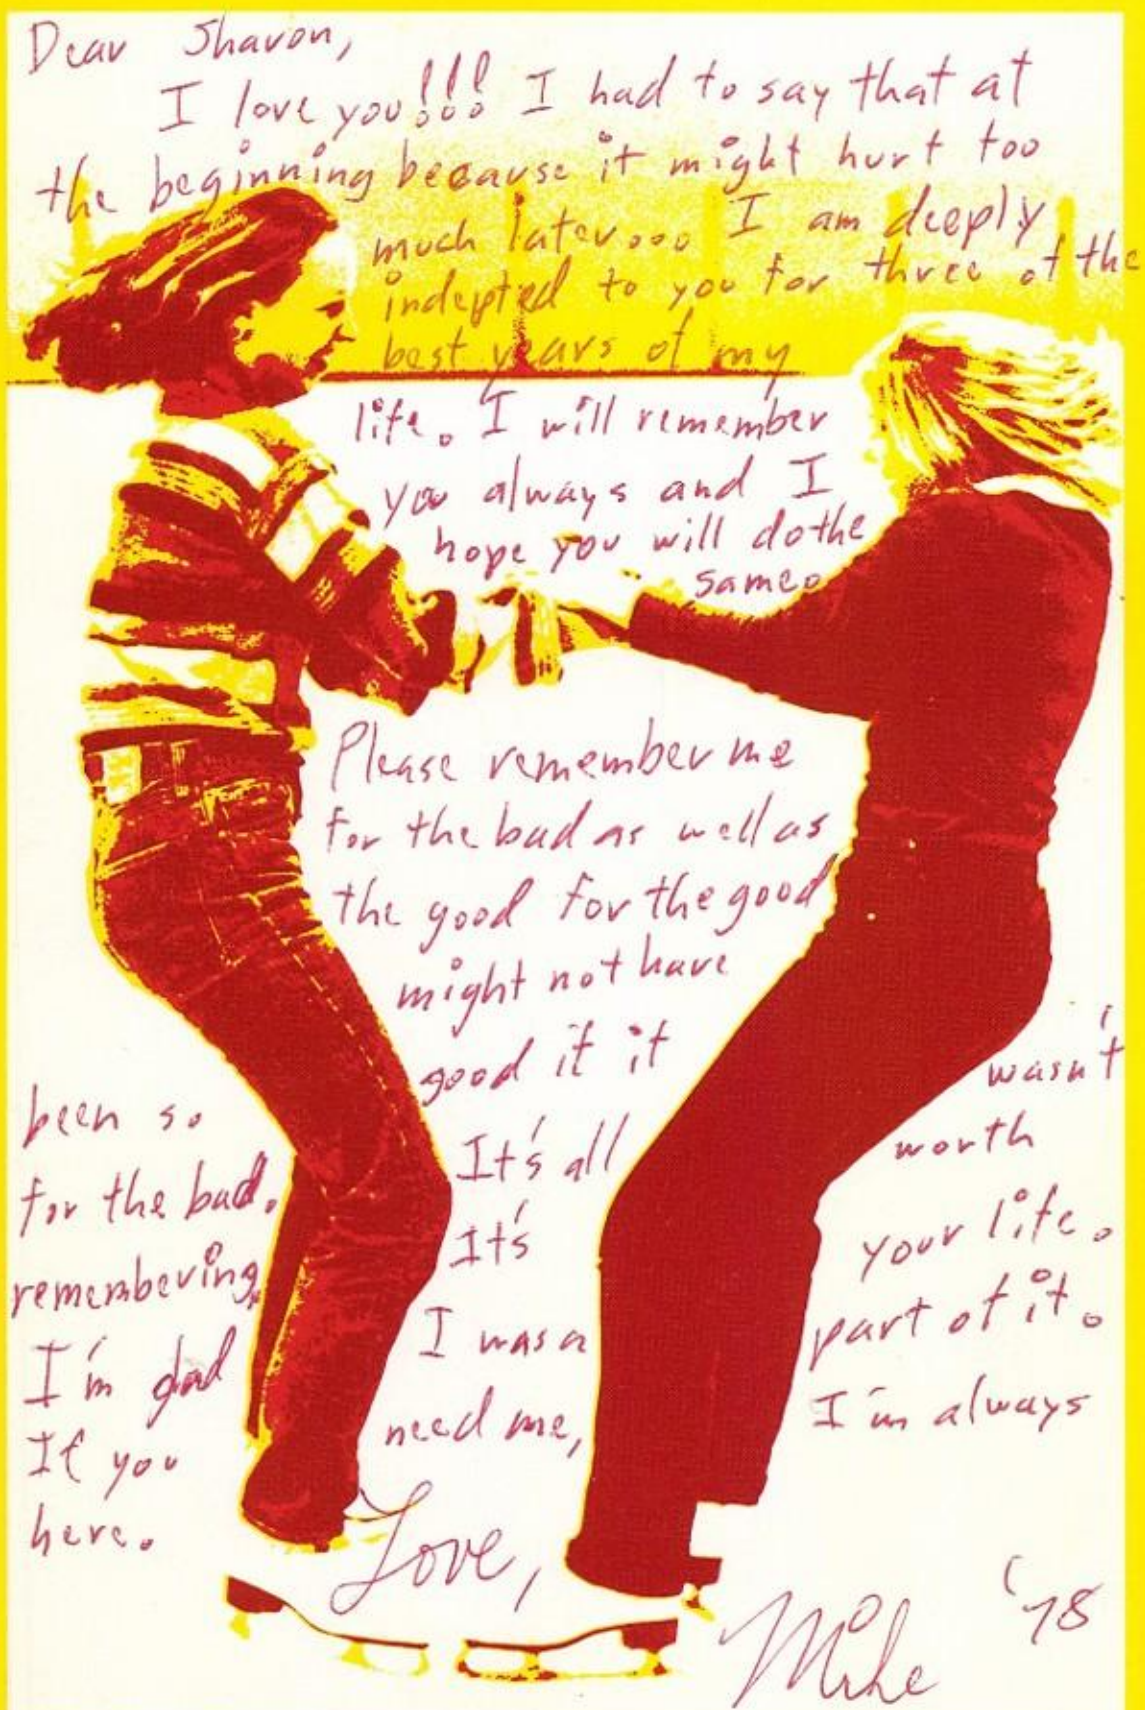

Witness the uniqueness of 1978, the rush of life . . . Witness the world of Lee . . .

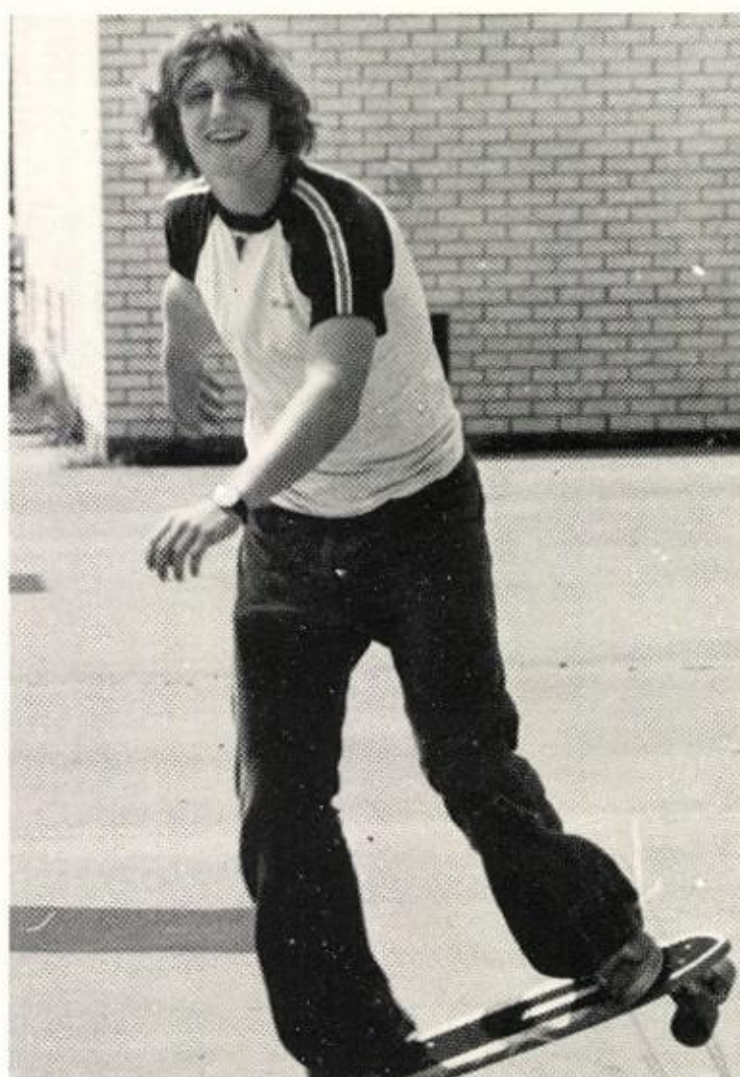

ACTIVITIES

Activity furnished our lifeblood, for without vivacious action, the routine of school would be unbearable. The balance of work and pleasure varied, but practical learning through outside experiences completed every student's packaged education. In solitude or as a team, we found that the joy of success made the time spent worthwhile.

Generals Go For The Gusto

I can't believe he finally gave me a promise ring. Julie McCain is relieved that she won't have to drop any more hints.

Students . . .

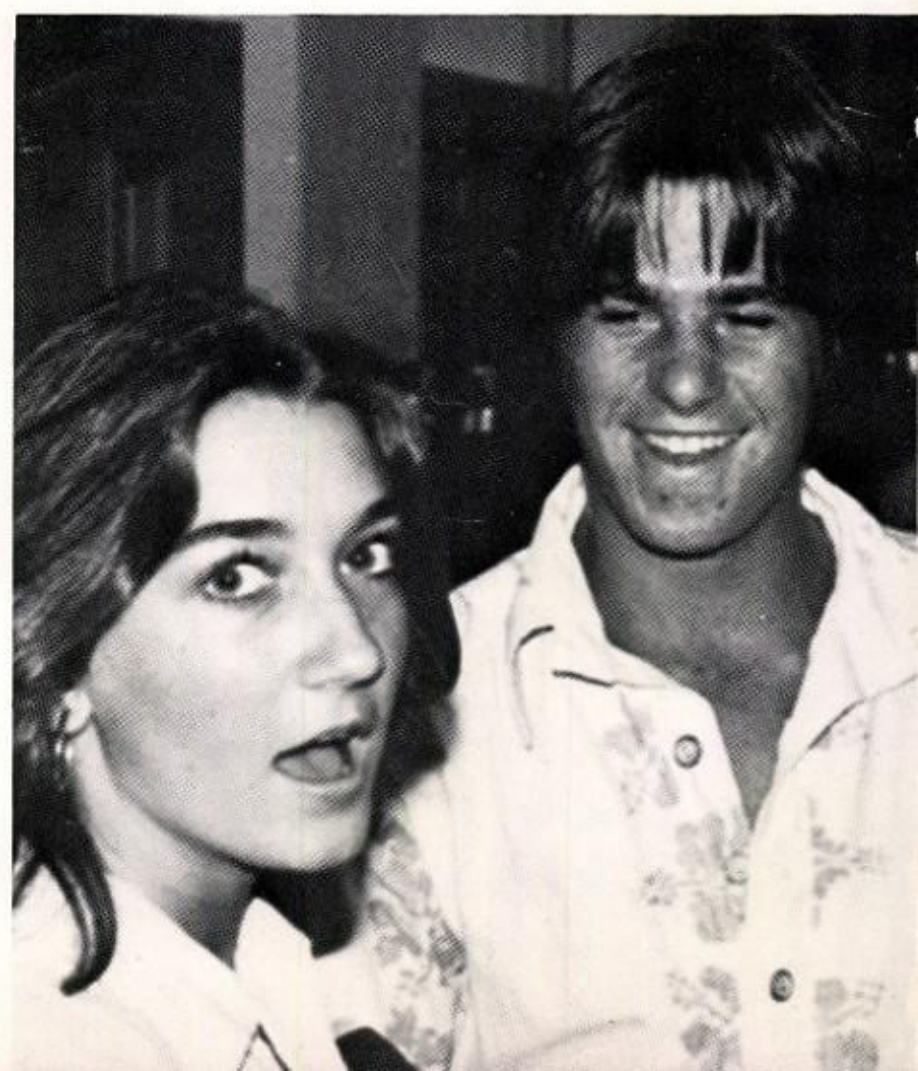

"What, did you say you're a senior? Sure I'll go out with you," replies Dore Rubey as she tries to remember his name.

Pat Goulding doesn't get anywhere with Rhonda Swenson and winds up only spinning his wheels.

Ruth BURNS with desire for Drew Baker.

Make A Comeback

"Why couldn't today be Saturday?", says a discouraged Lisa Chamblin.

As always, summer seemed to end before it even got started. On August 25, the Anchor Club sponsored an orientation for the new sophomores. The new students met the administration and club presidents, and learned about Lee. The presidents told about their clubs' activities throughout the year.

Four days later, the school year began for all students. The warm weather was perfect for the beach, but those days were gone and it became time to concentrate on school again. The former juniors were suddenly "stud" seniors and were finally at the top. The new juniors were no longer "lowly" sophomores. Whatever the grade level, everyone had nine months of getting up early and fighting traffic ahead of them.

"Do you mean he asked us both out for Friday night?" says Charlotte Spence to Cindy Coleman as Carol Becker wonders which one will be stood up.

Mrs. Freeman flies high with General spirit.

Wasted Days . . .

After practicing mouth to mouth resuscitation, David Ward and Autumn Pearce both gasp for air.

Wynn Mabray gets caught up in the spirit of Luckenbach as he GETS DOWN to the basics of life.

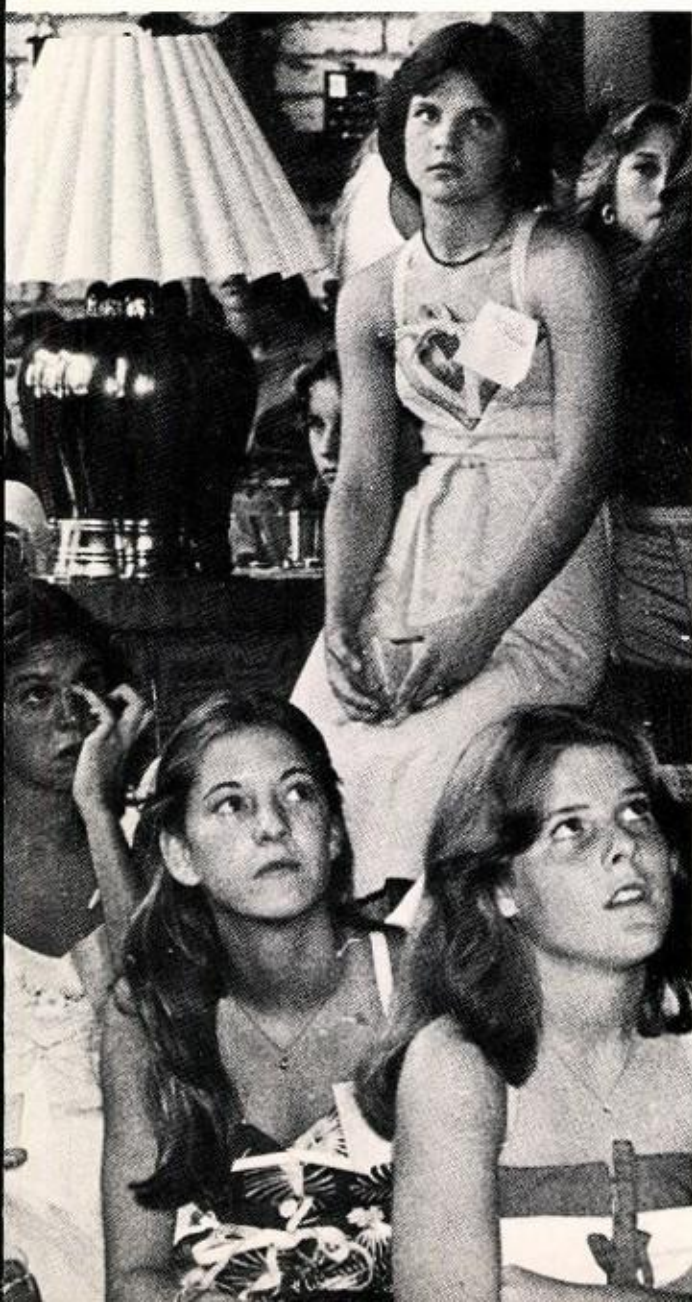

It's not whether you win or lose, but how you party afterwards.

Wasted Nights

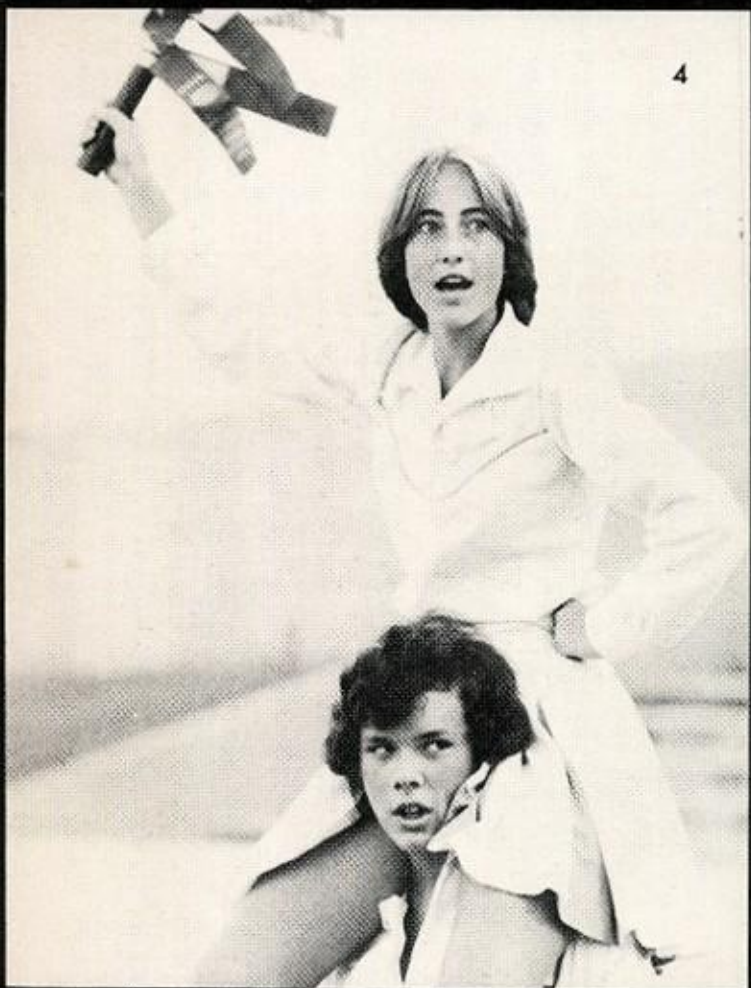

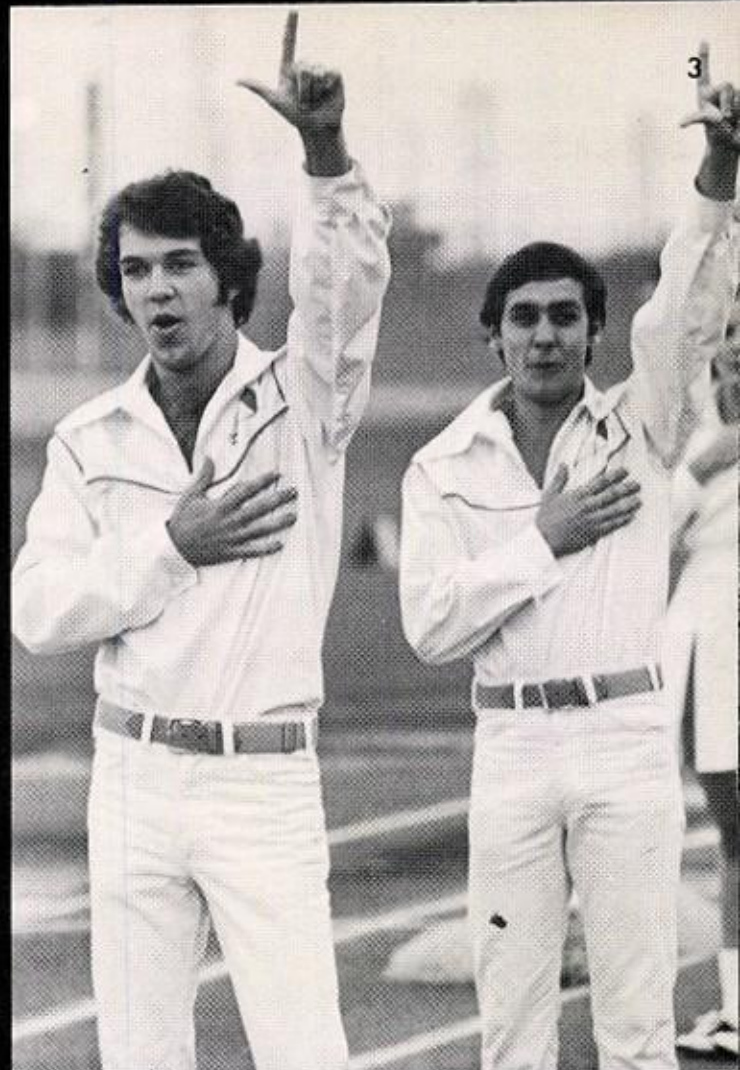

Lynette Lebo really FLIPS (head over heels) for Robert Knepler.

"I thought I would give the sophomores a taste of Lee's party life," says Carol Kelly as Dawn Gilliland approves of her idea.

"Tell us more, tell us more," anxiously ask Susan Stillwell, Mary Bailey, Tracy Jackson, and Holly Stovall as they begin to hear the truth about Lee girls' dating life.

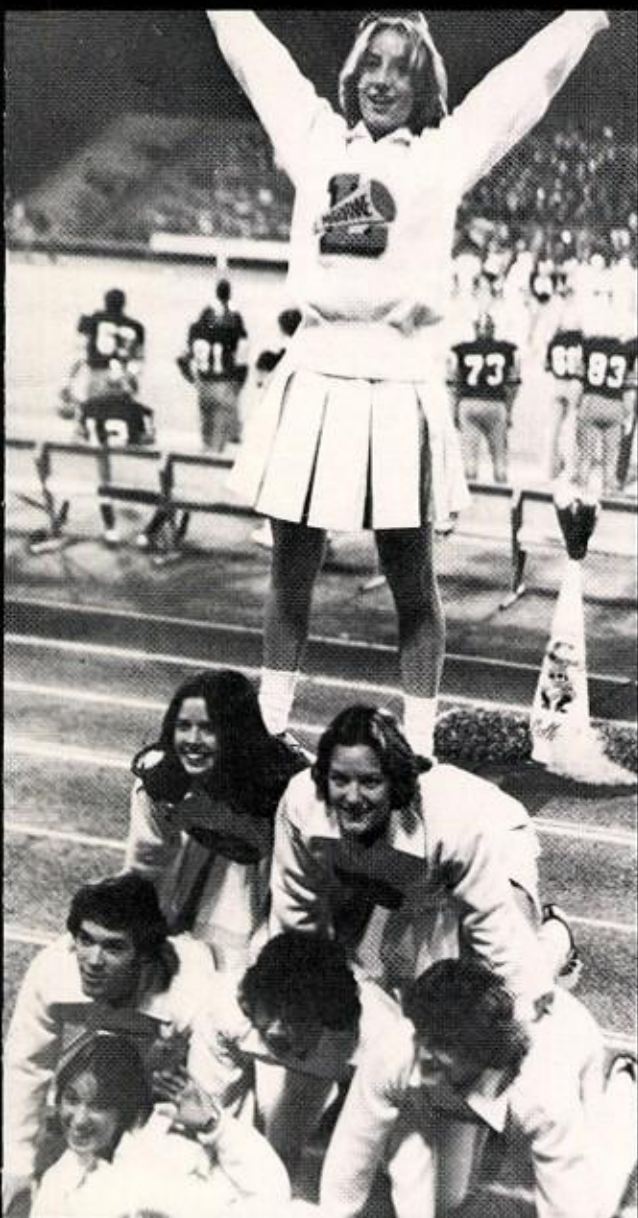

Lee Couldn't Be Prouder

After winning their positions as cheerleaders last spring, the new squad had a major adjustment to make, each member had to realize his responsibility to the school and to the rest of the squad. The cheerleaders spent many long afternoons in May learning cheers and stunts. Throughout the summer, considerable work was necessary to get uniforms and to prepare for camp.

In early August, the squad attended the NCA camp at SMU. The cheerleaders won six blue ribbons, one red ribbon, and the highly coveted spirit stick. In addition, the squad learned new cheers and chants, along with other helpful information.

All of this preparation was needed to enable the squad — Rick Causey and Marianne Andrews — head-cheerleaders, Tracy Jarrell, Paul Haefner, Megan Foley, John Mayfield, Cathy Prince, and Dan Lovett — to achieve their goal for the year. They wanted to build the GREAT SPIRIT OF LEE. With endless devotion to their job, the squad, under the guidance of Miss Regina Satlof, supported the Generals with their never-ending spirit and pride for Lee.

Spirit Progresses

After the advancement of the Generals, Arleen Ealey develops her game plan while Ricci Campbell hopes he won't fumble on the goal line.

Sarah Metts' halftime performance brightens the General routine.

"The last time I parked here, I was towed away," says Doug Crosswell to Jennifer Rogers.

(Right) Though Ann Lynch towers over Marci Waldie, Marci shows she is just a little better.

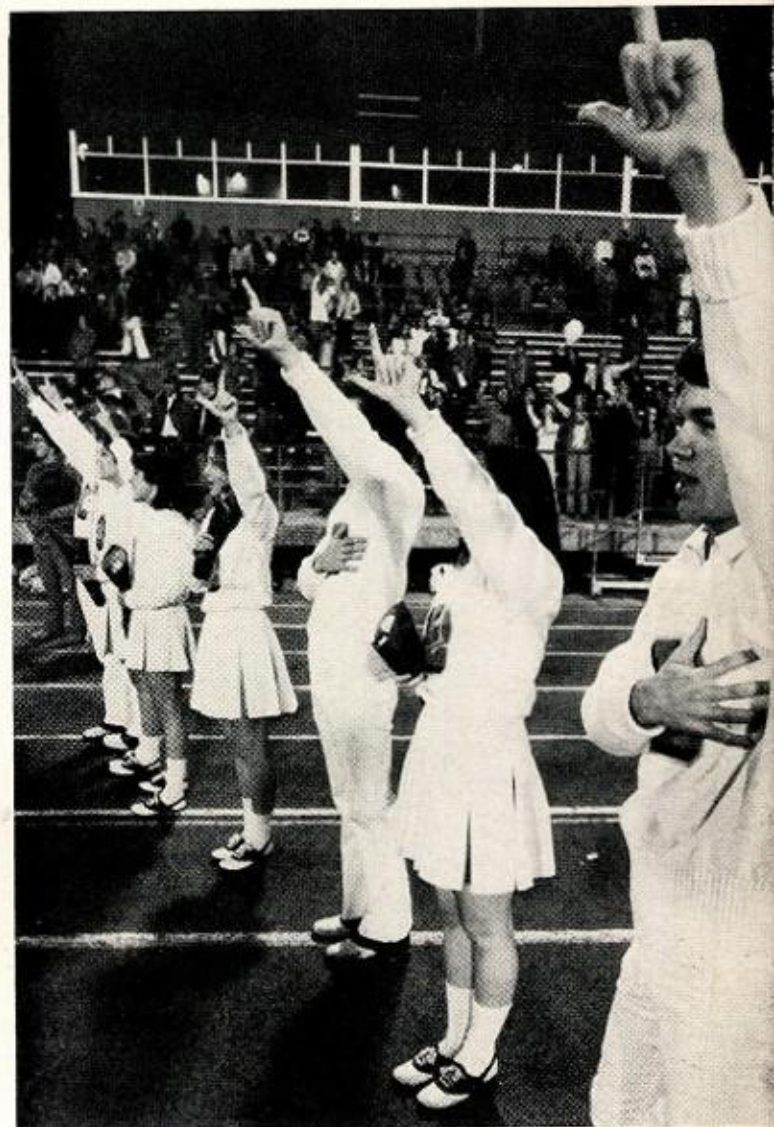

The spirited team comes ripping through after the break, ready to "Polish Off" Sterling in the second half rally.

As Victory Nears

"Uncle Bob is my date, not yours!" cries Bruce Stadler to a jealous Robert Thompson.

The Cheerleaders feel in their hearts the presence of General loyalty during the school song.

The card section at the Lamar game was useless due to the fact that the Redskins can't read and the Key Club can't spell.

On October 14, the second annual Homecoming Parade was the spark that began the day's activities. Many organizations entered floats in the parade, which was sponsored by the Program Council. The floats were judged on the basis of size, originality, and style.

During halftime of the Sharpstown game, Linda Penrod was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1977-78. After the game, the Booster Club sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance. Along with the distribution of door prizes, the sounds of "Lucky" brought the memorable day to a close.

Festivities Center Around Homecoming

Linda Penrod experiences excitement, while escort John Buckley shares her emotion.

"Poor Claire," sighs a relieved Laura Lancaster, as Claire DeStefano is forced to tolerate a sudden aroma of ring around the jersey set off by Wynn Mabray and Steve Cooksey.

Miss LEE (Mark Winter) obviously had the overwhelming support of the Generals in the Key Club Pep Rally.

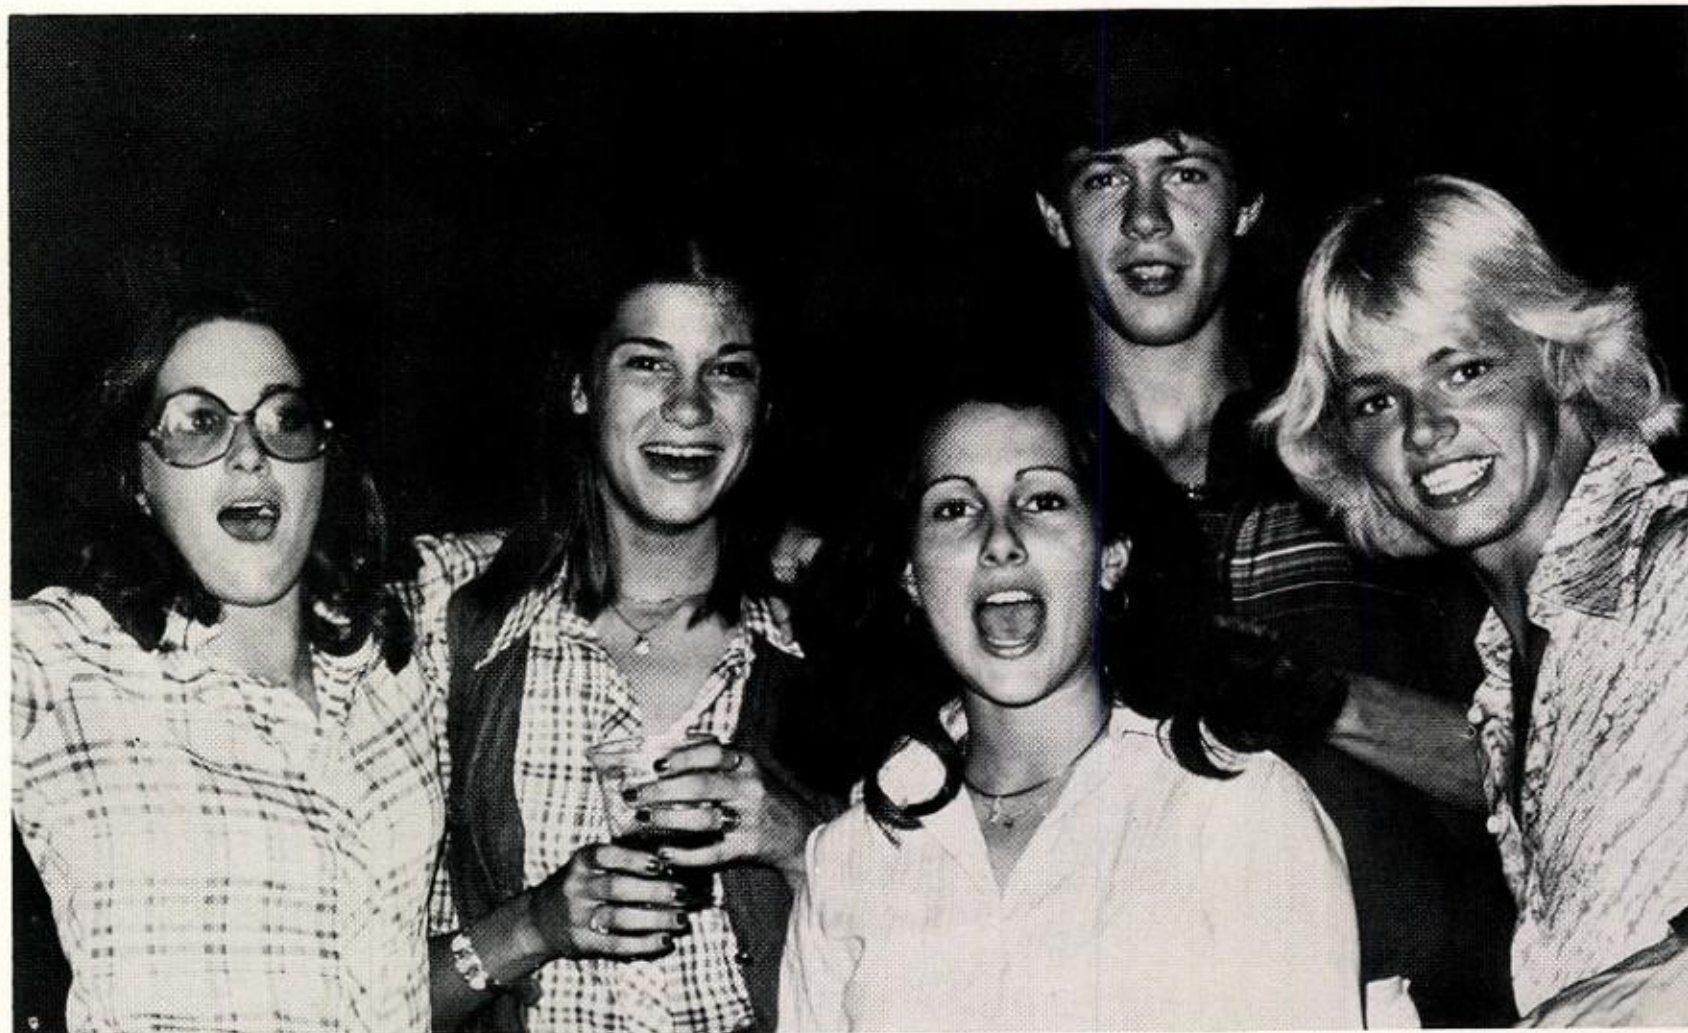

Holidays Come

Cliff Nickel wonders what has come over a devilish Melanie Mason.

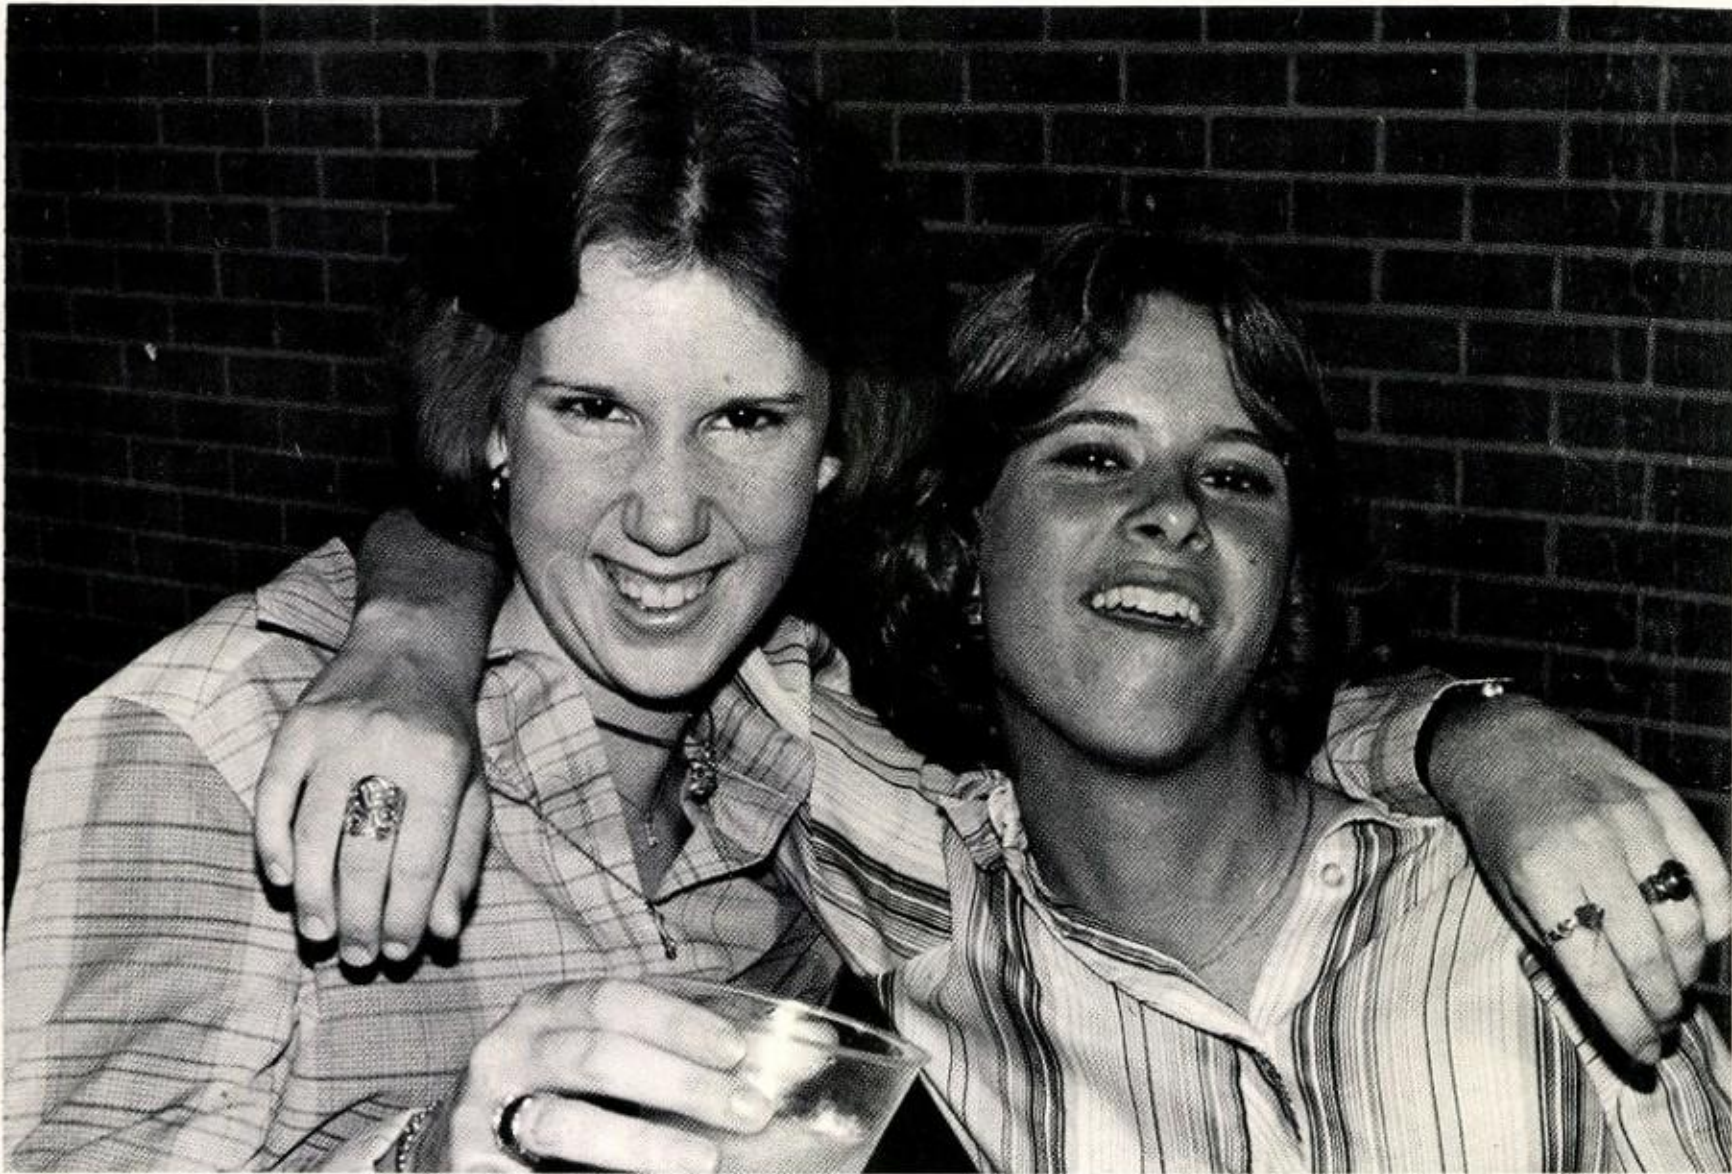

"I wonder what he's up to?" questions Cathy Hays as Darla Doughty doubts John (Santa) Buckley's "good" intentions.

"We may not be able to sing 'Auld Lang Syne' very well, but we sure can ring in the New Year!" proclaim Sharon McBride, Donna Widner, Jenny Cameron, Doug McGregor, and Rick Shaw.

. . . Celebrations Begin

Michelle Darnell and Roxanne DuBose congratulate each other on their superb job of ditching their dates.

"Maybe with a little more make-up I'll be able to journey to Never-Never Land," dreams a hopeful Lori Raus.

The involvement of the majority of students in many activities was the key to this successful school year. School spirit was present throughout the year at the various athletic events. The Lieutenants, band, Spirit Committee, and cheerleaders were a major part of the many that contributed to the spirit at Lee.

In an effort to make Lee a more enjoyable place, many clubs worked to brighten the conditions for both the students and faculty. The Key Club initiated a major clean-up project to improve the appearance of the school. Clubs were assigned different areas to clean up. With this cooperation, the school grounds were kept clean.

The Student Council showed their concern through their involvement in the "Rap with Reagan" sessions. The Hospitality Club instituted a new teacher appreciation program. The choral and drama departments staged several performances to entertain the student body. With all the activities, every student had an opportunity to become involved and to improve Lee.

(Above) "I've heard of spit balls, but where did all of this slime come from?" questions David Hodson.

(Right) Tracy Jarrell is a chicken when it comes to laying.

Blaise Hadly, Brian Campbell, and Clark Grigsby agree that one fruit deserves another.

Involvement Brightens Outlook

(Above) Debbie Revels thinks to herself, "If he doesn't go through with it this time, I'm going to ' #!*-/ '," as Joe Frazier begins to feel the aching of cold feet at the HECE style show.

"My advice to sophomores is — If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again," states an experienced Lee Hightower.

(Right) "If this lake doesn't get deeper, I'm really going to be up a creek," says a washed-out Lindsey Davis.

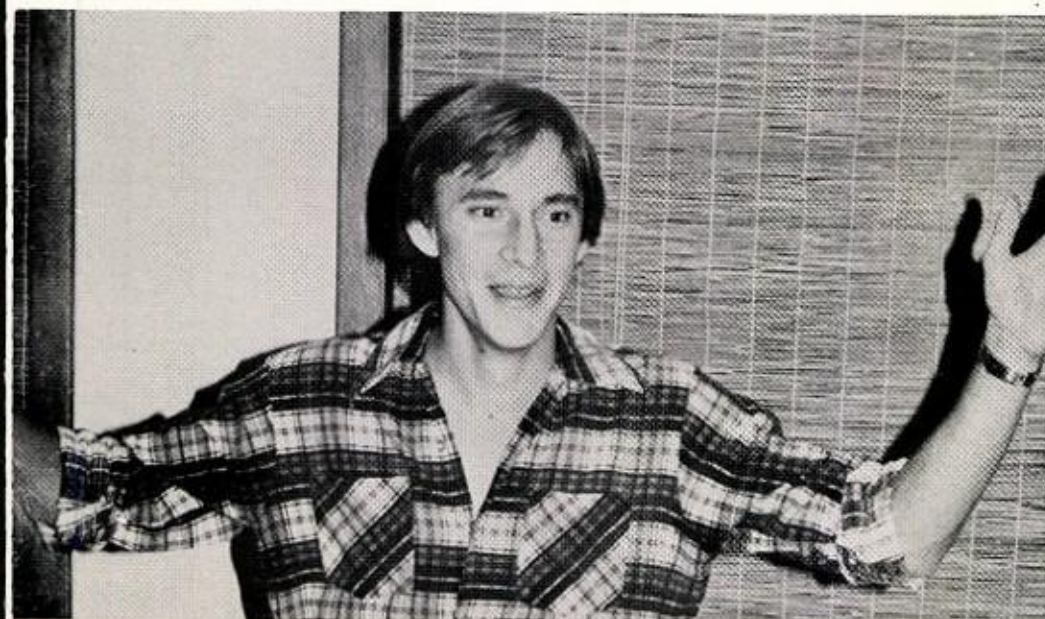

Experiences

Prove Lasting

Barry Roquemore prepares to do the funky chicken, while Doug Crosswell grimaces with disgust.

Stacy Scott, Carol Cummings, and Gail Bakke relive the thrill of Elvis at the Johnny Dee Concert.

Sweeny Doehring misses his exemption opportunities and feverishly studies for finals.

Positive Thinking Pays Off

Christi Tipps, Beth Kinney, Carol Kelly, Cindy Thomas, Diane Smith, Julie Stone, and Allison Ashbaugh bundle up during the snowy day in January of '78.

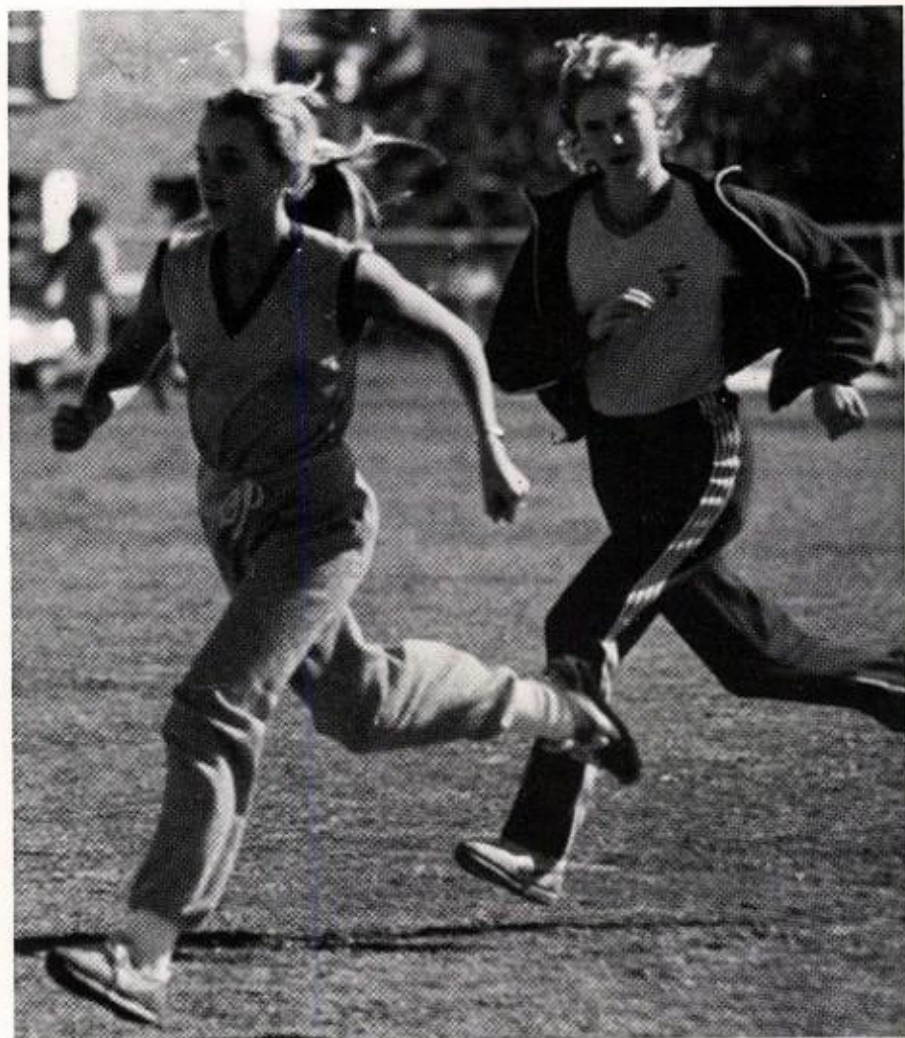

Anxious girls plan their after graduation activities.

Sunny Days Mark Spring's Arrival

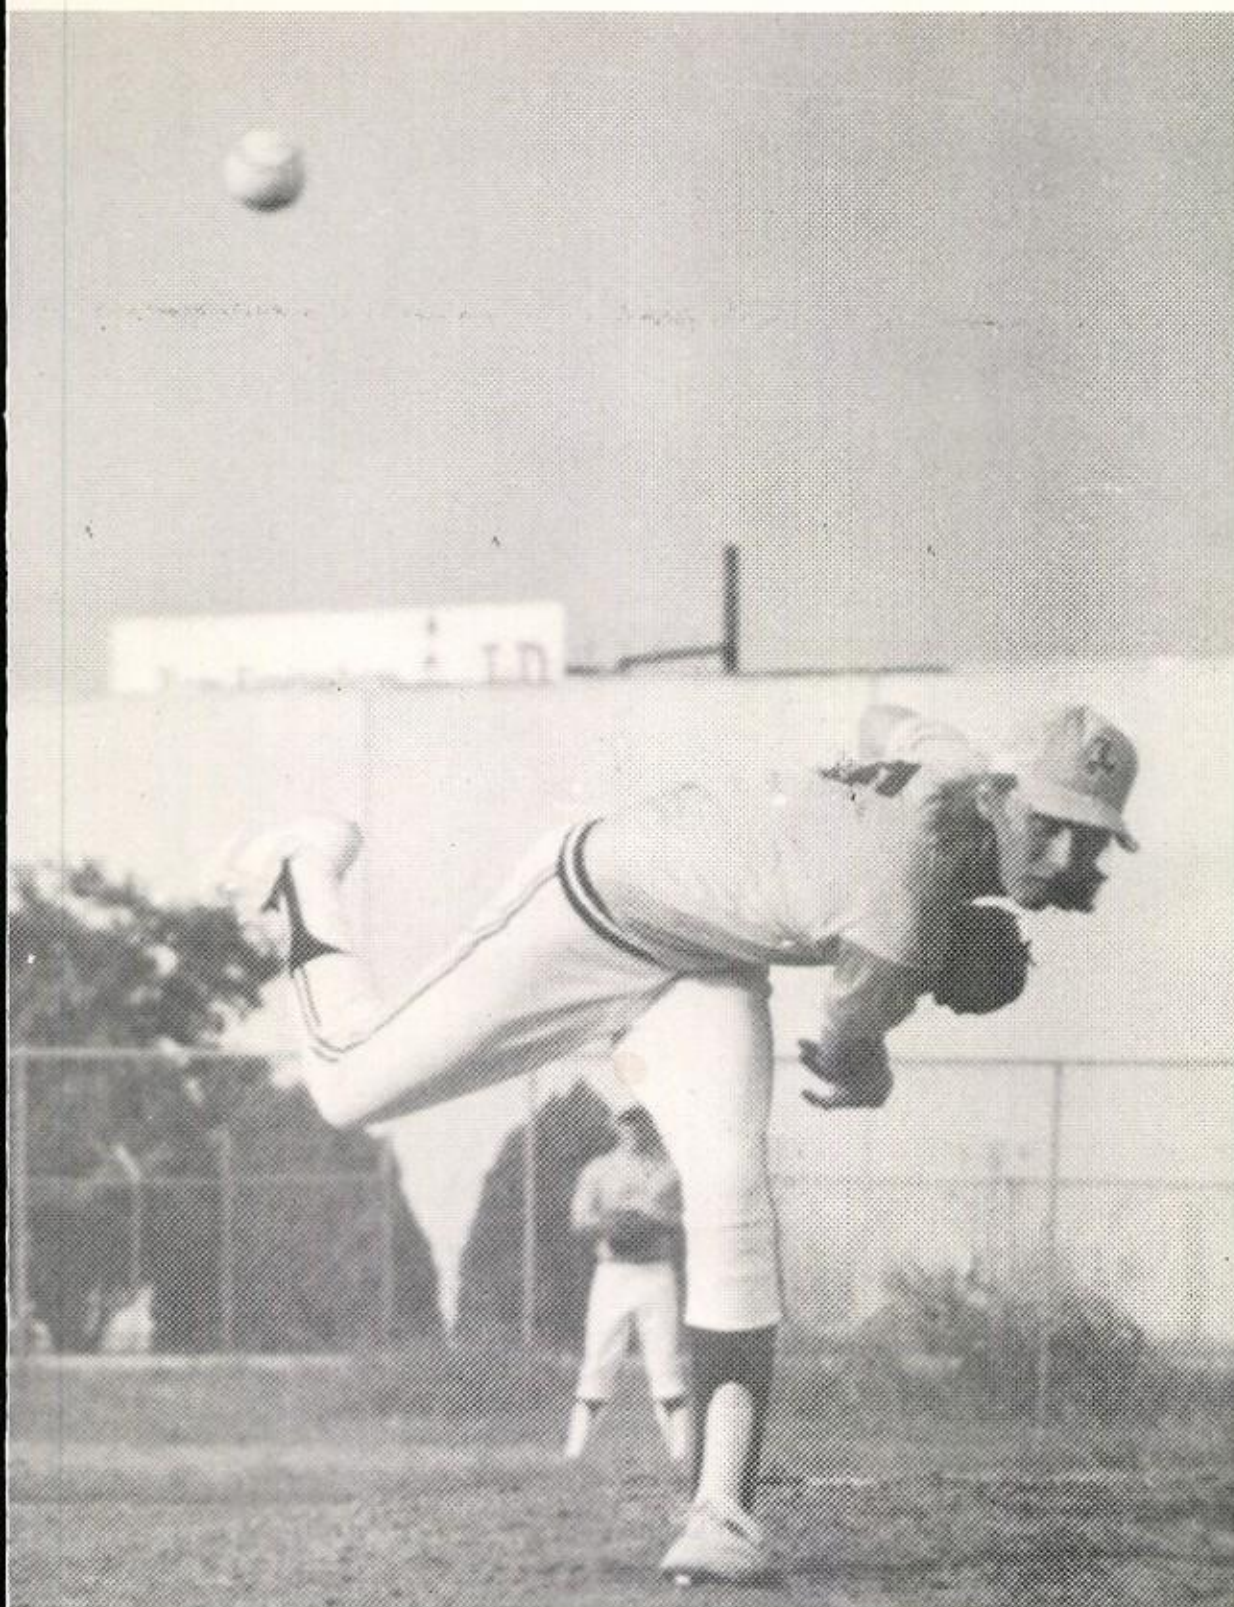

"It's a bird, it's a plane, it must be a dump truck says a starry eyed Patty Lucas.

Susan Walker and Lee Ann Davis race to JOJO's to save their car from the tow truck.

The "gang" and their gals stop rockin' and rollin' long enough to pose for a picture on "50's Day."

Randy Holmes hurls another blazing fast ball.

Jim Perryman lends a helping hand to a misguided student.

Dave Lewis grabs the golden egg while Robert Kneppler and David Jorden begin to become disenchanted with the Easter Celebration.

Places people go; things people do. Activities at Lee reach far beyond the school campus itself. Students seem to gather at the same places almost every day. One such place is Across the Street. No matter what time it is or whether it is a school day or not, there always seems to be a good group of people representing Lee at the restaurant. Sometimes activities at the school attract students. Such was the case with the play "Wizard of Oz." The superior quality of acting blended with the superb sets to produce a very enjoyable and entertaining performance. Student Life "after school hours" was varied considerably but it was a welcome relief from the daily routine of schoolwork.

Carin Coleman uses her natural charm and proves to be a top salesperson in the class T-shirt sale.

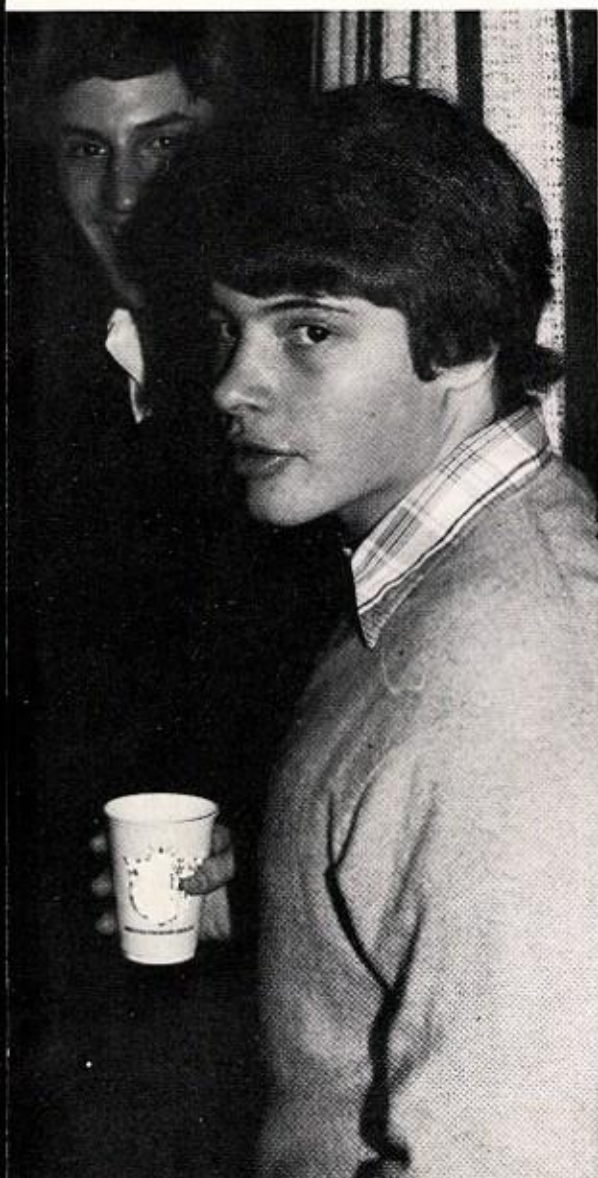

Steven Miller gets the pants beat off him and just about loses his socks at the FFA "Ag" show.

Gloria (Mary Anne Frison) shows Dorothy (Claire DeStefano) the Emerald City Palace in the Land of OZ.

Paul Gray hopes a sprinkle a day will keep FELIX's odor away.

"Oh no! I told her I was going out of town." -Duncan Butler hides out after seeing his gullible pursuer.

Places People Go

"I can't believe that you're not a witch," exclaims the sorceress of the North (Lanny Kilchrist) after Dorothy (Claire DeStephano) reveals this stunning fact.

Stacy Barnard bites off more than she can chew while her three dates Tim Havard, Jeff Thompson, and David Ward, all get a mouthful.

With the rain ending and warm weather approaching, seniors began looking towards the beach instead of their books. Senior activities were nearing and students found it hard to keep their minds on school. Skip day, Prom night, and cap and gown day topped the list of events to bring the class of 78's days of Lee Tech to a close. The 16th annual Commencement Exercises were the finale for the graduating seniors' tenure at Lee.

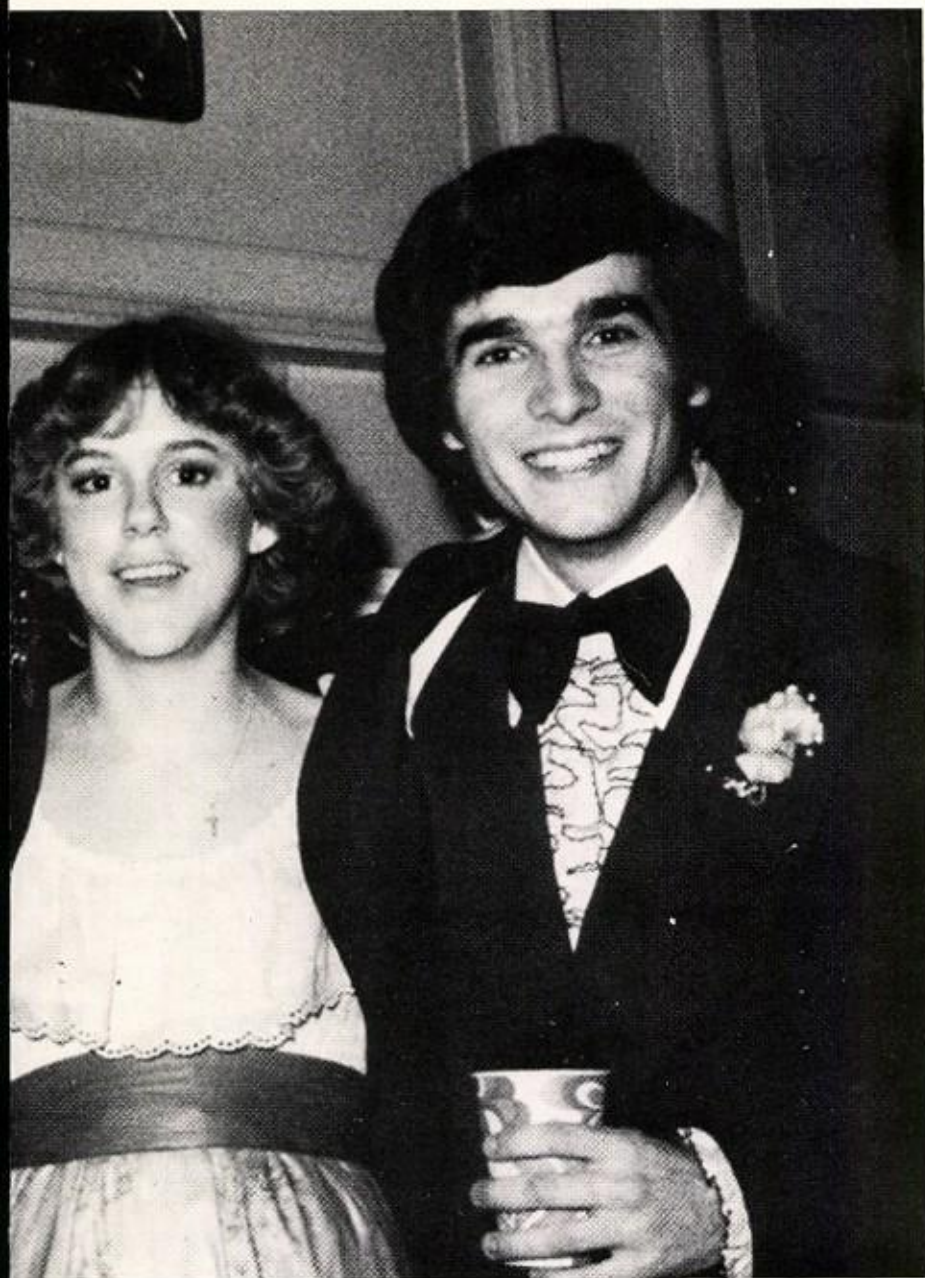

John Mayfield finds it hard to "hang in there" until graduation.

Seniors Count The Days

"But Mr. Bergen, I'm not eating out — I'm eating in," says a choked up Rod Nevitt to a suspicious Mr. Bergen.

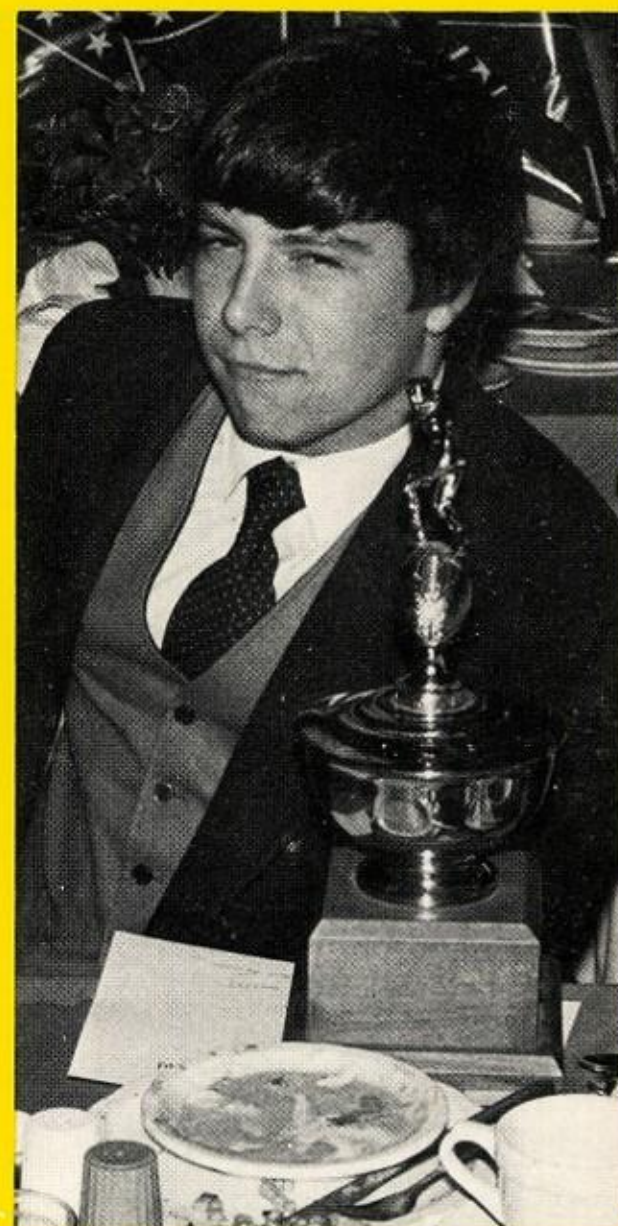

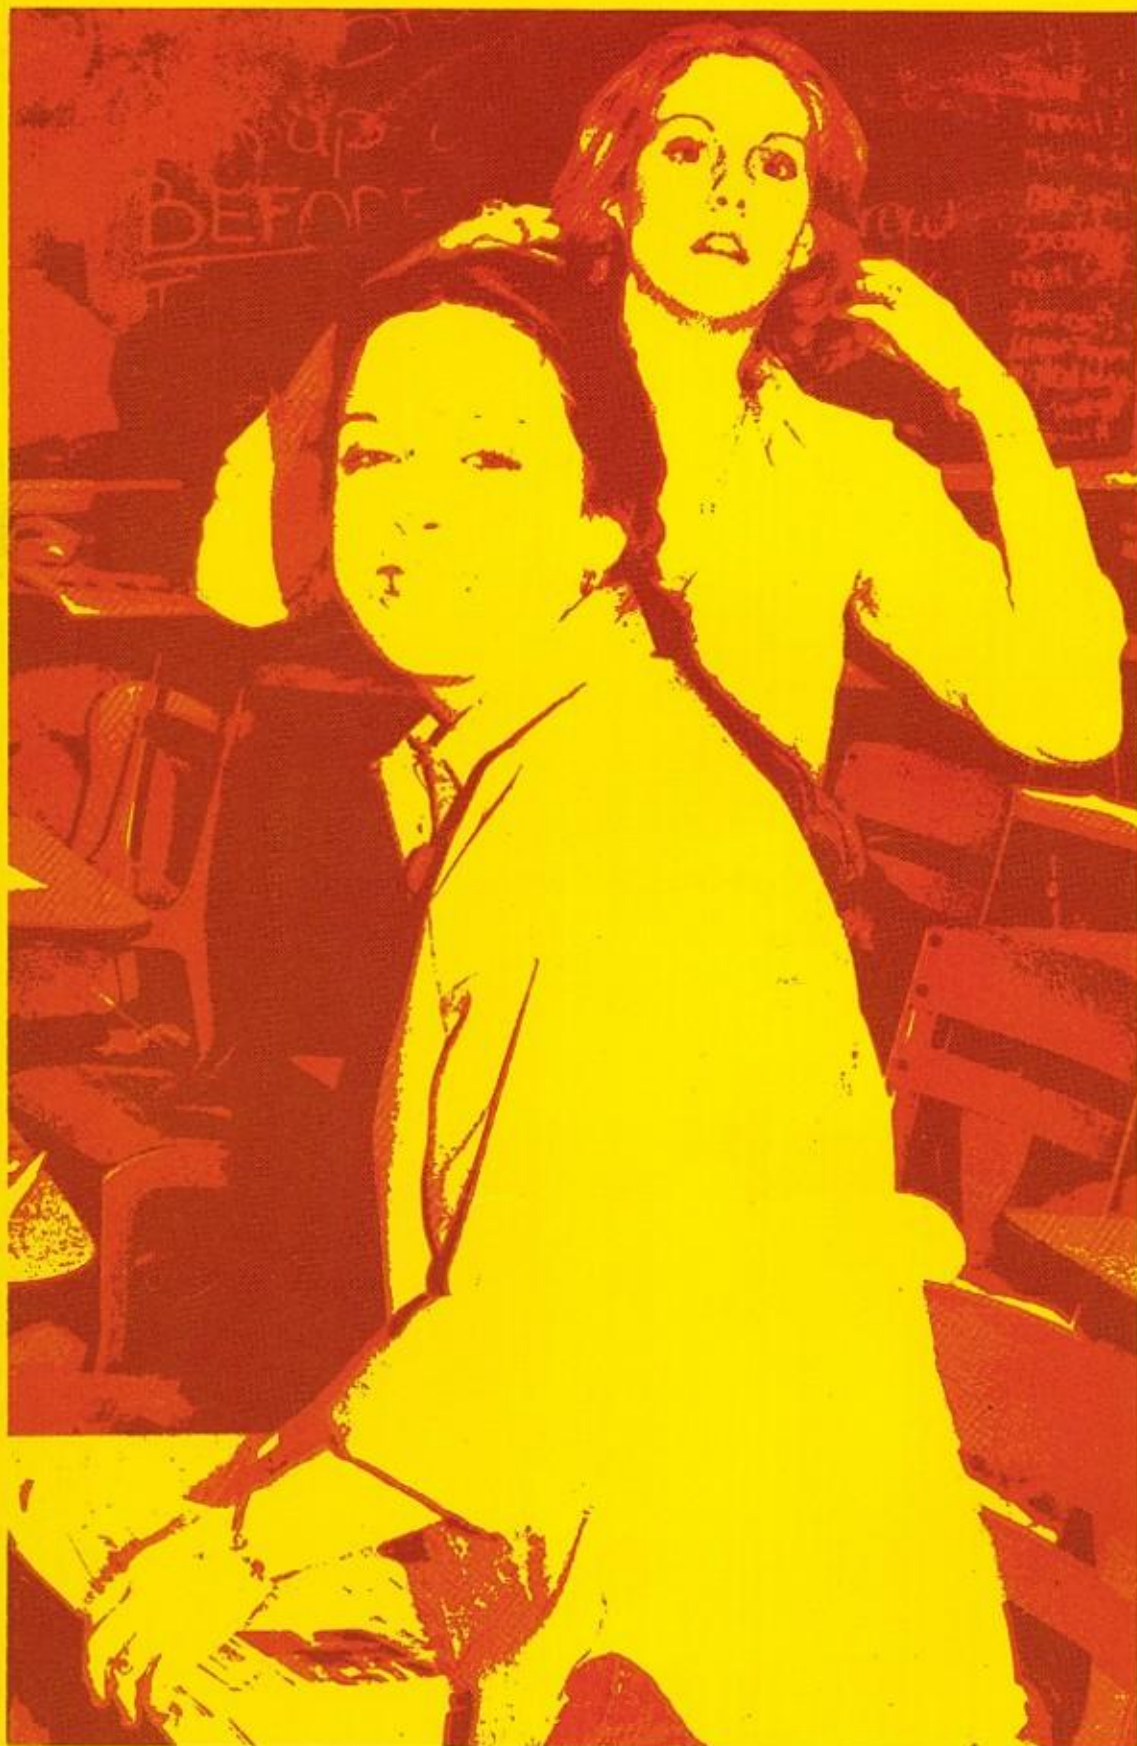

Enthusiastic Seniors fathom the depths of Oceanography.

YOUNG LEADERS

A select few outlined Lee's direction and character. Dedicated leaders represented and motivated others for the good of the entire student body, while superior academic skills merited admiration. The "cream of the crop" accepted these roles of responsibility — to set the pace of activity . . . to make it all "tick."

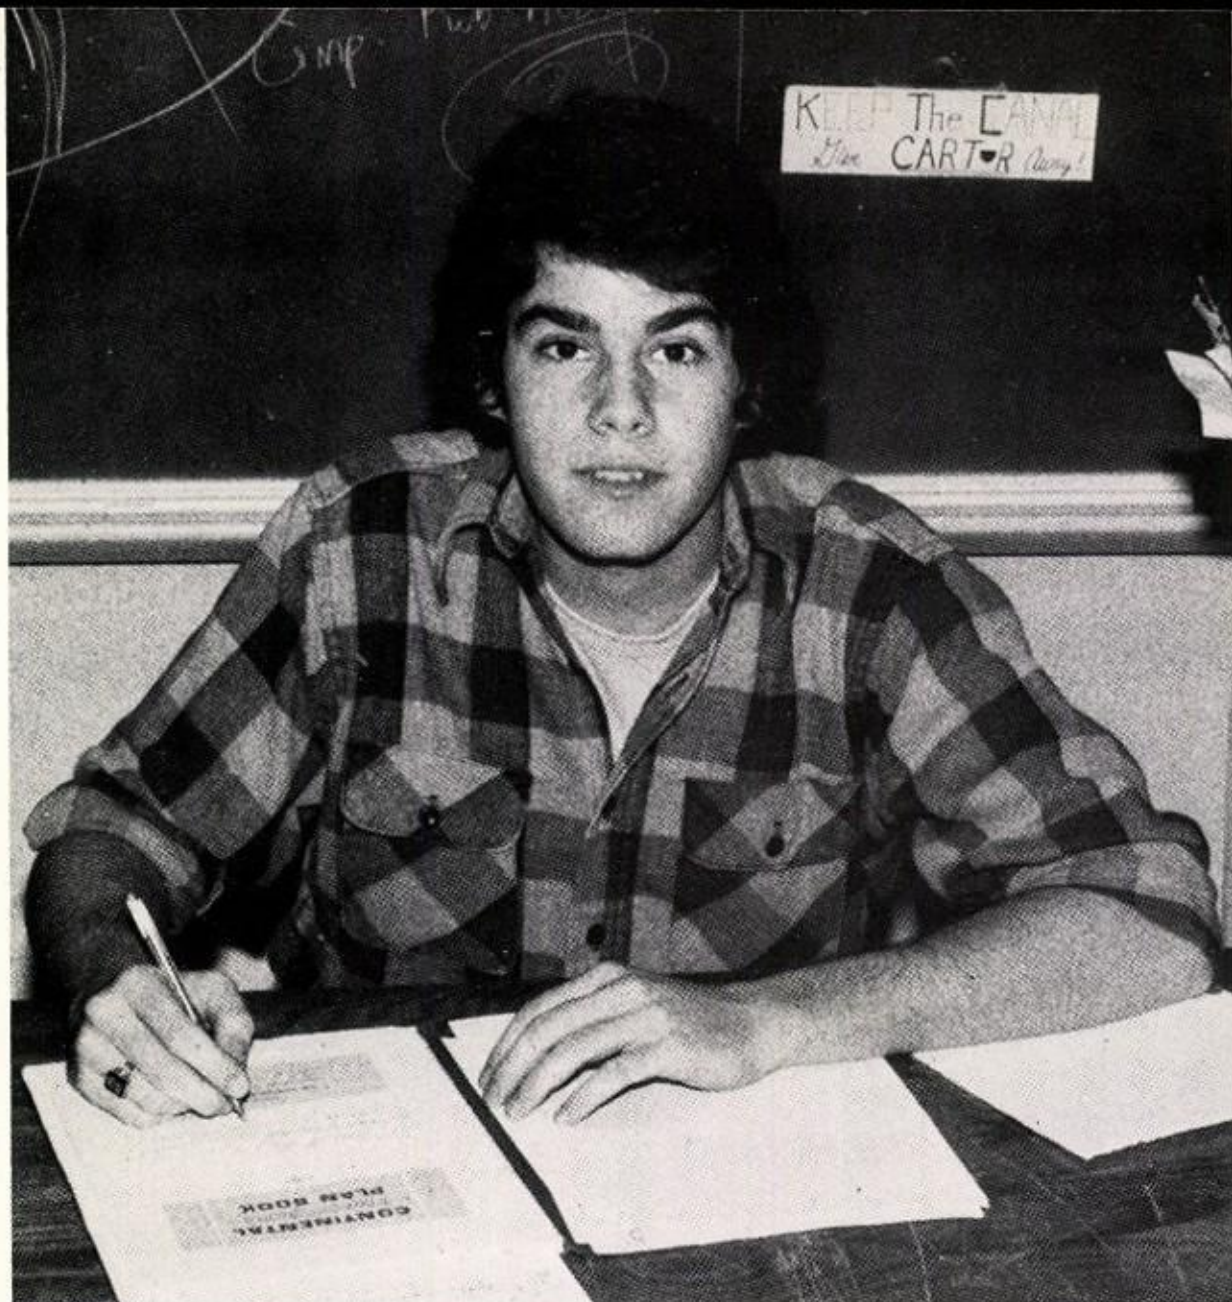

Cynthia Kostas, Anchor Club president, speaks at the city-wide Anchor Club convention which was held at Lee.

Jim Shepherd, Student Council president, examines the parking situation with the hope of someday alleviating the problem.

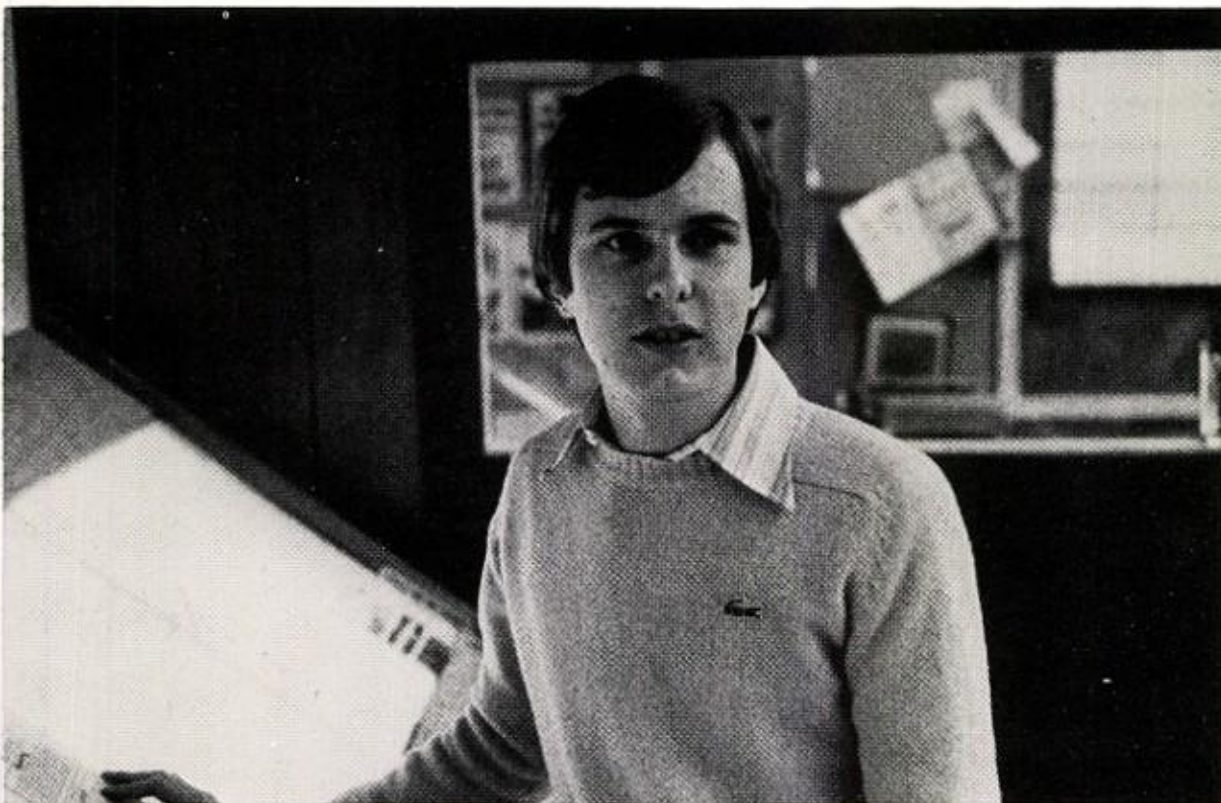

David Hodson, president of Interact Club, prepares for his club's next project.

Beth Leifeste and Ann Lynch, co-presidents of the Hospitality Club, attempt to show some true "Southern hospitality."

Devoted Leaders Preside

Paul Crowther, editor of the Traveler, puts final touches on a page before sending it to be printed. Paul is also the National Honor Society president.

Carter Grinstead, Key Club president, looks over one of his club's many service projects — the refurbishing of the school's trophy cases. Carter is also editor of the SABER.

Presidents of organizations show special qualities of leadership, as well as the willingness to devote a huge amount of time to their school. These students have the responsibility to lead their respective clubs to success in reaching certain goals. The time and effort given by these individuals and many others play an important role in the success of the school year.

Excellence Recognized Through Awards

Those students who excel in their academic work often go unrewarded. One way these achievers are recognized for their unique ability is by the presentation of awards of excellence. The different departments select a student who has shown outstanding talents in a particular field of study. The winners represent the departments as the top seniors in their respective subject area.

Students Honored For Superior Qualities

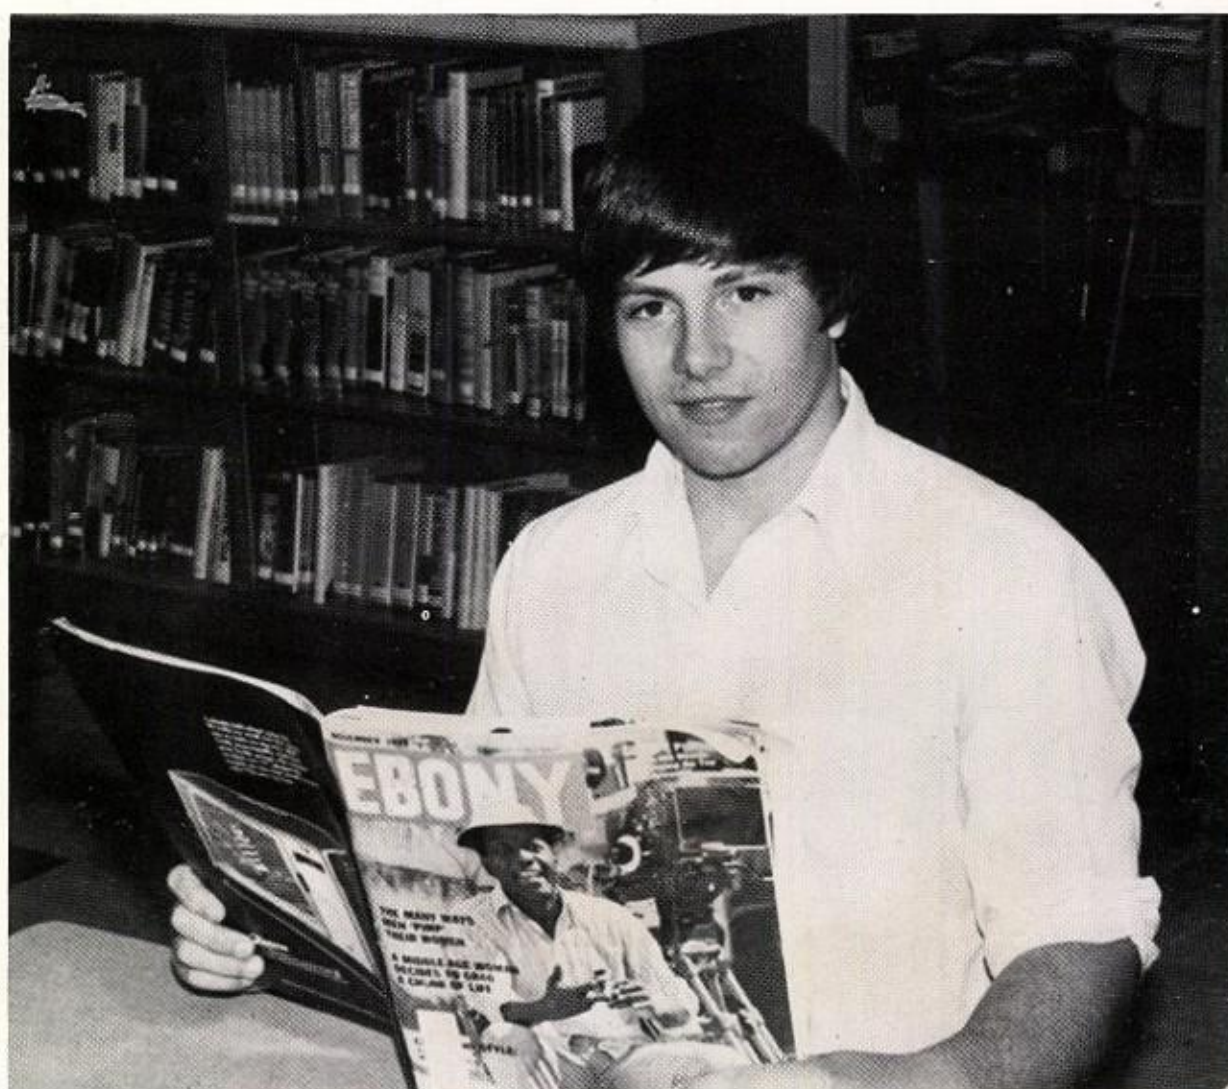

Brad Breland and Lorie Leyendecker won an opportunity to examine state government as representatives to Boys' and Girls' State.

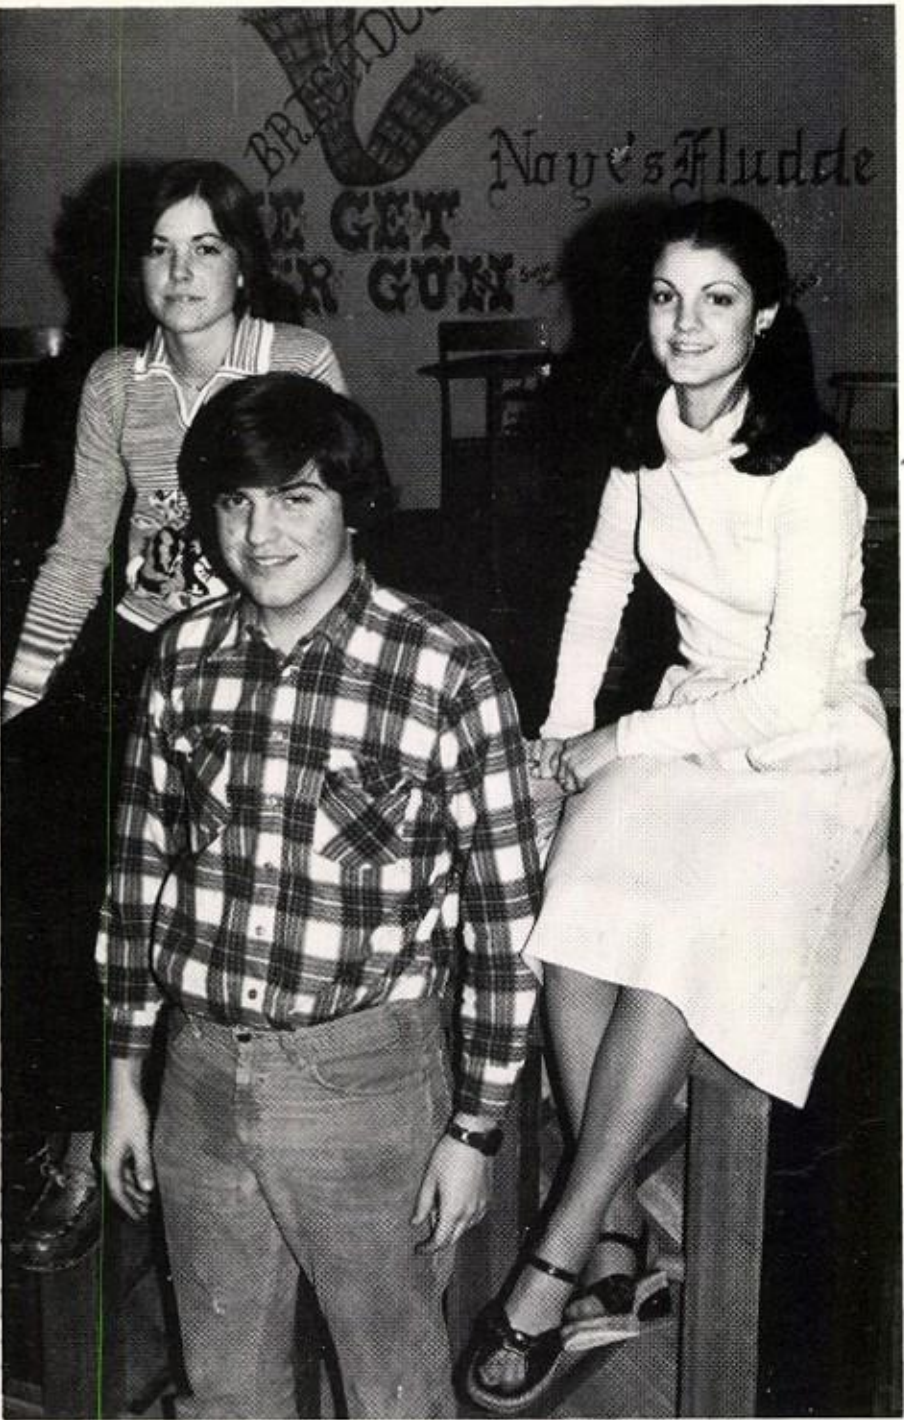

Mark Jones was elected trustee for Key Club International and represented its 80,000 members.

Hedi Parafina, Caroline Fant, Jim Baeder, and Dyer Greer were honored with the NCTE award for their superior writing skills.

Brian Campbell was chosen Capitol Scholar and went to Austin to see the state government at work.

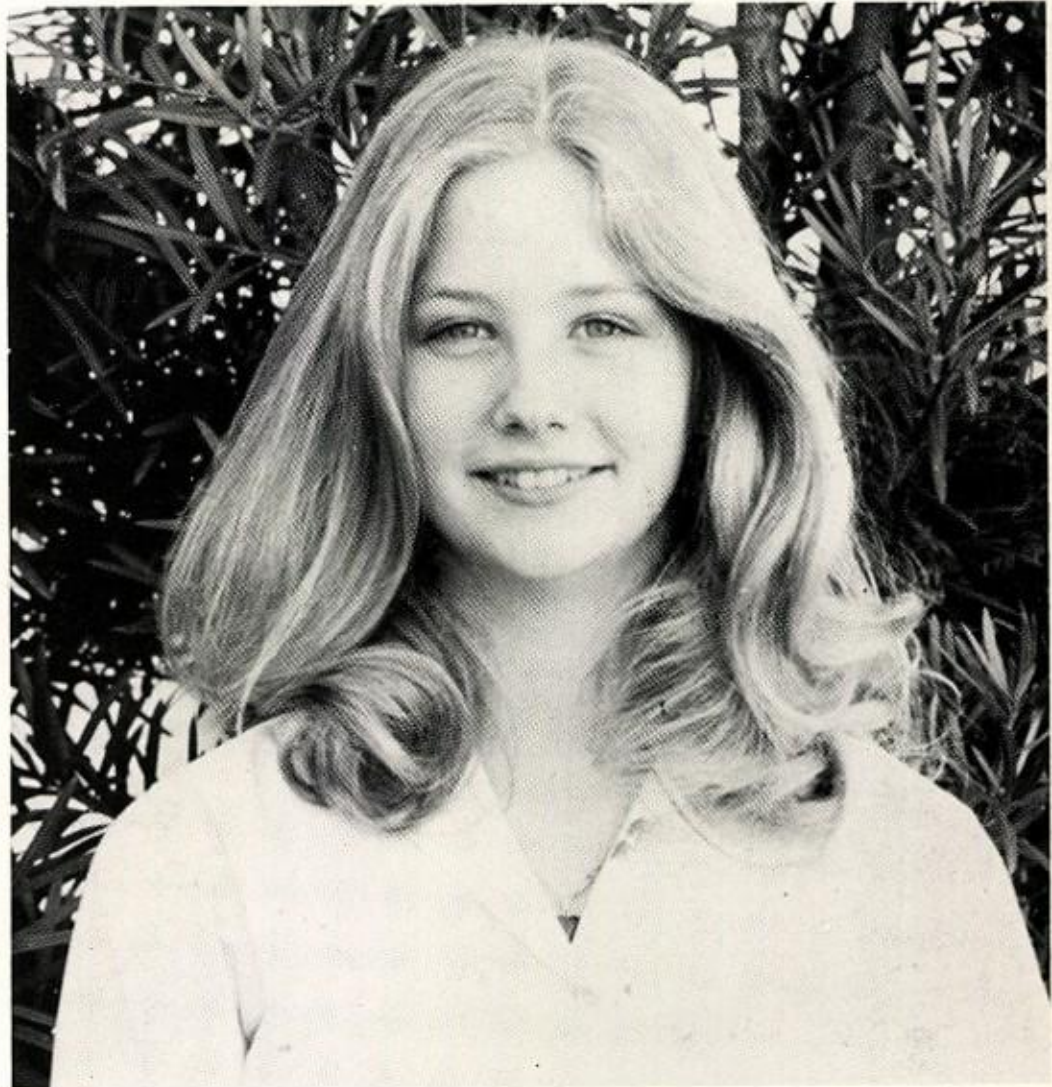

Claire DeStefano, Diana McKay, and Jason Smith were chosen as representatives to the All-State Choir and performed with top singers from all over Texas.

Students exhibited outstanding abilities in many different areas of curriculum. Each advanced in their own interests — everything from leadership to the development of one's talent. Several awards dealt with government awareness to ensure useful citizenship for the future while others honored outstanding talents in writing and musical abilities.

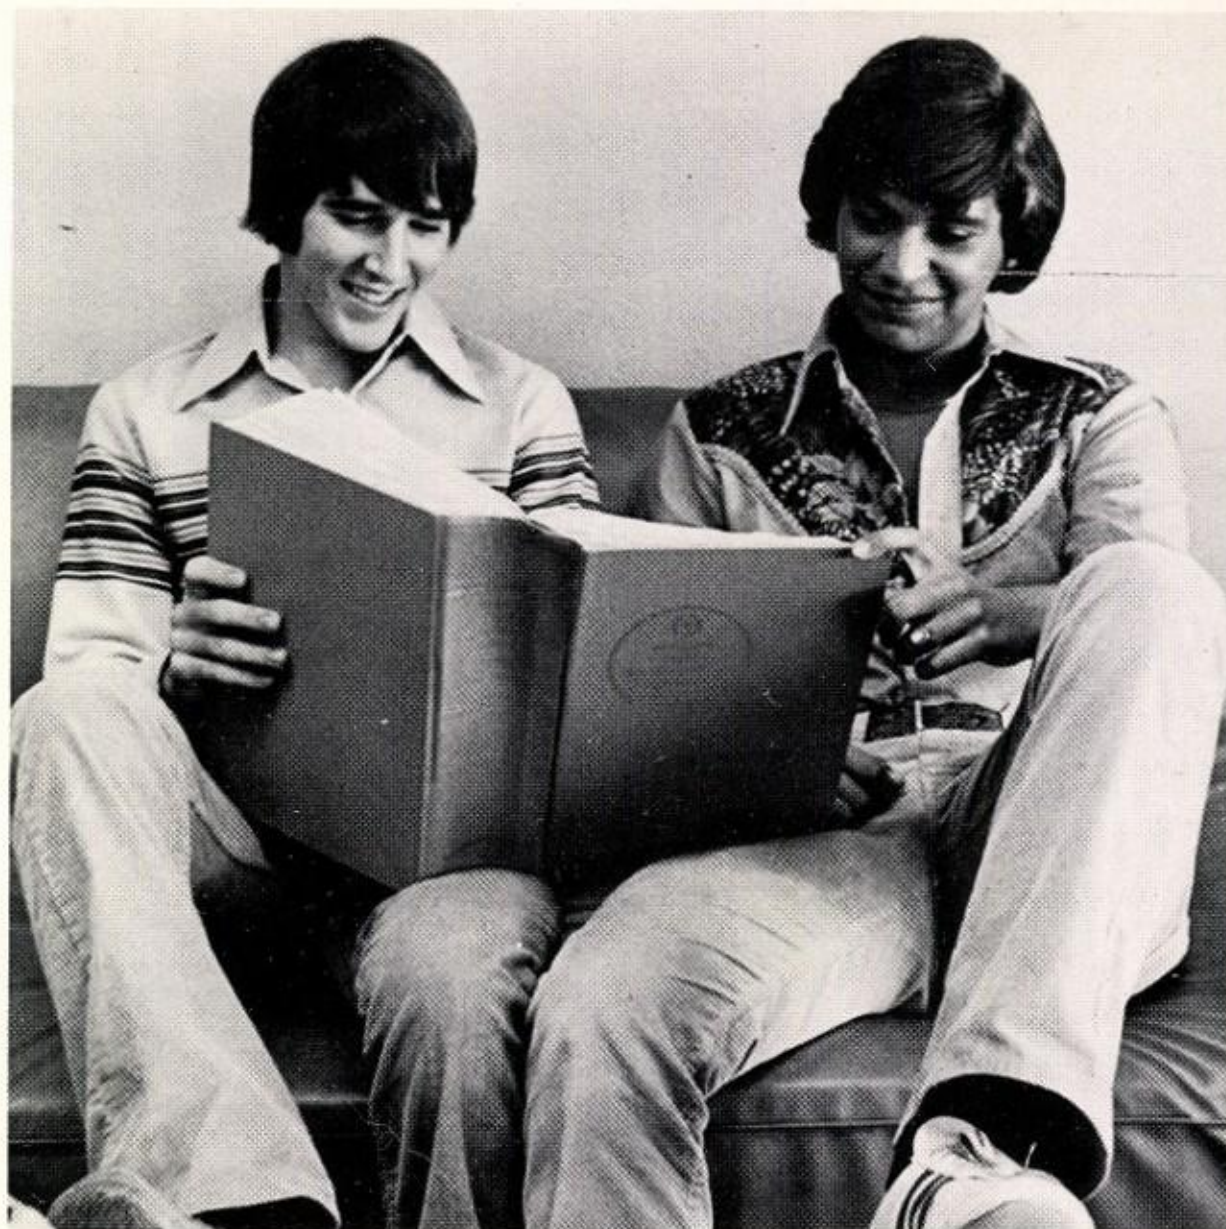

Mark Winter was chosen as the representative to Bill Archer's "Intern Program" and obtained a close-up view of the federal government.

Beverly Batten was honored with the DAR Award for her outstanding leadership qualities.

At the beginning of the year, twenty-two seniors were recognized for their superior scores on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test which was given as a part of the PSAT. These seniors displayed their exceptional skills in the fields of English and math.

Eight of the students named were National Merit Semi-finalists while the other fourteen received Letters of Commendation. All twenty-two scores were among the top four percent throughout the nation.

With new offensive and defensive setups, and a new coaching staff, the varsity squad entered the season with renewed enthusiasm. The enthusiasm paid off after four close losses, as the Generals defeated Westbury while hitting hard enough to send five Rebels to the hospital. Soon to come were the victory over Lincoln and the annual victory over Lamar. The team compiled a 3-7 record, but had its share of outstanding players. Bobby McBride earned a berth on the All-District offensive first team, while Ricky Brown, Richard Blades, and Thomas Reynolds captured spots on the Defensive first team. Blades and McBride were also named to the All-City second team. Mike Poujol, who doubled as a wide receiver and punter, was named to the All-City first team as punter, and was named to the All-State second team. New head coach "Bo" Harrison was assisted by Clint Birdwell and Richard Harrington.

Coach Steve Castillo

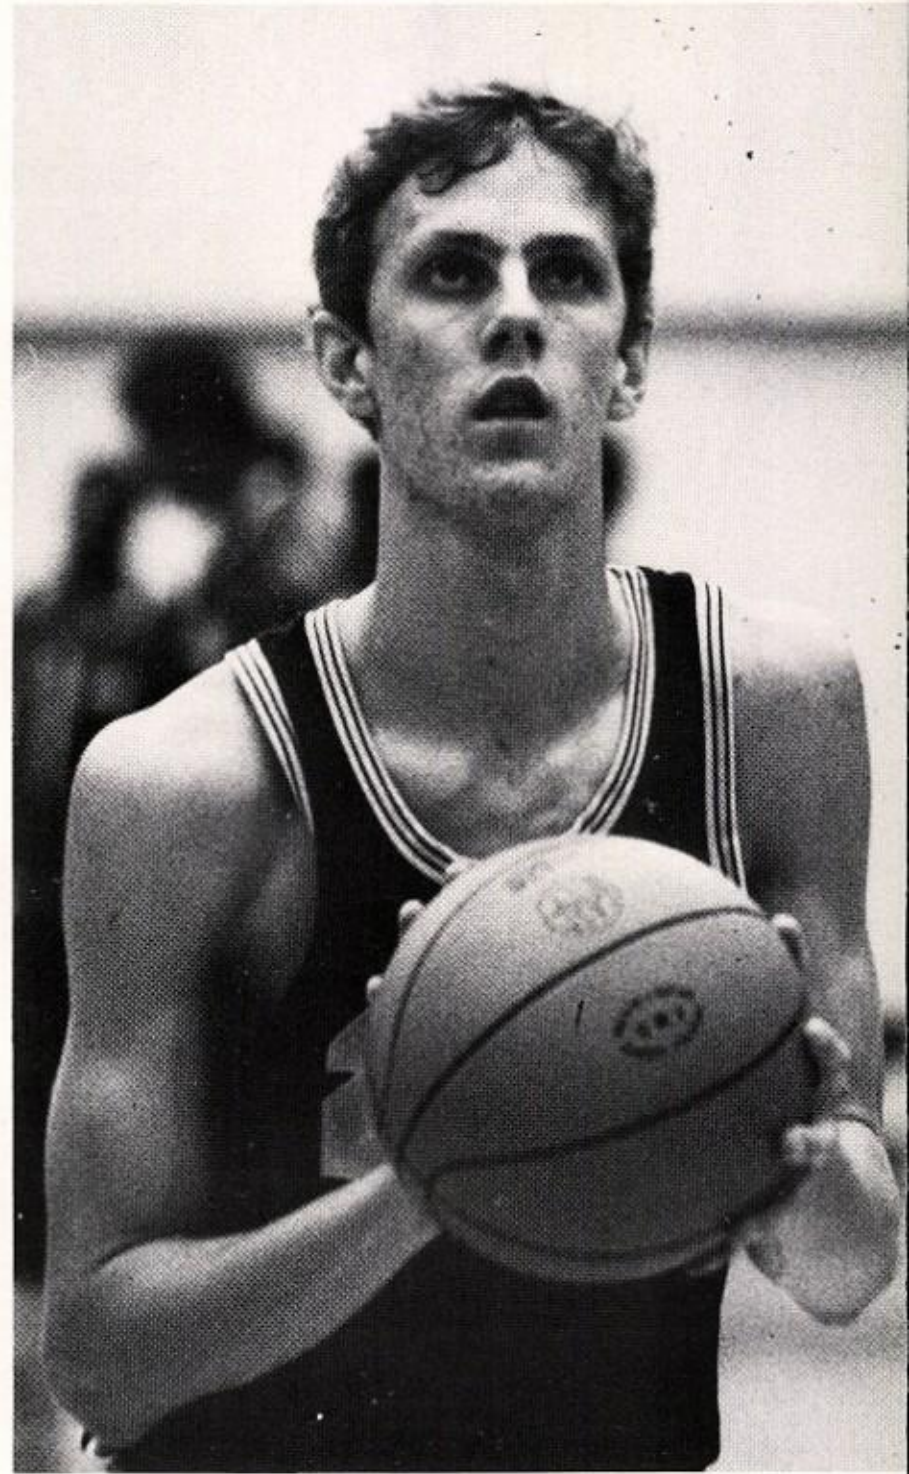

The Varsity Basketball team broke the record for victories in a season with their 21-19 record during 1978. With Coach Steve Castillo in his fifth year at the helm, the cagers played with intensity and hustle. But the lack of experience on the bench handicapped the team during its quest for the district title. Pre-district play was highlighted by victories over Westchester, Smiley, and Memorial. Three year letterman Phil Elders led the team with a 21.4 points per game average. Robert Ray and Bill McGee, along with Elders, were named captains. This nucleus was supported by the play of Dyer Greer, Martin Molano, and Mike Robertson.

Stevens Takes Over

Good overall depth and a strong pitching staff led by 3 year letterman Richard Burrows helped the 1978 baseball team to a successful season. Mark Stevens was named as new head coach, bringing new interest and enthusiasm to the baseball program. Two year lettermen Tommy Coulter, Allan Valle, and Charlie Milstead returned with their hard hitting and consistent fielding. Additional pitching help was provided by 2 year lettermen David Hodson and Greg Burkett and newcomer Bruce Conrad. Seniors Jerry Bales and Danny Lempke helped round out the infield. With strong pitching and hitting, and a talented infield, the team had a balanced attack which aided the team in key victories over other district contenders. Three quarters of the way through the District season, the Generals maintained a strong hold on second place with an 8-3 record.

With fifteen members of last year's team returning, and an excess of new talent, the track team fielded a very competitive team. Coach Richard Harrington, in his first year as head coach, was assisted by Coach "Bo" Harrison. Mike Jackson excelled in the 220 and 440 yard dash, and also anchored the mile relay. Conrad Ollenburger defended his city title in the pole vault, while Phil Elders continued to succeed in the high jump. Joe Blanco and Bill Walker consistently turned in strong performances to aid the team. Newcomers James King and David Randle blended in with the elder members of the team to formulate a strong district contender.

The team combined efforts to place third in District. Conrad Ollenburger, placed first in pole vault, with a District record of 13'4"; Phil Elders, second in high jump with 6'2"; Bill Walker, second in intermediate hurdles; David Randle, third in the 880; and Mike Jackson, Joe Blanco, Scott Sage, and James King took third in the 440 relay.

Although the 1977 volleyball season started out slow for the Generals, they rallied in the second round of play to even their season. Hornsby's Heffers made positive showings in tournaments at San Jacinto Jr. College where Susan Harrington won all-tournament player, and the Westbury Invitational where they placed third. Captain DeeAnn Turner led them to the city title by placing second in individual scoring with 472 points in the city tournament at Delmar. Margaret Weed and Andrea Potts followed closely with scores of 435 and 405 points respectively. The entire team finished with an undefeated record and a skill that cannot miss.

Cross Country-ers . . .

With a squad composed mainly of sophomores, Lee's cross country team proved a winning contender in all meets. Under the enthusiastic coaching of Jane Borneman, Lee placed in top brackets of the races in which they participated. Senior Merella Peterson was a great asset to the team by placing first in the district meet, thus leading the squad to top district honors and a berth in regionals. Other district standouts were Liz Horton and Tina Russell, who placed third and fourth respectively.

Entering the 1978 track season with the largest team ever, the Lee's Tracksters proved a strong contender in all events. Composed largely of underclassmen with three returning seniors, Miss Borneman's girls placed second in the district meet. Colleen Collins high jumped to a regional berth. Terri Setterlund qualified in both shotput and discus. The mile relay of Liz Horton, Tina Russell, Susan Walker, and Cindy Vento broke its own record and placed second. Both the 440 and 880 relay team of Susan Walker, Cindy Vento, Lorie Leyendecker with Mary Stone and Donna Widner also qualified.

Lee Swims To State

Returning with a squad composed entirely of underclassmen, the 1977-78 swim team swam away with impressive victories. Practices conducted by Coach Jeanne Reynaud at Jane Long Jr. High developed the team into a strong contender for state honors. The team opened the season with decisive victories in preliminary meets. The relay team of Paula Haye, Carol Howell, Heidi Hahn, and Tamara Miller qualified for state competition. Heidi Hahn and Carol Howell also placed individually.

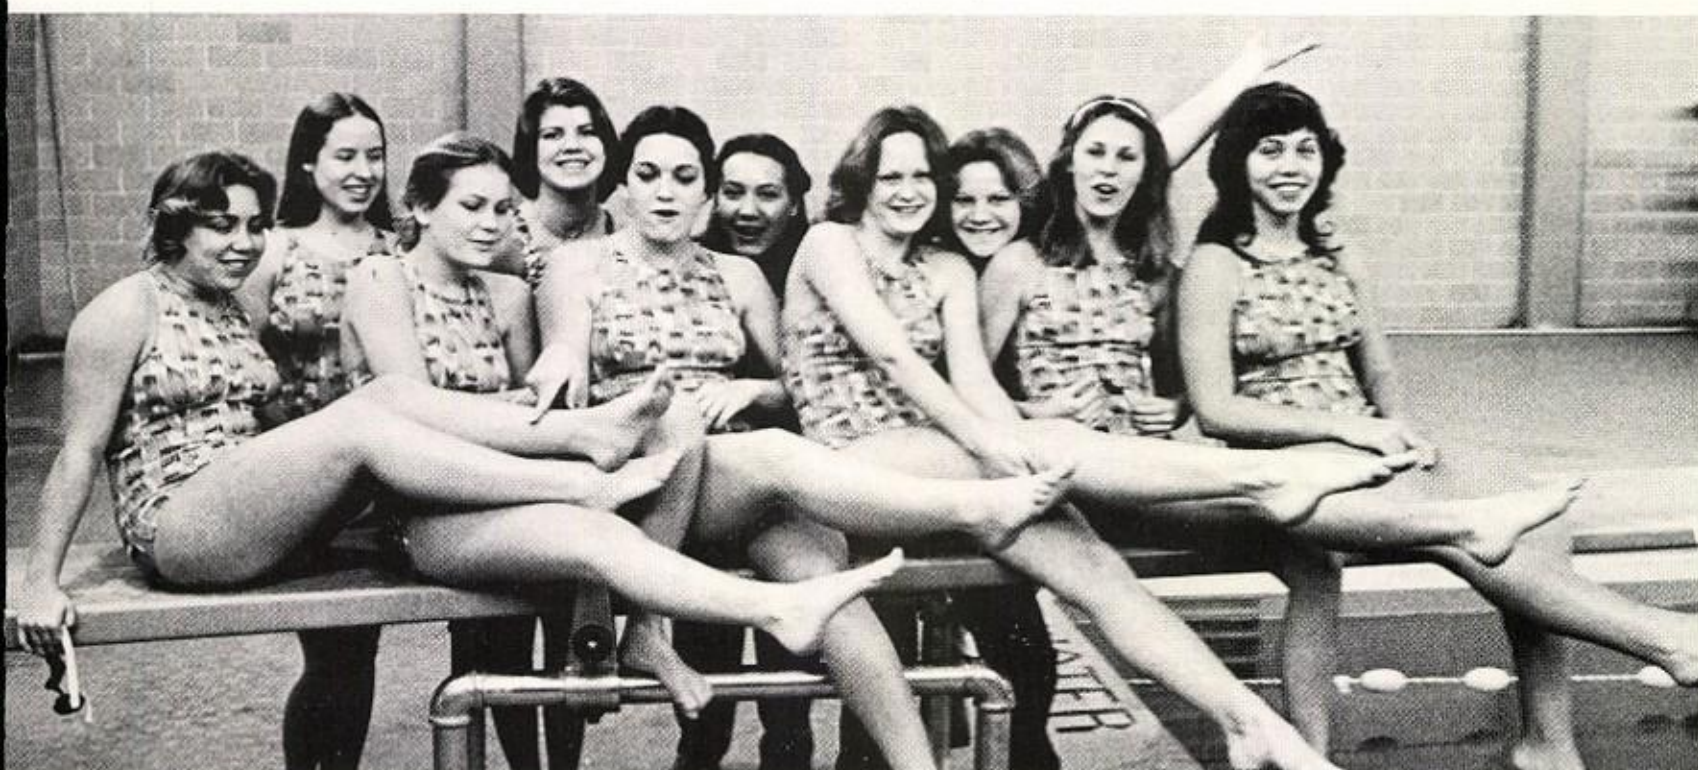

"First one to finish gets to work out with the boy's team tomorrow," cries Terri Lemmon to a now inspired Sharon McBride and Mary Kay Cottingham.

Cindy Vento and Colleen Collins dived for fourth and third place honors respectively in regional competition.

"I'm glad I'm not swimming your lane, with you having a cold and all," states Jennifer Tweeton to a slimy Sharon McBride.

Raqueteers Prosper

With the blend of five returning lettermen and eight untested sophomores, the tennis team worked together to post impressive victories in preliminary tournaments. The constant encouragement of Mrs. Ella Allen was a plus factor in the team's morale.

Junior Christie Baker won first place district honors and qualified for regional competition for the second consecutive year. She defeated her opponent with a perfect score of 6-0, 6-0.

In district competition, the team won first place with Cheryl Wilson earning medalist honors and Susan Harrington a close runner-up. Cheryl Wilson also won regionals, thus qualifying for state competition. Together, the team placed fourth in regionals.

The Student Council members with their chief, Mr. Mac (Tom McElroy) mediated once again between students and administration. They drew up and presented many proposals concerning the controversial topics of parking space, the smoking area and open campus for the 1978-79 school year. The council also participated in "Raps with Reagan."

The members serviced the school and community with Teacher Appreciation programs and the Eyebank Bikeathon. Their pompom sale helped finance members to attend the Texas State Convention in Dallas and a workshop in Austin.

Keys Clean Campus

By serving both the school and the community, the Key Club gained leadership and responsibility. Under the guidance of Mr. Henri Gadbois, members strived toward higher goals.

Adding to its activities, the Key Club sponsored a school-wide clean-up program. They also spent much time renovating the trophy cases. In December, the club brought another new activity to Lee: a program entitled "Santa Day" where pictures could be taken with Santa Claus.

Members, throughout the year, continued to serve by participating in programs at M. D. Anderson Hospital, Grady Elementary and Ripley House. The club also sponsored a canned food drive for the needy, activities at Burnett Bayland Orphanage, College Night, the Leadership Banquet, and in conjunction with the Anchor Club, they hosted Career Day. All in all, over seventy projects were completed.

With funds gathered through grapefruit sales, the Key Club sent members to conventions and conferences throughout the country.

Spirit Abounds

Always trying to keep up the school's pep, Spirit Committee members worked long hours preparing for each sporting event. Favors and goodies went to athletes of every sport all during competing seasons. Throughout the fall, the Committee painted countless numbers of signs, both large and small, for each football game. They also supported and helped the cheerleaders with all pep rallies.

With the help of Miss Doris Counce, the Spirit Committee kept everyone fired up. There was a spirit chain race where each class was pitted against the other. Also, the club sponsored the Big Sign Contest and the Most Spirited Homeroom Contest. At the climax of the football season, the Committee brought the band "Lucky" to Lee for the Annual Homecoming Dance.

But the end of football was not the end of the work. Each team gained recognition, and many of the teams were treated with a slave-for-a-day — a Spirit Committee member. And though not every team was victorious, the spirit was still growing.

To help finance all the expenditures, the Committee members held car washes, and sold balloons, glass mugs, and hero suckers. All the work was for but one purpose . . . to keep the spirit jumping.

Lee's Interact participated in many projects beneficial to the community this year.

The members met on the first Monday of each month at Western Sizzlin' to plan all activities. Some of their major plans included frequent cleanups at nursing homes, big brother/little brother outings, giving to and entertaining the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas time and taking part in work days for their Rotary members.

Interact also benefited the school. With their leader, Mr. Dale Glover, they guarded Uncle Bob to, at and from the games. Many of the guys also stayed and guarded Lee before the Lamar game.

Interact topped off its productive year with a weekend trip to Port Aransas where they relaxed from all their club activities.

Southern Hospitality

Miss Charlotte Haynes and her girls not only displayed hospitality, they personified it through every activity they undertook. Their smiling faces were seen as they serviced Lee by ushering at PTA/Open House, Graduation, Teacher's Tea, and their Clean up projects with their brother club, Interact.

The girls also spread cheer at places other than Lee. They gave the children at Crockett Elementary school a Christmas party and they sent Thanksgiving baskets to needy families. To finance their numerous projects the girls sold Shamrock suckers for St. Patrick's Day.

In the spring, the girls had their annual banquet and election of officers.

News Travels Fast

Supervised by Regina Satlof, the TRAVELER staff worked diligently to produce their bi-monthly publication. Each issue dealt with news in the school and area, and introduced new faces and places.

TRAVELER staffers won many awards for their creativity in journalism: Dale Cheesman received first place for his cartoons from the Texas High School Press Assoc. Paul Crowther and Ann Whittington won third place honors from the San Jacinto College Press Club. Crowther and Jeff Moore were awarded proficiency citations from the Interscholastic League Press Conference.

NHS Recognizes Excellence

Outstanding qualities of leadership, character, and service were recognized in Lee's chapter of the National Honor Society.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Gay Chaudoir, the NHS accepted only the highest percentage of students in Junior and Senior classes. Membership was based on service points and grades. The new members of the society were inducted in late April.

Journalists Honored?!

For the first time in the history of Lee, Quill & Scroll, the honor society for high school journalists, made its mark. With both SABER and Traveler staff members represented in the club, the heated rivalry between the two publications hit its peak. During the election of officers, things definitely became interesting. Both staffs had prearranged their ballots and because of a majority of yearbook people in the club, the SABER nominated officers won. Then the battle began. Friends fought as sponsors Margaret Wisdom and Regina Satlof remained neutral. After much controversy, a compromise was reached, each group was to have their own set of officers.

Formed to recognize students with honor achievement in Spanish, the Spanish National Honor Society strived to uphold high scholastic standards.

To finance the year's activities and services, honor students conducted a candy sale. These sales provided money for a Thanksgiving basket project. Activities also included a Hat Dance as well as a chili supper.

To conclude planned activities, the SNHS inducted new members and elected new officers at the end of the year.

The purpose of the Latin National Honor Society was to foster an interest in the classics.

With encouragement from their sponsor, Mrs. Bertie Smith, the students met twice a month to discuss ideas and plan activities. LHS had two major banquets, a Roman toga "get acquainted" banquet in the fall and a spring banquet where they chose the new officers. This club also sponsored a field day with the Roman games here at Lee.

Razz M' Tazz was created to entertain children and the young at heart. All of the troupe's mimes, puppets, songs, dances, and stories were created by the few selected members. The show was built for travel throughout the city and many shows were done free of charge. With money collected from donations, the troupe bought a metallic screen to add to their props.

Under the guidance of Ms. Linda Shuler and assistant director, Megan Foley, Razz created a show to be loved by all.

Dramalee Opens Doors

Sitting: Vice-President: Megan Foley; President: Johnny Berry; Historian: Maryanne Frison. Standing: Secretary: Keys Curry; Treasurer: Tommy Michael

Backed by Ms. Linda Shuler, Dramalee gave students a chance to be involved in the theatre. Encouragement to develop interests was constant and there were many workshops and presentations students could participate in.

The main function of Dramalee was to produce and sponsor the annual musical production. This year, The Wizard of Oz was presented, as well as The Company of Wayward Saints, which was used in UIL competition.

Dramalee members travelled around the city to see various plays. They also went to New York during Easter for a theatre tour. The University of Houston Drama Workshop was also visited.

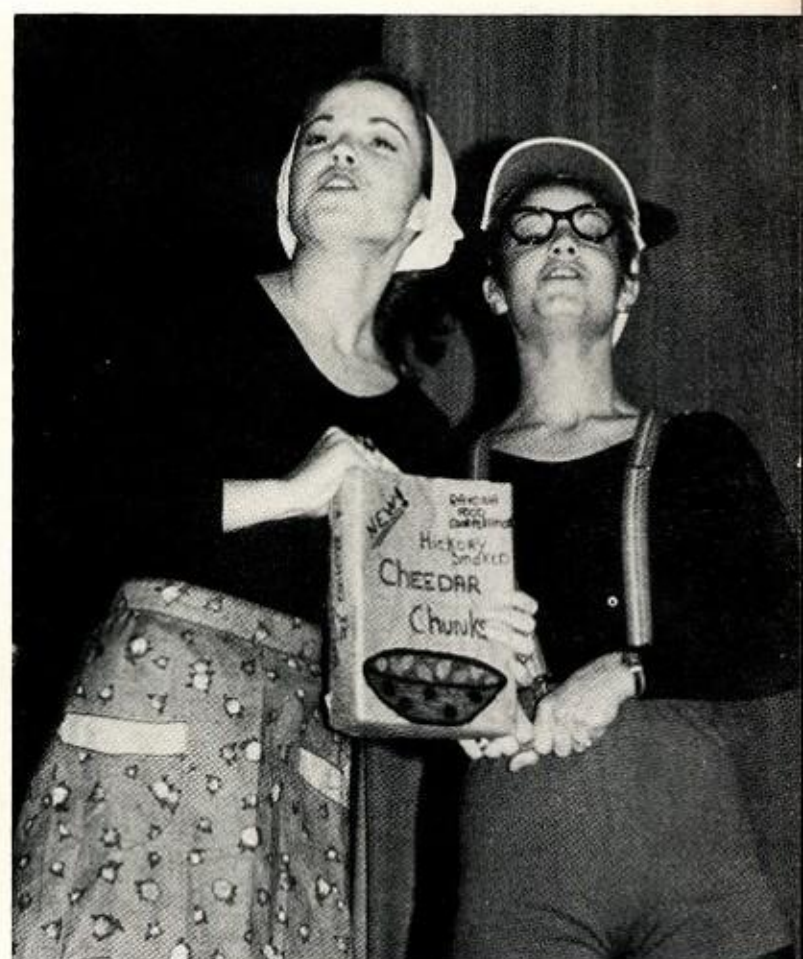

Of all the creative members, thirteen exceptionally talented actors and actresses were awarded membership into International Thespian Society, an organization created for honorable drama students.

"One more punch like that and I'll huff, and I'll puff, and I'll blow you over," threatens David Benbow.

Dixies Hum Right Along

Harmonizing under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Grant, the Dixieliers sought to improve relations between the school and community. Their performances were a key attraction for audiences at the Junior League, Briar Club, St. Luke's, and the Sharps-town Shopping Center.

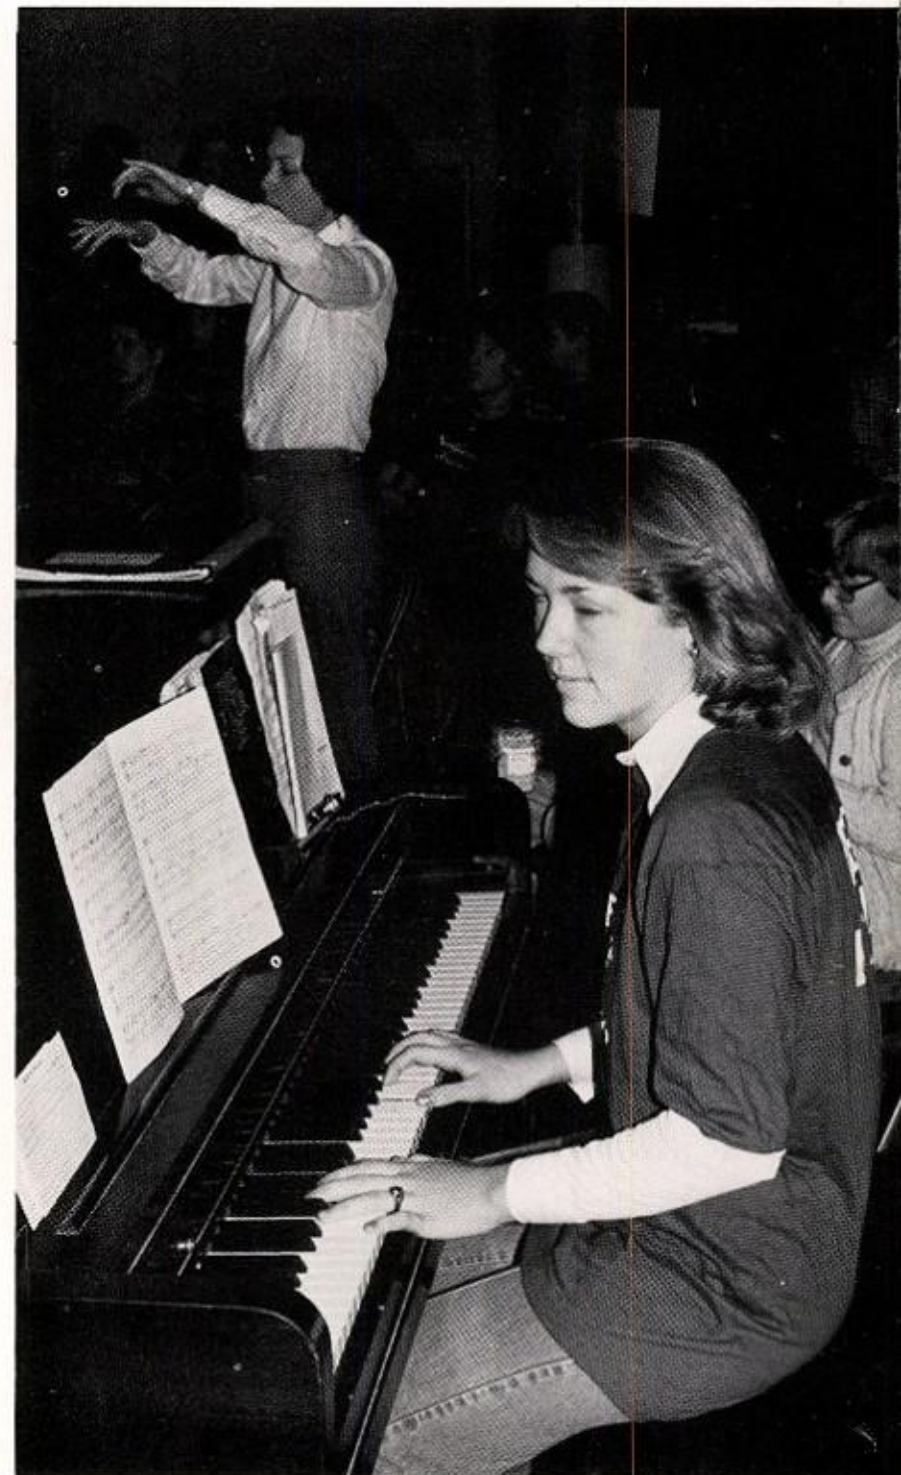

The Dixieliers conducted bake sales and a Brisket and Link Bar-B-Q to finance the annual choir trip and Spring Banquet. The Dixieliers also received recognition at the UIL Sight-reading contest.

Why can't Melanie stop singing when the rest of us do?" says an annoyed Carol Cummings as Melanie Young gives another untimely solo.

"I know Mrs. Grant wants us to get in the mood, but don't you think that those two are overdoing it?" says a shocked Paula Metzger to Cathy Braun while Sunmee Kim pretends not to notice as they sing "Sometimes When We Touch."

The Southernaires, the mixed choir, led by Miss Eleanor Grant, strived to perfect music for entertainment as well as for solo and group contests. The group of 45 students competed in the UIL Concert Contest; various members entered the UIL Solo and Ensemble Contest.

By raising funds with the selling of stationery and the hosting of the annual Bar-be-que Dinner, the Southernaires purchased new music and financed their trips. They traveled around the city during the Christmas season and in February, attended the Dogwood Festival. The group also contributed to the Fine Arts Department's production of "The Wizard of Oz."

Students Substituting For Teachers

Approximately fifty future teachers gained first hand knowledge of the teaching profession since most of the girls substituted part time here at Lee. Many of the senior girls however, were allowed to teach in other HISD schools.

Coached by Mrs. Jewel Leggett, these girls achieved the leadership and confidence needed to become a good teacher.

The club bought a new typewriter and sent goodies to the faculty on Teacher Appreciation Day using profits from their homemade candy sales. They also sent Christmas and Easter cards to the teachers. In the Spring, the club had its banquet and recapped the year's events.

Lieutenants Dance To The Music

The Lieutenants would like everyone to know that between shows they are available for pictures and autographs.

Spirit was the code word for our Lieutenants. Whether they were decked out in their new practice uniforms, day dresses or just everyday clothes they worked constantly to boost the morale of Lee. Our tireless Lieutenants performed at football games and also attended volleyball, basketball and baseball games lending constant support. These girls, with encouragement from their sponsor, Miss Jeanne Reynaud, practiced many long hours.

The fund raising projects were: the school directory, Christmas cards and wrappings, and carnations on Valentine's Day. Their profits went towards the Senior Ski trip and their formal — Rebelee.

Besides raising school spirits, the Lieutenants performed many services such as clean up projects, ushering at PTA and the Houston Rodeo.

SOLO Measures The Notes

In long hours of practice conducted by Ms. Karin Jamison, SOLO, the Strung Out Lee Orchestra, perfected its musical ability in classical music, jazz, pop and rock.

The tuneful musicians performed at a medley of HISD receptions and a Texas State Teachers Association meeting. SOLO also entertained at shopping centers during the Christmas season and entered in the UIL Solo Ensemble Contest.

SOLO's candy sale was instrumental in the purchase of new music and the repair of instruments.

Filled with precision and talent, the Marching Generals grandly displayed their music throughout the year. Each football game was packed with the essence of powerful music as the band not only played at half-time, but also during the games. Their new, popular music also blasted enthusiastically at pep rallies.

After football season, band members, backed by Mr. Brad Braker, sold coupon books and conducted a spaghetti supper to raise funds for the annual spring trip.

Stage Band — In Concert

Who me?" Barney Dishron plays dumb while Cheryl Jackson gives her opinion of him.

Practice was the key to the Stage Band's continuing tradition of musical excellence. Increasing their musical talent, these dynamic performers, under the direction of Mr. Brad Braker, played all levels of music from jazz to rock.

Stage Band's ability was measured up during performances at a school talent show, Stage Band festivals, and various competitive events around the state.

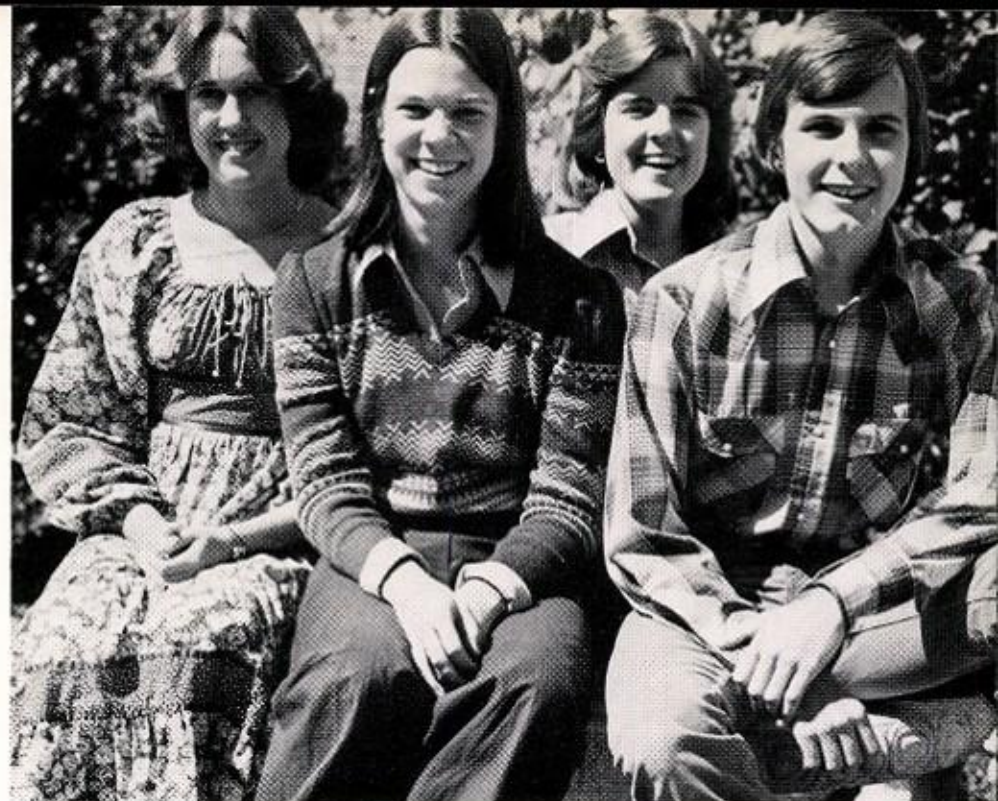

To end the year with a final crescendo, the band earned money to purchase an electric piano.

The American Legion Club is composed of students who have received American Legion Nominee certificates in Junior High School. This club staffed the school store before school and during lunch periods to aid the faculty and student body. These hardworking students under the supervision of Mrs. Velma Brennan sold a variety of items ranging from spirit stickers to dictionaries.

American Legion is totally a service club and any profits that were made from their sales went towards providing more of the beautiful concrete furniture for the patio.

The council, a branch of the Student Council, began the year with a rockin' and reelin' 50's revival day when everyone dressed in their "Happy Days" garb. The climax of the day was a concert featuring the popular "Johnny Dee and the Rocket 88's."

All profits were deposited in the Student Council fund and were also used for later programs.

Debaters Argue; Win

The Debate Team formed to help provide an opportunity for experience in speaking and understanding national problems. Students spent many hours preparing their debates so to be ready for competition. They participated in tournaments with various high schools and also in city-wide contests.

Under the direction and instruction of Mr. Rod Nichols, the argumentative group consistently placed highly in their competition, and brought numerous trophies home.

Bowlers Have A Ball

Practicing every Tuesday, members of the Bowling Club improved their scores and skills. Playing in inter-school tournaments against Lamar, Bellaire, Sharpstown and the High School for Health Professions, bowlers competed for trophies and expertise.

Their sponsor, Mrs. Stephanie Forbes, continually bowled 'em over with her enthusiasm and help. Although this club was designed for students who desired to bowl in league competition, many others joined just to have weekly bowling fun.

Members of Les Fleurs de Lee, sponsored by Mrs. Miriam Peterson, learned about the French culture and language. The club sponsored its annual faculty breakfast and served French delicacies. Members also dined at French restaurants.

These Students Aren't Sauer-Kraut

Sponsored by Mrs. Henrietta Thomas, the German Club met twice a month to organize activities that helped promote an interest in the people, language, and lifestyle of Germany.

Club members represented Lee at the Texas Association of German Students (TAGS) Convention held at the University of Texas in Arlington where they participated in many of the cultural events.

Unified in their German Club T-Shirts, the students held carwashes to enable them to purchase a new German flag. Besides their main two trips, these interested students attended a German Consulate, went Christmas carolling and ate authentic German foods at Bavarian Gardens.

Spanish Club Aids Poor

Sponsored by Mrs. Maxine Dorsey, the Spanish Club brought about a better insight into Spanish societies. Members grew to understand these peoples by helping the needy and underprivileged. At Halloween, a party was given at the Juan Marcos Day Care Center. Spanish clubbers also sponsored a gift drive for orphans and gave a Valentine's party for the elderly. Donations were also given by the club to various cultural organizations.

Through funds gained by selling candy, the club again ventured on its yearly trek to San Antonio. At the end of the year, new officers were inducted at the annual banquet.

YAFers Aid Community

Young Americans for Freedom, a nation-wide organization, offered young people a chance to be involved in politics, economics, and government.

YAF members participated actively in the community by working on the mayoral campaign, attending political rallies, and hearing renowned speakers. YAFers also took a stand on current issues by petitioning against the Panama Canal treaty.

The Young Americans journeyed to the State Capitol in Austin to watch the government in action.

Once again, Mrs. Thera Yoes valiantly led twenty five aspiring mathematicians through the dense complexities of numbers and problems. Figuring her strategy carefully, she aided students in furthering their knowledge and enjoyment of math.

Mu Alpha Theta or as it is commonly referred to, the Math Club, sponsored the annual number sense contest here at Lee High. In addition, the members started the year with a new service project, math tutoring sessions. This program definitely benefitted many worried Lee students.

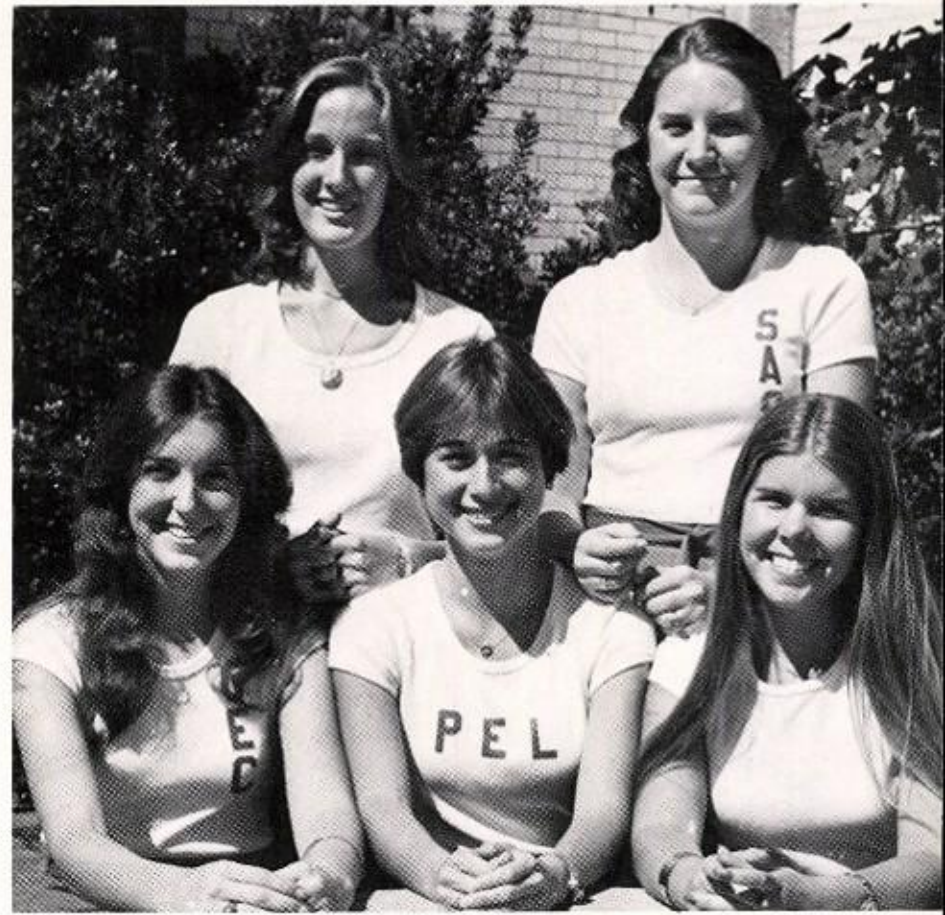

"Gosh I hope I catch on soon," worries Mary Tyler Johnson, as she calculates Caroline Fant's exorbitant fees.

Homemakers Sell Ideas

Future Homemakers of America joined together in an effort to grow through experience. Each of the three separate chapters, sponsored by Mrs. Garner, Mrs. Jarry, and Miss Molloy combined their efforts in providing a Christmas breakfast for the faculty, sending Valentines to the elderly, and throwing an Easter party for ill children.

FHA members also sold cookbooks to raise money for a Mother-Daughter Tea and for the annual banquet.

Medics Diagnose Career Opportunities

Operating under Nurse Carolyn Coleman's supervision, these future medics examined and discussed the various aspects of the medical field.

The club's service project, a blood pressure screening clinic, benefitted the faculty this year.

While participating in many Red Cross activities, the members also managed to visit a home for the aged. They gained real insight of the medical profession when they were allowed to view open heart surgery at the Methodist Hospital.

Scientifically speaking, these club members reacted with an interest in science to yield a greater knowledge of this intriguing field.

Led by Mr. Harold Taylor and Mrs. Stephanie Forbes, the club instigated two new service projects; collecting for Muscular Dystrophy and painting the garbage cans around the school. Plus, they enabled Lee students to have blood pressure tests taken.

These students gained experience on field trips to NASA, Coca Cola Bottling Co., the Medical Center and the Museum of Natural Science. They also went to Texas A&M to participate in JETS, (Junior Engineering Technical Society) conference.

CSU Enlightens Lee

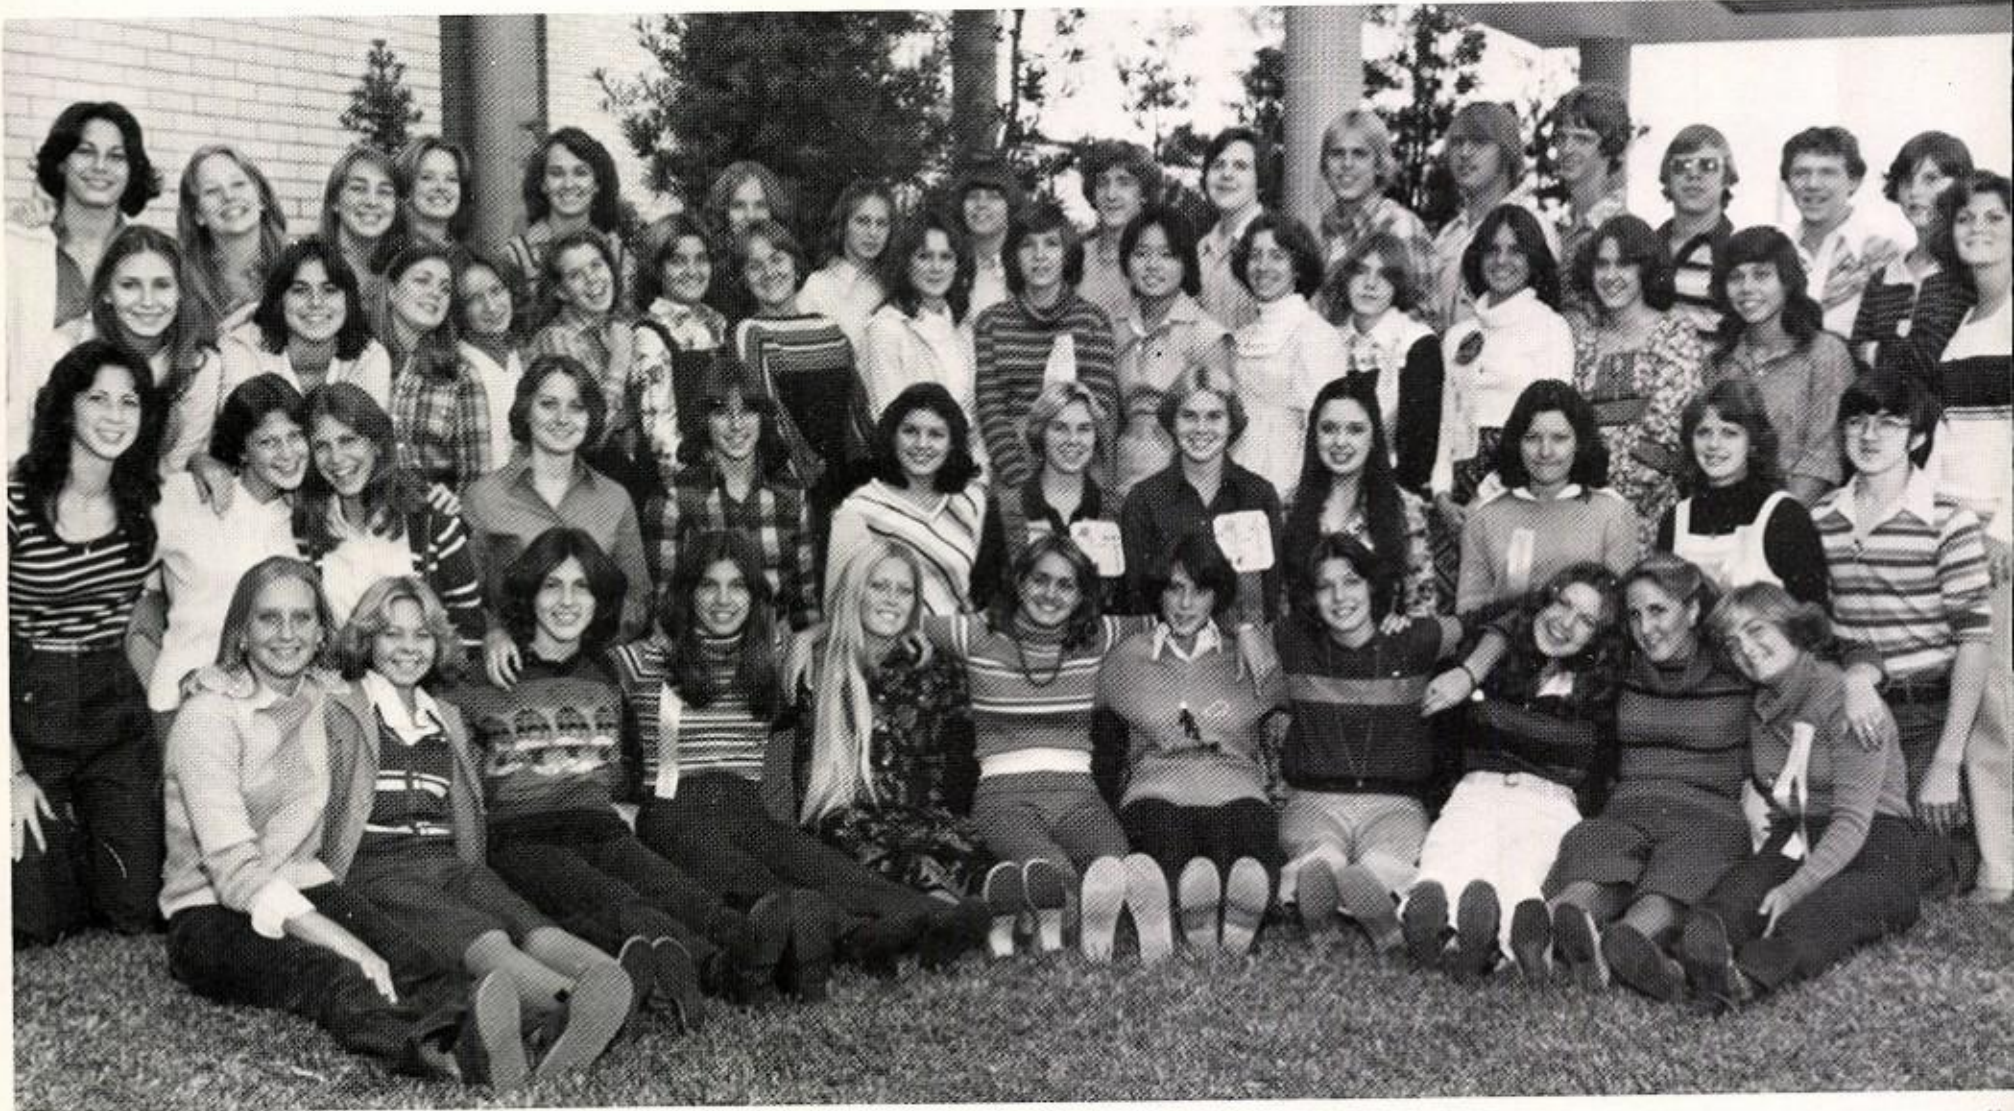

The Christian Student Union, sponsored by Miss Dalar Jones, promoted Christian ideals at Lee and encouraged fellowship among its members and students. The club sent welcome letters and birthday cards to students, and also provided a Christmas Candlelight Service.

The addition of more Christian literature to the library was made possible through the CSU poster sale. The club also presented an Easter program for the school, entertained patients at M.D. Anderson Hospital at Halloween, and visited nursing homes.

CSU members heard inspirational speakers at many of their weekly meetings.

Lawyers Convene

Intended to promote student interest in the law and in legal services, the Law Club met monthly to hear distinguished speakers.

The club, under the guidance of new sponsor Mr. Randy Bennett, also made several excursions to legal court rooms to gain valuable knowledge.

Future Farmers Plant Roots

Future Farmers of America is a national organization for boys and girls studying vocational agriculture. Mr. Roy Sheffield, their sponsor, planted seeds of inspiration into these students that helped them to achieve their goals of leadership, citizenship, and patriotism.

Once again people flocked to the FFA Livestock Show where they viewed the projects and pets of the ag students. Not only were the animals exhibited here at Lee, they were also shown at the Houston Livestock Show. The group reaped many awards plus a large sum of money from their plant sales, concession stand, and calendar ads.

AFS Sponsors Exchange Students

Lee High welcomed a new organization to its halls this year: American Field Service. This program promoted understanding and learning between the United States and foreign nations through the exchange of high school students. The AFS club at Lee gave support with individual friendships, talents and time as well as financial aid. This year Lee's first AFS student was Vensa Ljumovic from Yugoslavia.

AFS activities were varied and exciting: a Halloween party, a barbecue/barn dance, and talks with Vensa. In the spring the club sponsored a bond drive which financed an AFS student for the coming year.

Divers Explore "The Deep"

Under the unsinkable leadership of Miss Doris Countee, the Scuba Club strove to promote an interest in scuba diving and the related field of oceanography.

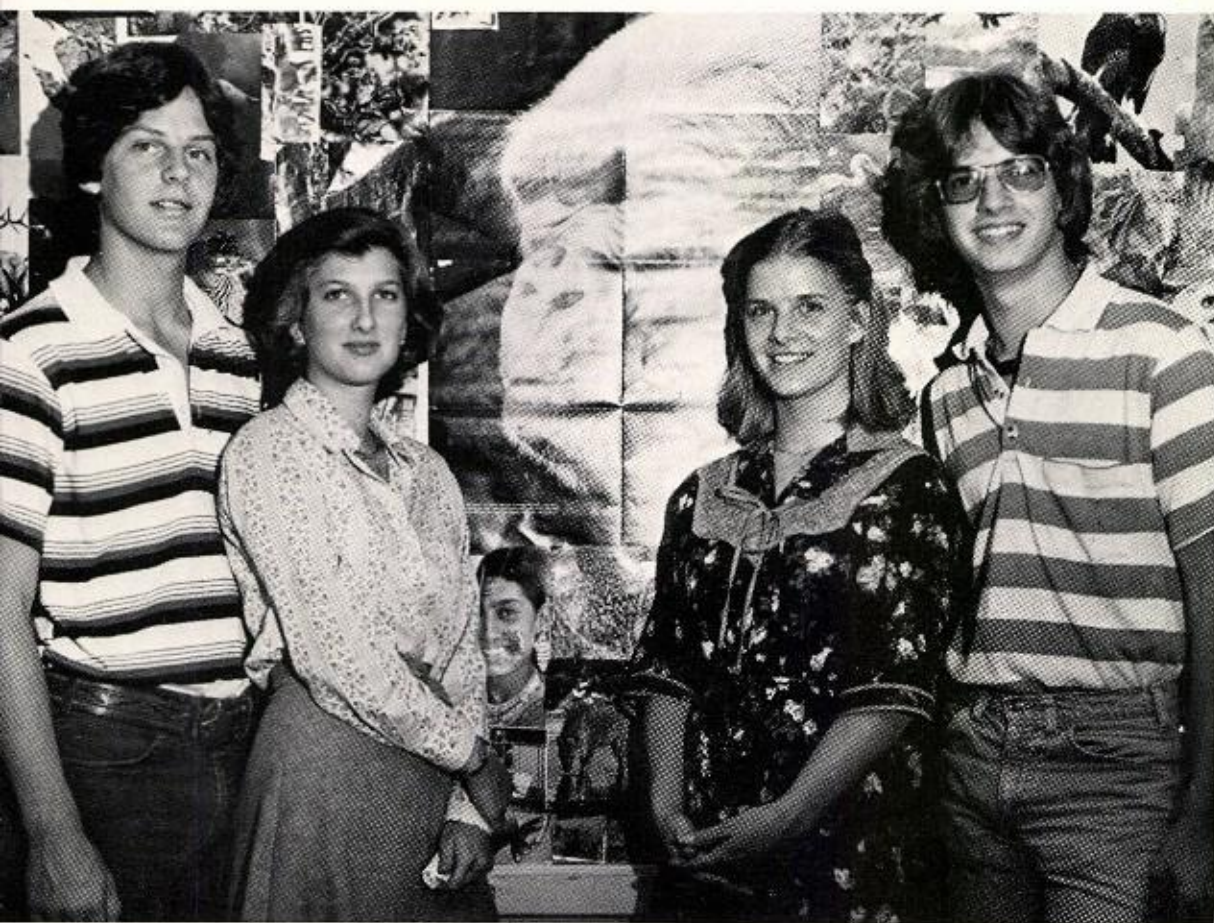

Club members plunged into fund raising projects such as car washes to finance their field trips. Divers participated in a snorkel trip in San Marcos. Also, dives at Lake Travis and Canyon Lake gave members the opportunity to fathom the mysteries of aquatic life. In addition to these activities, Scuba Club presented an informative slide show on sharks in the auditorium.

Tapers Stick To It

The Video Tape Club, sponsored by Mr. Earnest Hiatt, provided an opportunity for young people to work together and learn about the video tape media. As a service organization, the members donated their time to tape varsity and Jr. varsity football games. Members also taped many other school functions.

Through their service, the tapers gained valuable knowledge and experience.

HECE (Home Economics Cooperative Education) provided opportunities for self development and prepared for family and community living. Mrs. Barbara Machemehl and her officers worked and organized many club activities.

The foremost was their fashion trip to Paris, France. The girls that went stayed eight days and seven nights. The trip included: viewing fashions from a leading couture house, tours through leading schools for the study of fashion design, city tours and excursions to Versailles, Malmaison, and Chartres to gain a broader understanding of art, costume design, textiles and architecture.

In addition to this trip, they toured the U. of H. child development center, worked at nurseries, elementary schools, and homes for the mentally retarded. HECE members sold candy and magazine subscriptions to provide funds for community projects and field trips.

DECA — The Working Class

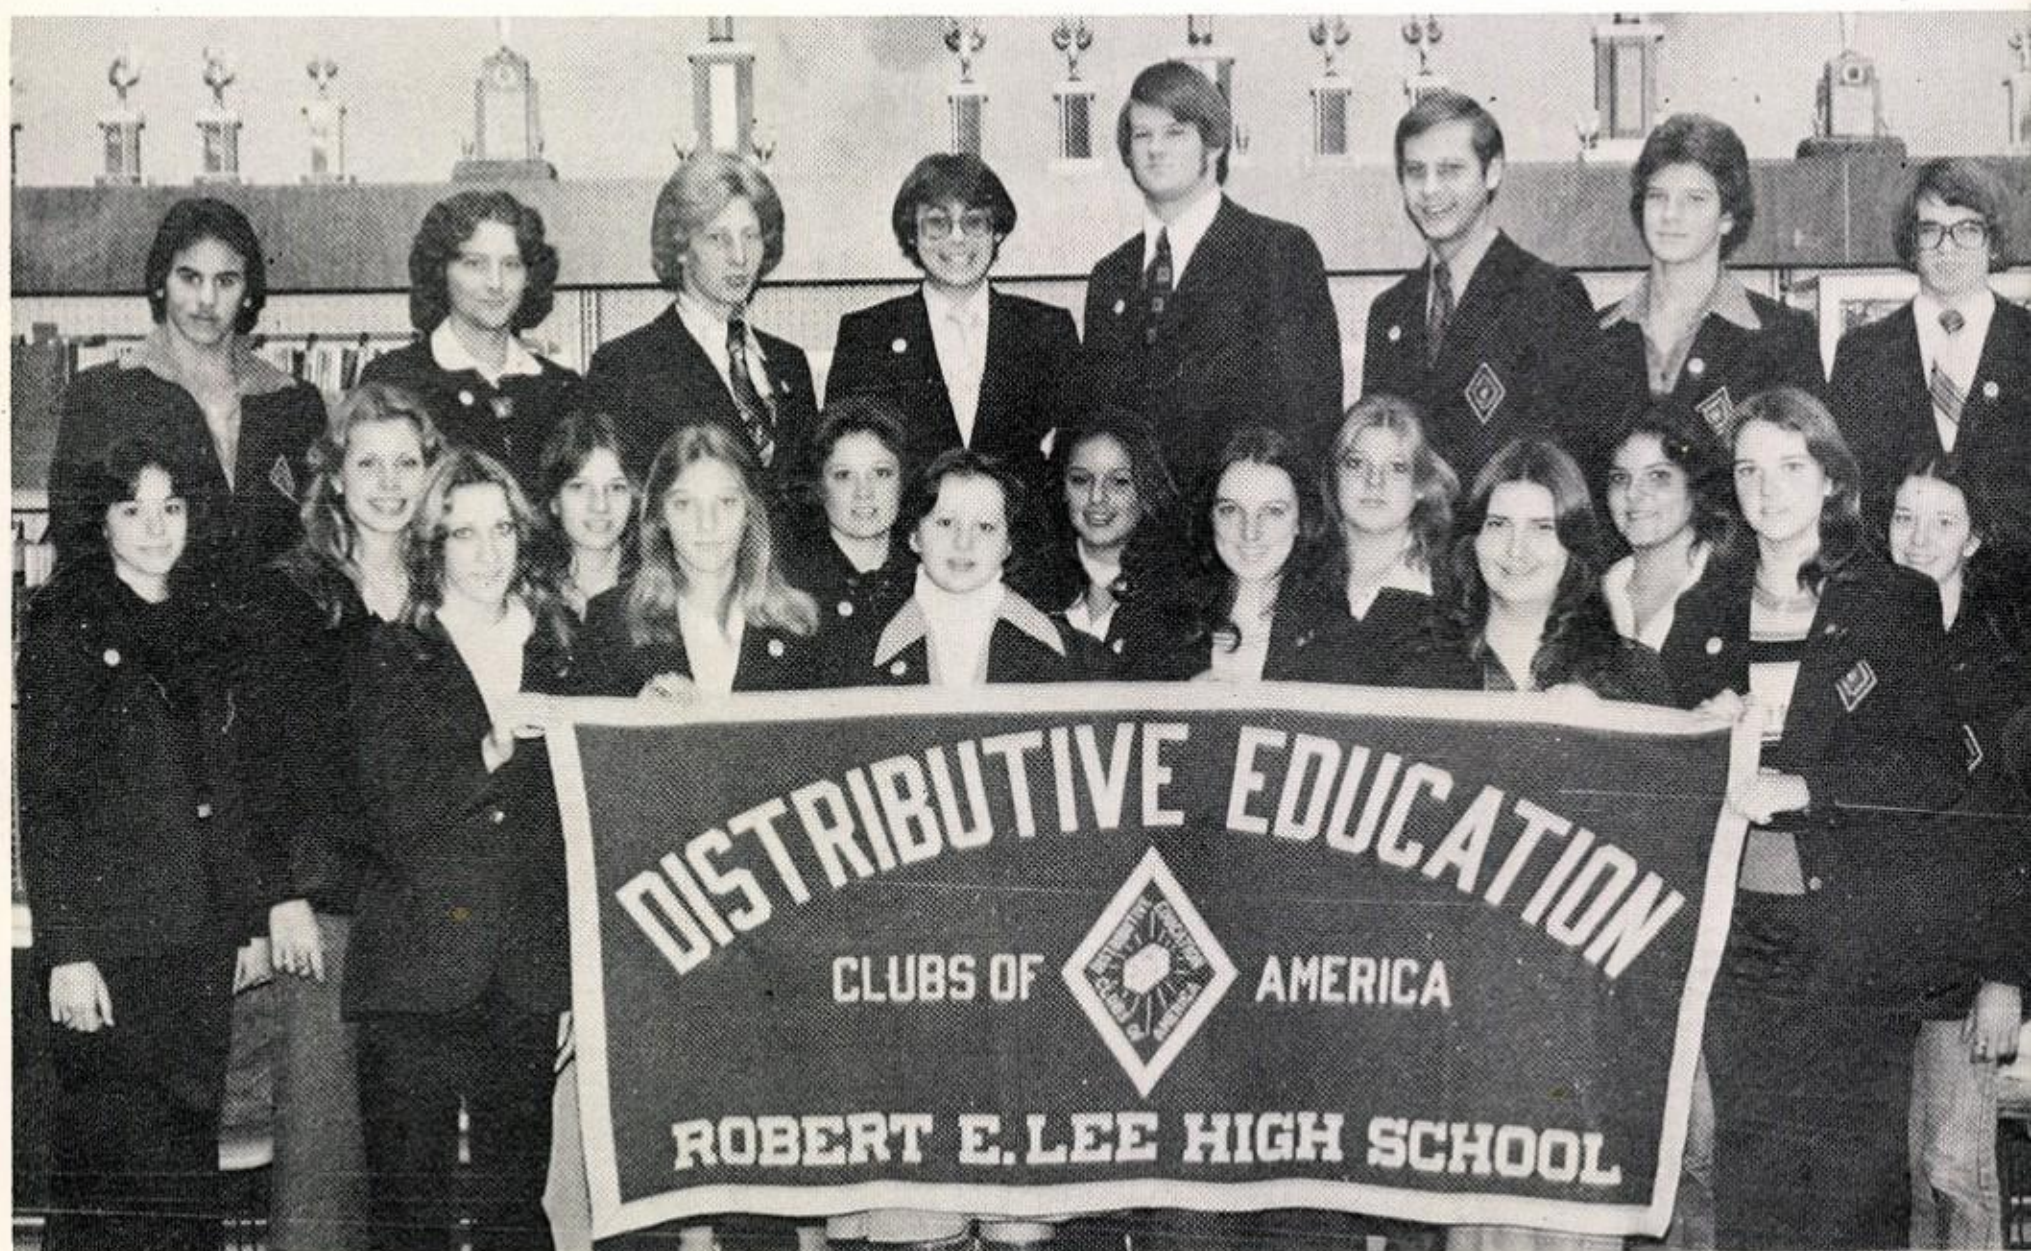

DECA, a specialized class for retailing occupations, prepared its members in the field of marketing and distribution under the direction of Miss Betty Jones and Mrs. Jackie Freeman.

Raising money through their Homecoming sale, the Distributive Education Club of America sent their officers to the Leadership Development Lab in October. Selected members went to Area and State Competition, also.

DECA members also obtained funds through their annual spring fashion show, participated in a project for Golden Age Manor, and held a Faculty Christmas Buffet.

The Vocational Opportunities Club of Texas offered students the chance to develop their leadership and character. CVAE students attended school the first half of the day and worked off campus the second half.

Mr. Chuck Batt and Mr. Richard Redd, the club sponsors, promoted high standards of workmanship and respect. VOCT published an Ad Book and profits went toward covering school programs and classroom expenses.

OEA Teaches Office Know How

Co-sponsors, Mrs. Rene Aldrich and Mrs. Avy Roach worked together to instill leadership qualities into these office interested students.

OEA (Office Education Association) altered their program with the addition of pre-employment lab students. However, these pre-lab students did not leave for off campus jobs; they achieved skills for future employment during school.

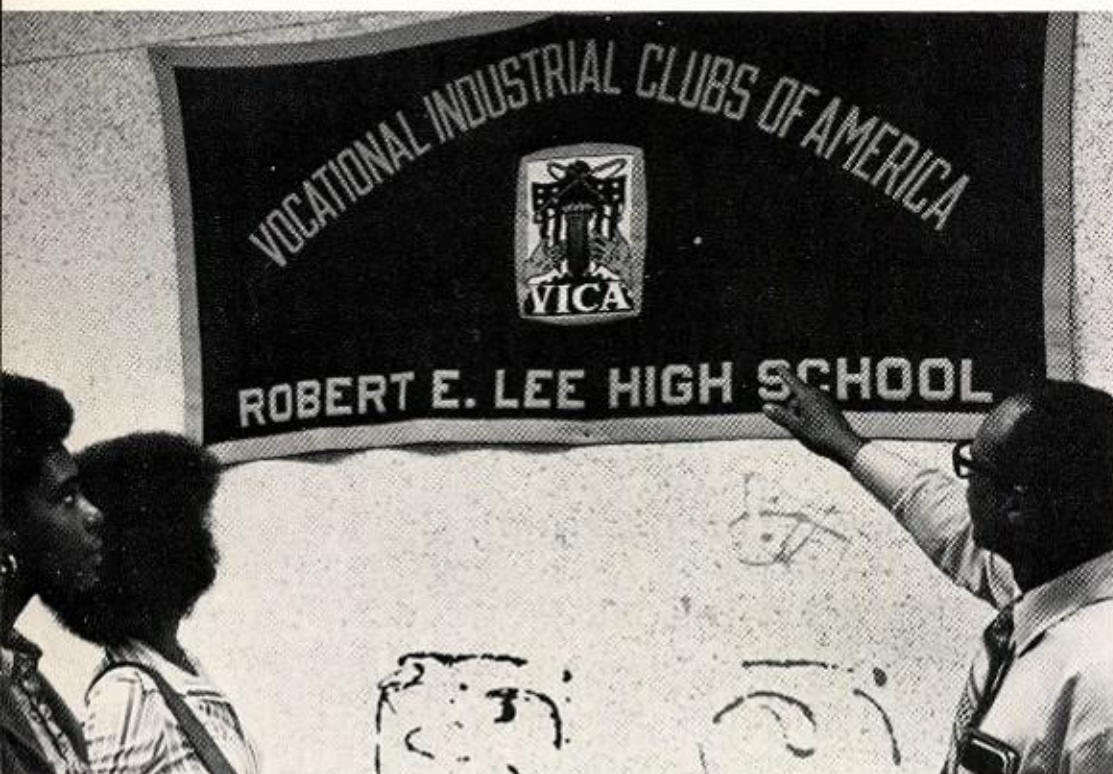

Their fund raising project this year was the selling of B. Craft Kits. Profits helped fund civic and social projects. It also paid some of the expenses needed to enable OEA students to attend workshops, Area, State, and National Conferences.

Comedian Kyle McDonald attempts to fill Mr. Nix's hat since he can't fill his shoes.

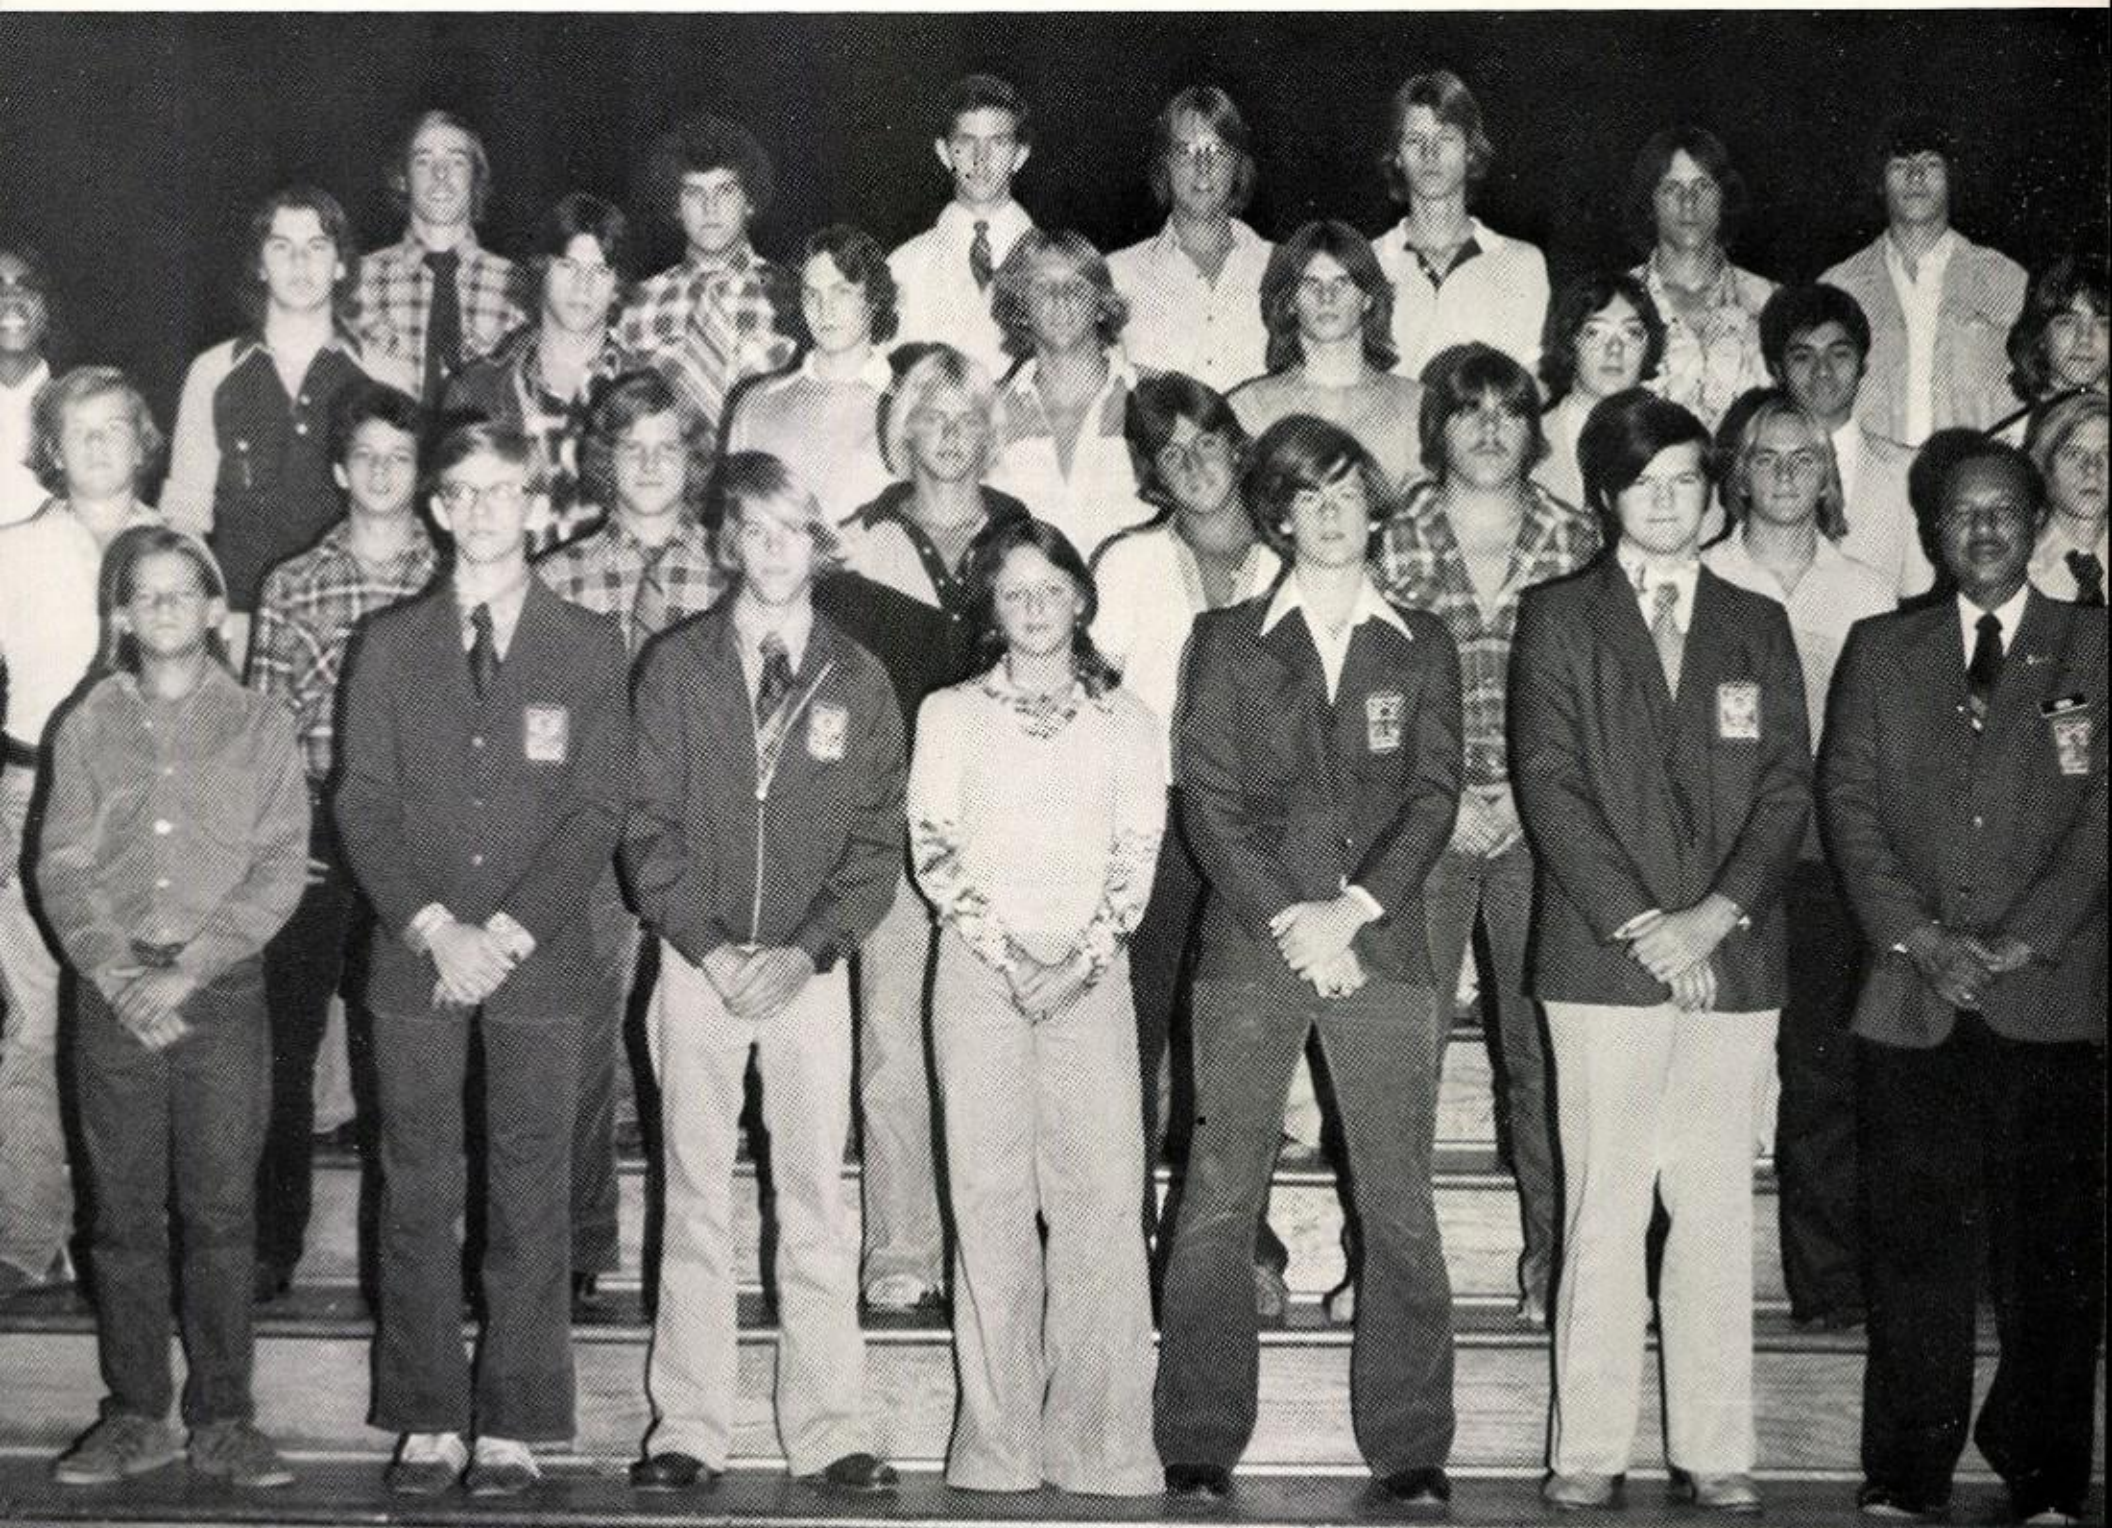

Seek Careers

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) prepares students for careers in industry and helps them to achieve high standards of personal development.

Their candy sale began on November 7 and was successful enough to provide funds for their annual Employee/Employer Banquet and to enable them to sponsor VICA members at State Meets.

VICA also contributed in the clean-up program at Lee by painting signs for NO SMOKING areas.

Historians Observe Past

Under the direction of new sponsor, Mrs. Betty Mitchell, the Texas History Club concentrated on learning more about the state and local governments.

The Historians sponsored a trip to San Antonio to see more of Texas' past. They also held a Christmas party and a spring banquet where officers were installed.

The club also served the community by giving a party for children at the Pilgrim Day Care Center during the Halloween season.

FACULTY

Teachers persuaded students to examine the world. Responsibility and self-discipline entered the classroom as our instructors truly matured us, while sincere guidance influenced thoughts and affected futures. We remember the faculty as either "great" or "rotten," but every teacher became someone's favorite.

New General Takes Command

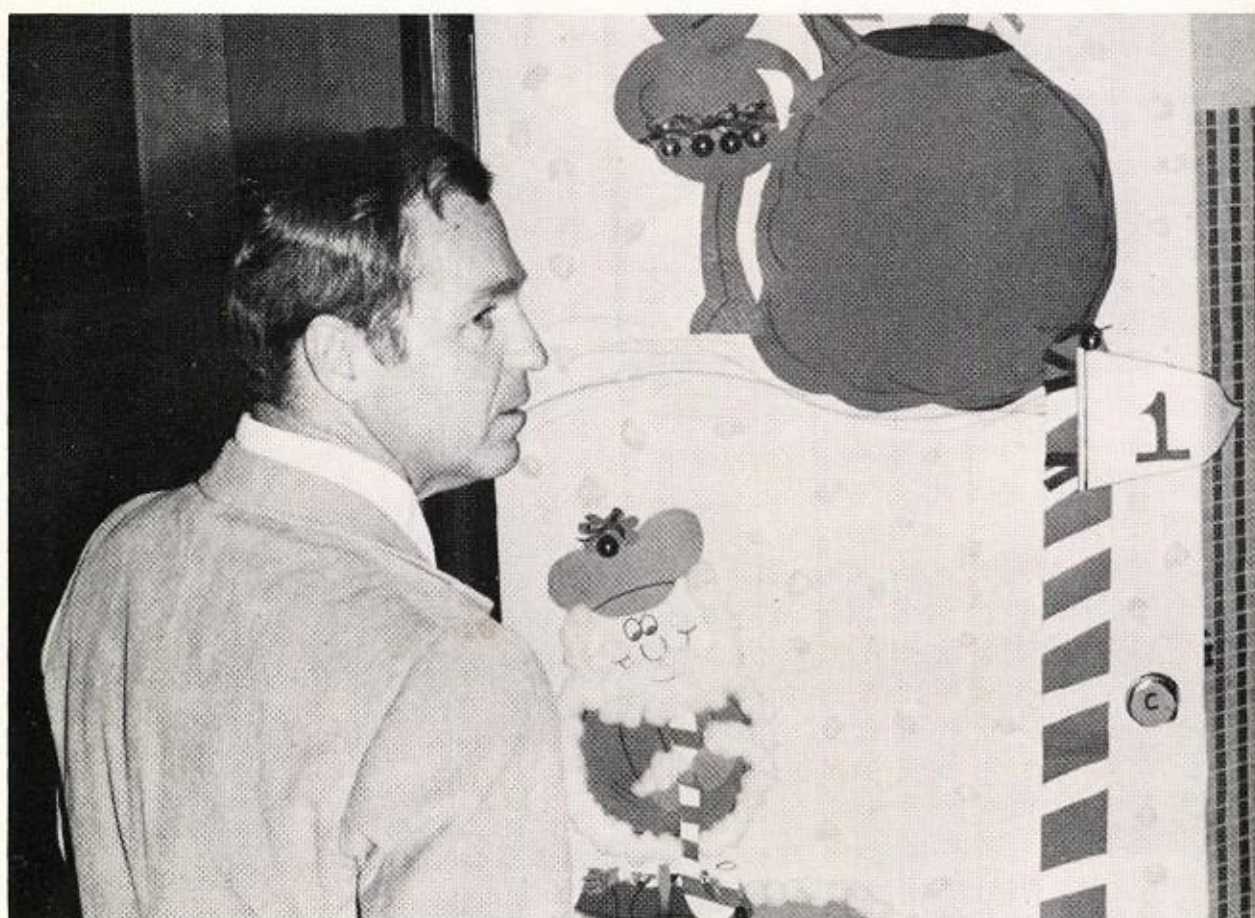

In November, the students and faculty welcomed a change in Lee's administrative staff as Mr. Lawrence Bergen was chosen as the new principal. Coming from T. H. Rogers, where he had served since 1962 as a coach and teacher, and later as principal, Mr. Bergen was prepared to face the challenge of conducting senior high students as opposed to those at the junior high level.

Mr. Bergen said he was pleased with the superior quality of Lee students and pleasantly surprised to find that few problems existed in the functioning of the school. Rumors that he would change the school into a "junior high" only proved false, as the new principal continually showed a deep respect for the opinions of the students, as well as those of the parents and faculty.

Mr. Bergen feels the students are mature enough to be granted certain privileges and feels that everyone should take a positive attitude toward the concept of change. In initiating certain changes, such as moving the smoking area and developing a new policy for detention, Mr. Bergen proved that his interest in the advancement of R. E. Lee is his main goal as principal. He thinks students should have pride in their school and encourages each student to make the most of his high school years.

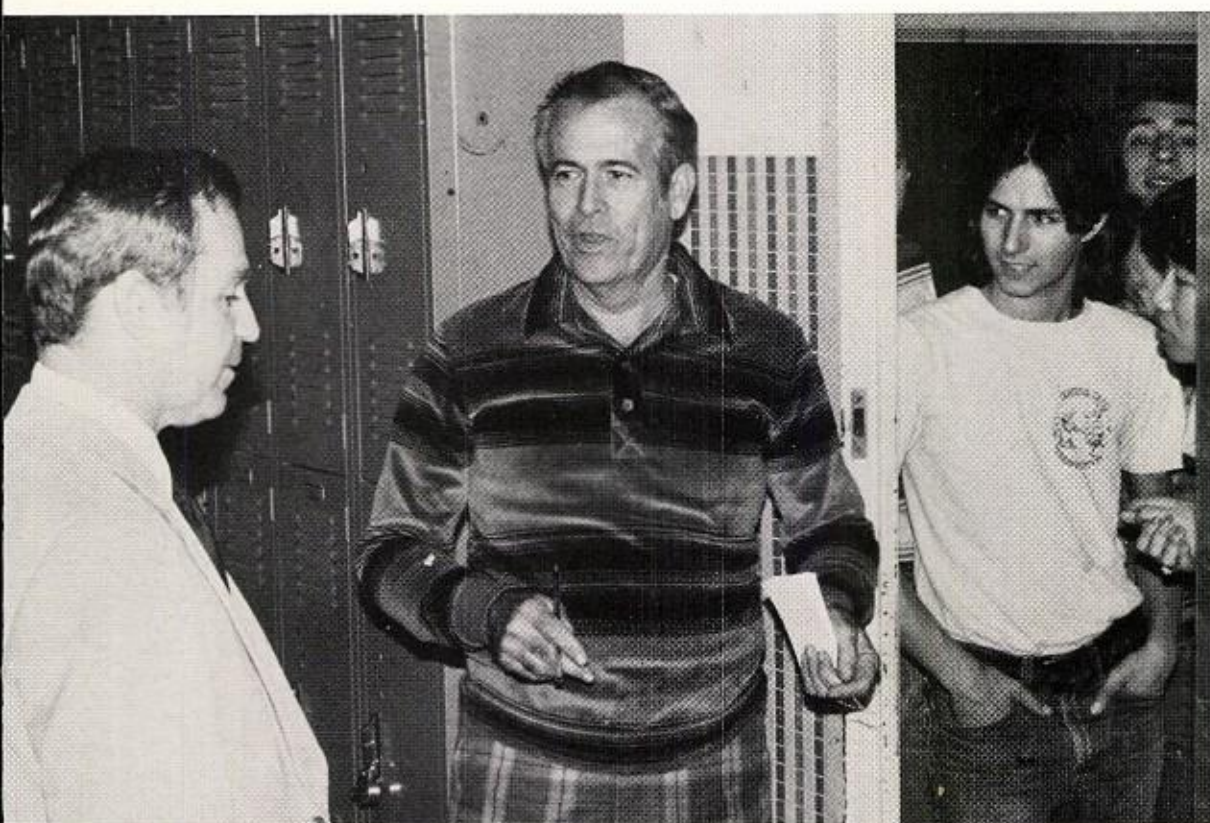

MR. LAWRENCE BERGEN
Principal

"Writing a letter to Santa? Who me? I'm too old for that — I'm in high school now!"

MR. WILLIAM COOK, MRS. MARY CAROLYN SMITH, MR. LUCIOUS RANDLE
Assistant Principals

"I'm sorry, but I just can't let you in. You're too dressed up for my 'hip' homeroom." Mr. Adams turns away a discouraged Mr. Bergen.

Aiding Mr. Bergen in his extensive duties as principal, are the assistant principals, Mrs. Mary Carolyn Smith, Mr. Lucious Randle, and Mr. William Cook. Their advice and experience gave Mr. Bergen the support he needed in adjusting to his new position.

In addition to her role as disciplinarian of the juniors, Mrs. Smith also performs such necessary tasks as issuing all textbooks and approving posters. Mr. Randle concerns himself with disciplining the sophomores and maintaining the building and grounds, as well as overseeing bus transportation. Mr. Cook devotes much of his time to senior discipline, cafeteria and auditorium supervision, while also dealing with the never-ending parking problems.

Besides their routine responsibilities, each assistant principal furthered their support of the school by attending football games, pep rallies, and banquets. Their continual interest in R. E. Lee, its students and faculty, is a seldom noticed but much appreciated part of their administrative duties.

Left: "Oooohh, I bet you didn't realize they seasoned this food with your fertilizer!" Mr. Cook attempts to warn Mr. Sheffield of the little "surprise" that awaits him.

English: The Art Of Expression

Under the direction of Mrs. Velma Brennan, teachers in the English department stress the importance of clear, accurate expression, in both written composition as well as every-day speech.

Students are taught to express themselves creatively, while learning the basic fundamentals of English composition. Through extensive reading programs, students cultivate an appreciation for literature and become aware of the use of such elements as style, theme, and figurative speech.

Special courses are also offered in addition to regular English classes. Many students take part in the CVAE and Major Works programs, while others prepare for college in English Workshop classes.

In many classes special workbooks are used along with the adopted textbooks to further the students' knowledge of English skills. The adoption of grammar and composition books was also being considered in order to provide a better foundation for written and verbal expression.

MISS COLLEEN MALO, Geometry, CVAE Math

With the push for basic skills still remaining the number one goal of Math teachers, this year's department worked hard toward the development of those skills needed by each and every student.

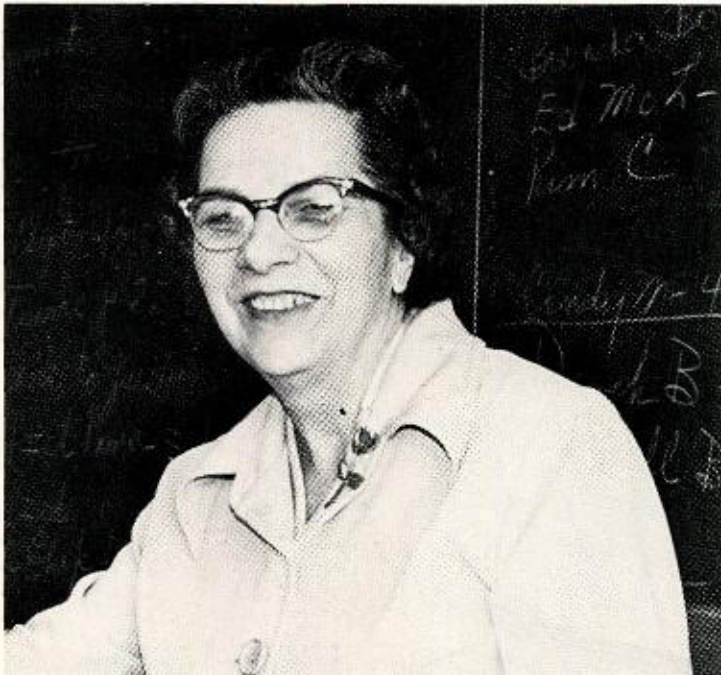

Courses were introduced this year in five newly adopted textbooks. A new course, Mathematics of Consumer Economics, was initiated into the program.

Students concentrating on a college education have the option of choosing electives such as Trigonometry, Calculus, and Computer Math, in order to fulfill prerequisites toward any college major. A strong academic program is also offered to those not electing to attend college.

Mrs. Thera Yoes, Math department chairman, sponsors Mu Alpha Theta, an organization designed to encourage students to take a higher interest in Math and inform them of the role of mathematics in their futures.

MRS. JEWEL LEGGETT,
Government, Economics

Through the study of historical events students learn how our country was born and why it has become one of the leading nations in the world today. Headed by Mr. Harris Butler, teachers in the Social Science department strive to inform their students of our country's past so that they might continue our nation's progress and renew its prosperity.

Students furthered their knowledge of various governmental procedures by closely watching the November mayoral election. Such programs as Capitol Scholar, Boys' and Girls' State, and the Bill Archer Intern program enabled select students to receive a closer view of national and state governments.

In Young Americans for Freedom, students became involved in governmental actions by sponsoring a petition against the passage of the Panama Canal treaty. In February, many students took part in the Close-up trip to Washington D.C., sponsored by Mr. Dale Glover.

Facts, Formulas, And Frogs

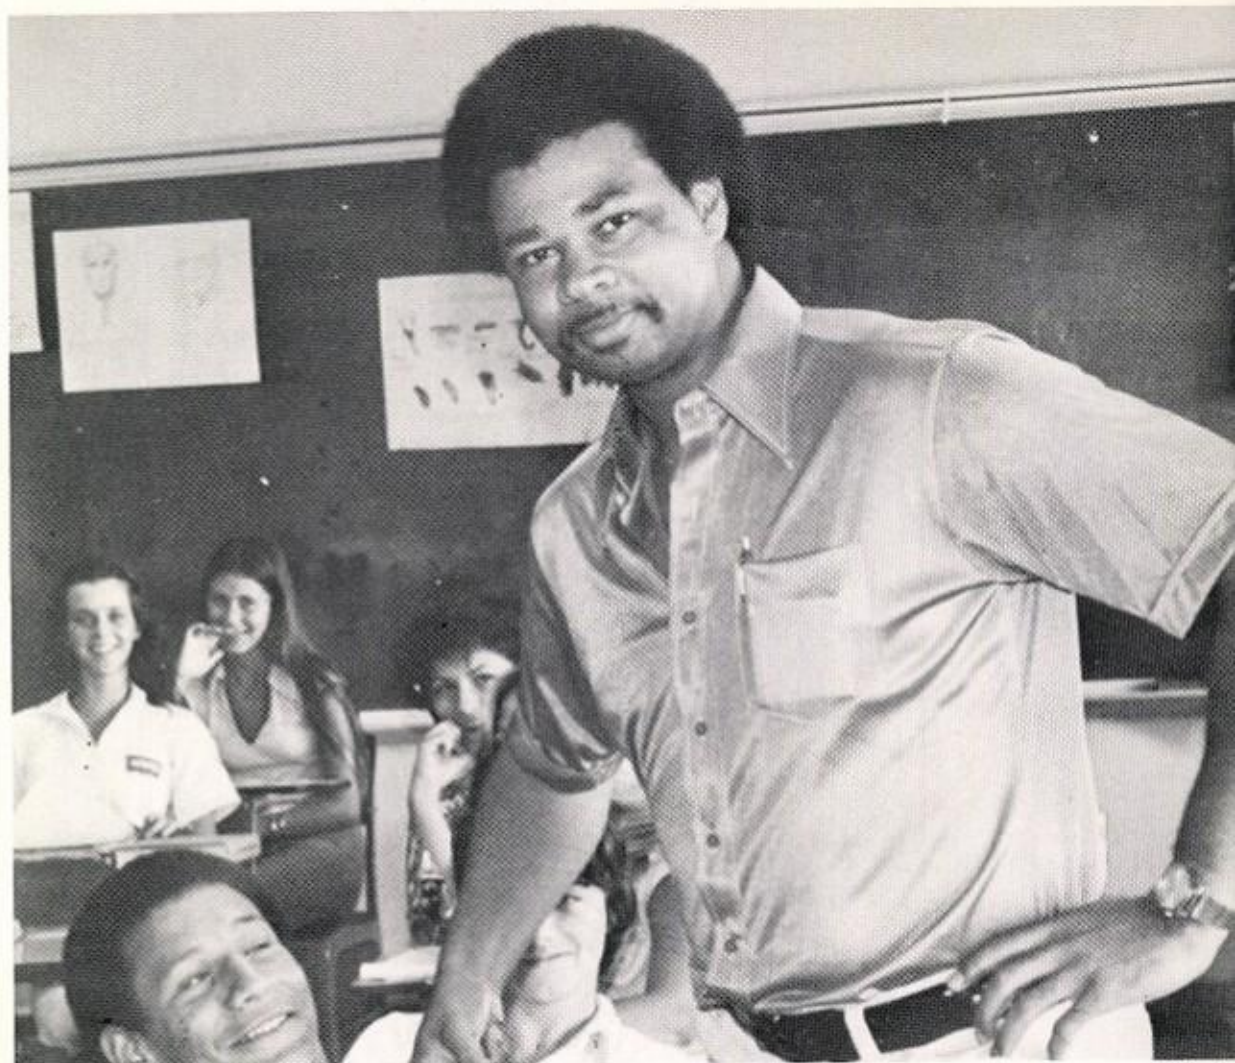

The ultimate goal of teachers in the Science department is to interest as many students as possible in areas of science. Under the direction of Mr. Howard Behrens, the Science faculty encourages all students to become aware of the never-ending wonders of the scientific world.

Students interested in science may enroll in such courses as Physical Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. In Oceanography, students study the mysterious aspects of marine life, while Physiology students explore the complexities of the human body.

The Scuba and Science clubs are open to students interested in Science fields. Along with special field trips, these clubs enable students to continue their study of the amazing world of science.

Students Express Themselves Through Arts

In the Art departments, teachers strive to promote awareness and creativity in students through various techniques and methods of discipline. Students are encouraged to perfect their talents and discover new areas of interest in the different courses offered.

In the Language Arts department, Mr. Rod Nichols instructs students in speech and debate skills, while serving as head of the department. Students with an interest in music can join one of Lee's outstanding choral groups, or the marching band, or orchestra. Those with a flair for writing or business are encouraged to try out for the yearbook or newspaper staff.

Mr. Henri Gadbois supervises the Art department, which enables students to express themselves in areas such as drawing, painting, and sculpture. A photography class was also added to the curriculum for advanced students, instructing them in both black and white photography and printing, as well as the production of animated movies.

Education Gets Physical

Girls and boys enrolled in physical education classes this year, for the most part found themselves participating in mixed classes due to the continuing coeducational program.

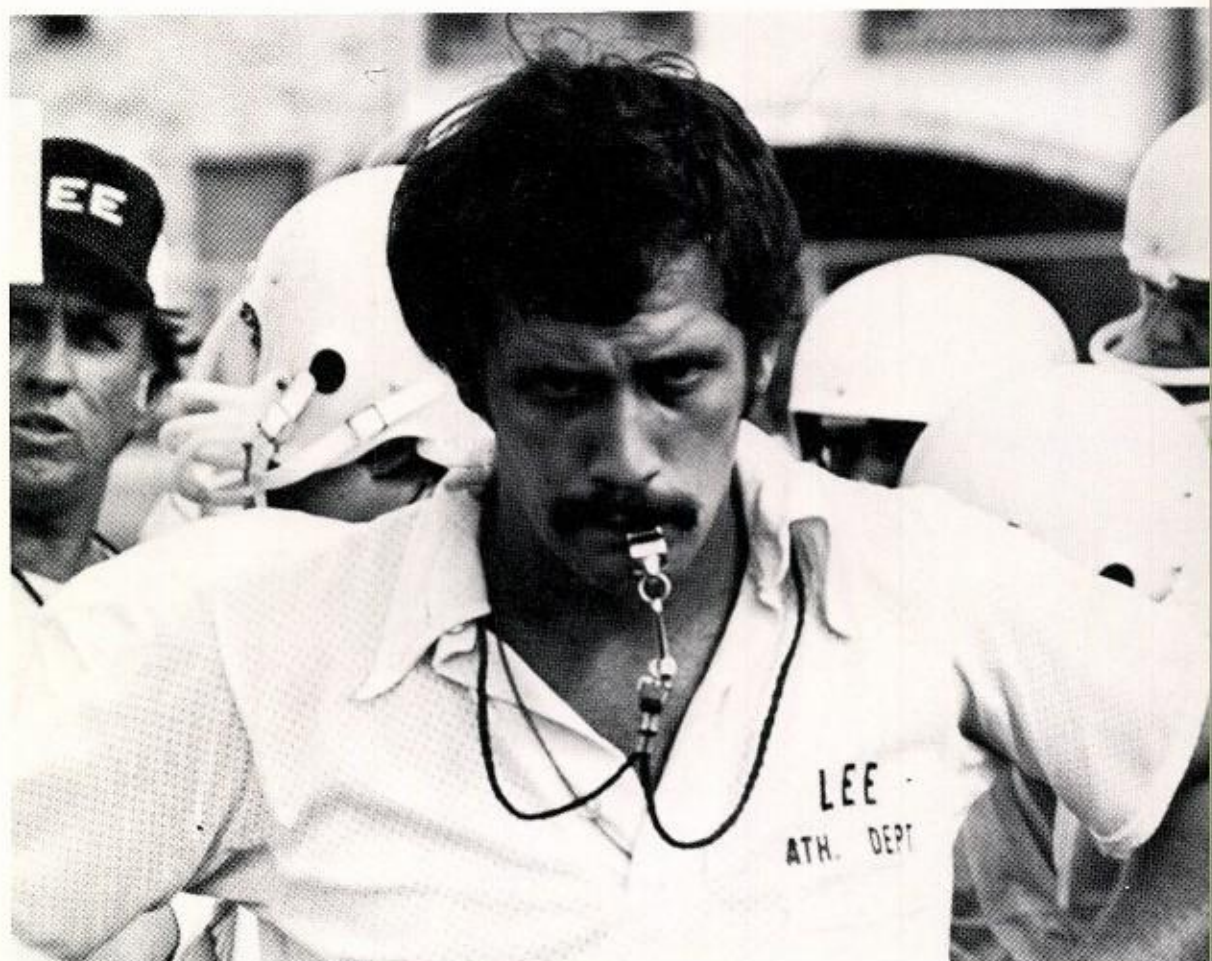

The coeducational classes enabled students to combine their talents and skills, in order to create a wider and more competitive intramural program.

The P.E. departments, headed by Mrs. Ella Allen and Mr. Robert Harrison, offer a wide range of sports including volleyball, badminton, archery, soccer, and flag football. Ice skating and bowling are offered to seniors. Students are also instructed in Health by Mr. Richard Harrington.

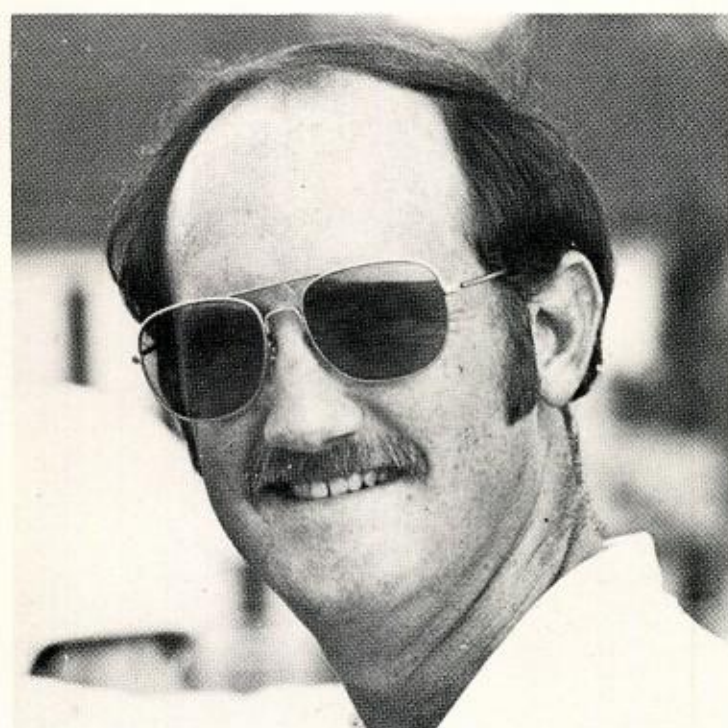

Girls not electing to participate in a regular gym class may try out for the Lieutenants, Lee's talented drill team directed by Miss Jeanne Reynaud. Students looking forward to a military career are able to train in the R.O.T.C. program conducted by Sgt. Edward Payne and Major Eloise Dotts.

Speaking Many Tongues

MS. INES FROMBAUGH, Spanish
"¡Hola!"

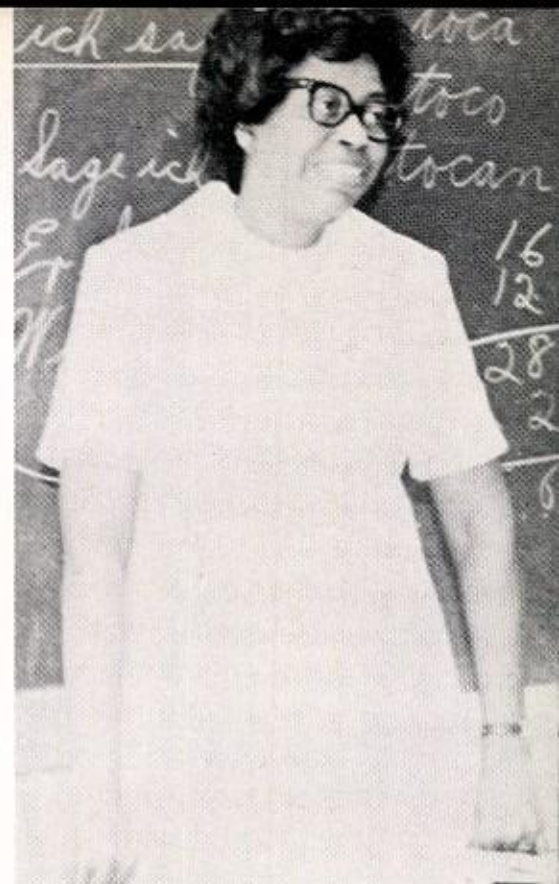

The study of a foreign language has become an increasing advantage in today's fast-paced society. Languages broaden communication and enable students to increase their knowledge of foreign heritages and customs. Interested students may choose from Spanish, French, German, and Latin.

Headed by Mr. Marshall York, this year's Foreign Language department used games that involved the target language. Along with films and tapes, these games created interest in the classroom and promoted a deeper understanding of foreign cultures. Many groups in the department also took trips to various parts of Mexico including Guadalajara, Puerto Vallarta, and Acapulco.

Through such organizations as Les Fleurs de Lee, the Latin Honor Society, the German Club, the Spanish Club, and the Spanish National Honor Society, students display their excellence in foreign languages and deepen their interest in foreign countries and customs.

MRS. MIREYA ESTEVEZ,

MRS. BERTIE SMITH, Latin, English

MRS. MAXINE DORSEY,
Spanish
"This above all, to thine own self be true, And it must follow as the night the day, Thou canst not be false to any man."

MRS. MIRIAM PETERSON,
French
"Eh bien! Et maintenant, nous allons avoir un petit examen!"

MRS. MARGARET JARRY, Homemaking
 "Recipe for making blunders; do your thinking afterwards."

MISS KATHARINE MOLLOY, Homemaking
 "Ask and learn."

Homemakers Plan Ahead

MRS. BARBARA MACHEHL, Homemaking
 "It's time to go home."

MRS. JAN GARNER, Homemaking
 "Today is the first day of the rest of your life."

Through such courses as Child Development, Home Management, Home and Family Living, Home Furnishings, Foods, and Clothing, students learn the basic skills essential in planning their futures as efficient homemakers. Numerous guest speakers and special field trips enabled students to gain a deeper understanding of the homemaking field.

Students furthered their interest in Home Economics and various related fields and careers through membership in the FHA club and the H.E.C.E. program. The department, under the direction of Miss Kathy Molloy, also began a chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas, a club for women out of high school and under thirty-five years of age.

Learn Now, Earn Later

Through enrollment in the Business Education department, students with an interest in business are able to begin planning their careers by learning useful and necessary skills.

Headed by Mrs. Sandra Meyer, this department offers such courses as Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Business Organization and Management, Business Law and Clerical Practice. A course in speedwriting is also offered to instruct college bound students in note-taking and good study habits.

Such a wide variety of electives gives students a chance to obtain employable skills than are not only self-enriching but useful in the business world.

Students obtain on-the-job training and experience through such programs as V.O.E., D.E., I.C.T., H.E.C.E., FFA, and C.V.A.E. An O.E. lab was also offered to juniors.

MISS BETTY ANN JONES, D.E.

MR. JAMES JONES, Woodwork
"No one person in the course of life can influence the student as much as the faculty member.
Whether the end result is a new understanding of subject matter or a new understanding of life itself — a teacher affects eternity."

MR. CHARLES BATT,
C.V.A.E.

Left: MR. ROY SHEFFIELD,
Vocational Agriculture
"A farmer is a man who is outstanding in his own field."

In the Industrial Arts department, boys as well as girls display their workmanship skills in such classes as Woodshop, Metal Shop, and Drafting. Mr. Clark Young supervises the department, which gives students the chance to develop their creativity and expand their interest in related hobbies and careers.

In the Vocational Agriculture department, under the direction of Mr. Roy Sheffield, students become involved in special activities such as county fairs and the annual Ag show in the Spring. In addition to such activities, many Ag students furthered their involvement by joining the FFA club.

CLASSES

Students are the essence of Lee. While curriculum and campus stagnated, the personality of Lee's world surfaced through actions of the "core" — students growing from naive sophomores to responsible seniors. Classes created precedents for future students, but took away much more — priceless memories of each other.

What Is A Sophomore?

The word "sophomore" was derived from the Greek words sophos meaning "wise" and mores meaning "foolish." — Philip Alter and Jimmy Bailey

A sophomore is a young senior." — Walter Burke

A sophomore is someone trying to find his way around the school, meet new people, and do his very best." — Erica Krennerich

A sophomore is a bungling, fumbling fool who searches for two quarters for the place to use his elevator pass." — Bruce Bowers

A sophomore is a person who is two levels away from being." — Danny

"A sophomore girl is a person who is in love with all the senior guys." — Mary Alice DeFoy

"A sophomore is someone who can take orders from a senior who is 40 pounds lighter than he is." — Bryan Wallace

"A sophomore is someone just starting to live his life and to think about his future." — Wayne Britain

"A sophomore is someone who writes his combination and locker number on all his books, then remembers the books are inside the locker." — Susy Wong

SENIOR HONORS, ADS, INDEX

The road forks. Seniors ask, "Where do I go? . . . What do I do?" We didn't consider three years of experience as just another part of life, but more-so, as the foundation for the remainder. Seniors turned their back to the Lee world and accepted the challenge to continue, to go forth once again.

Senior foxes line up for the annual howling contest.

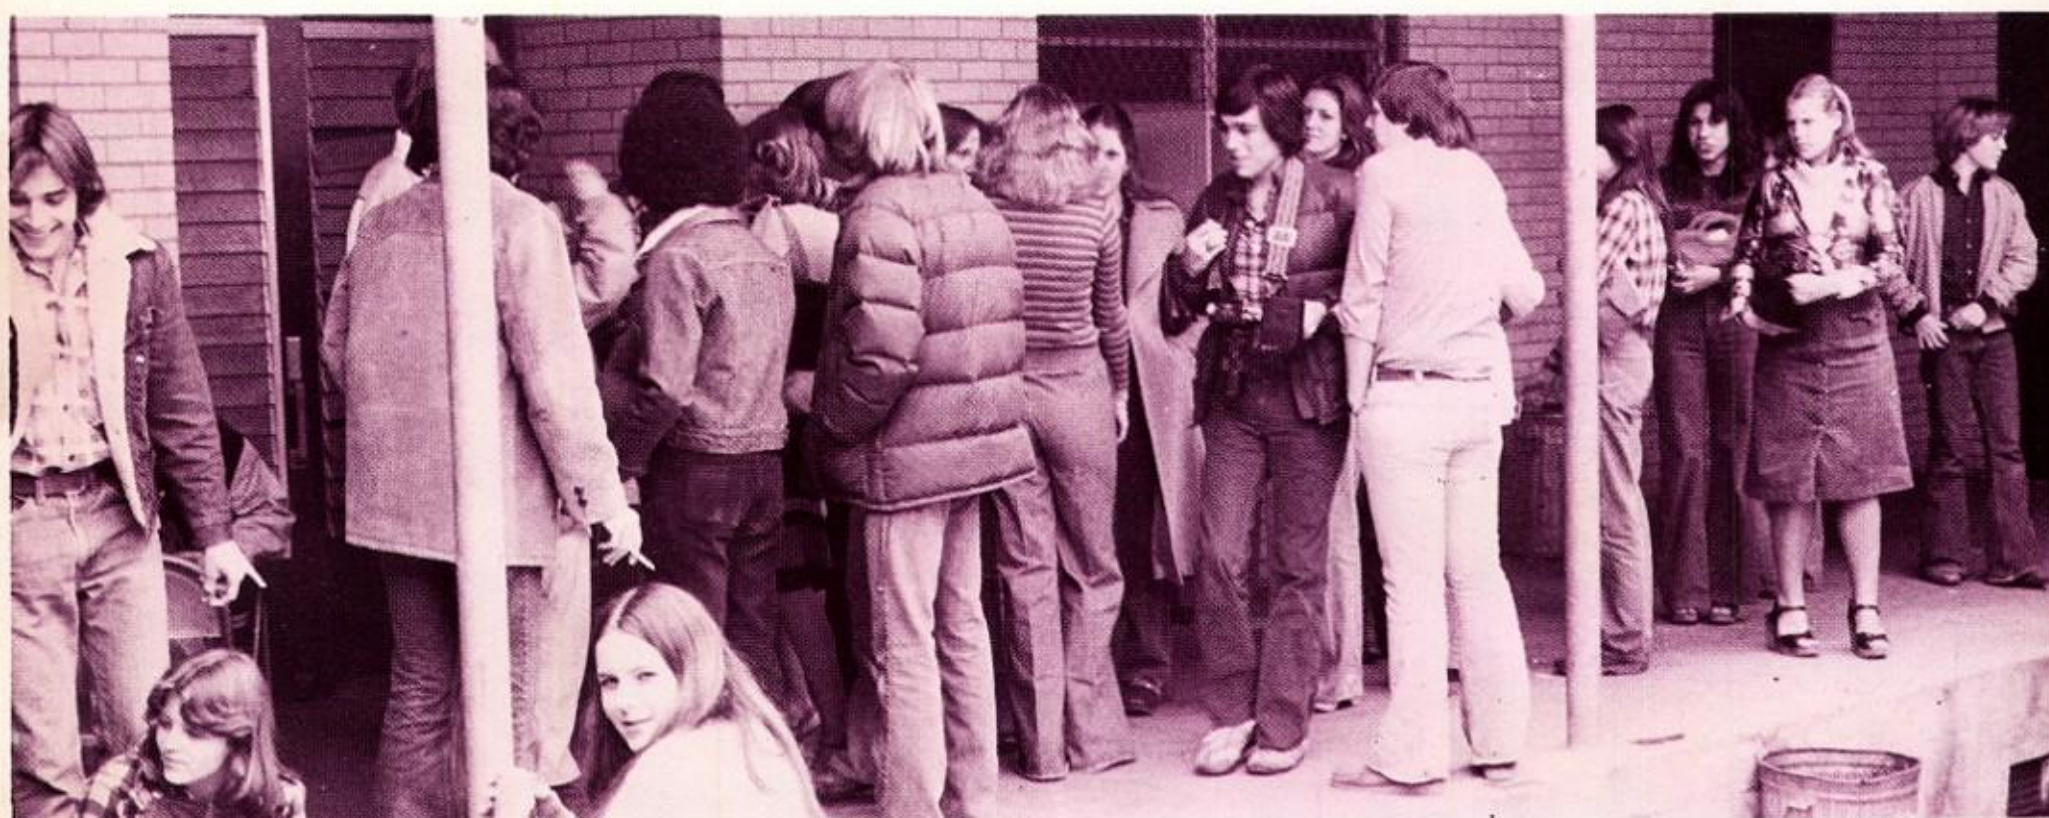

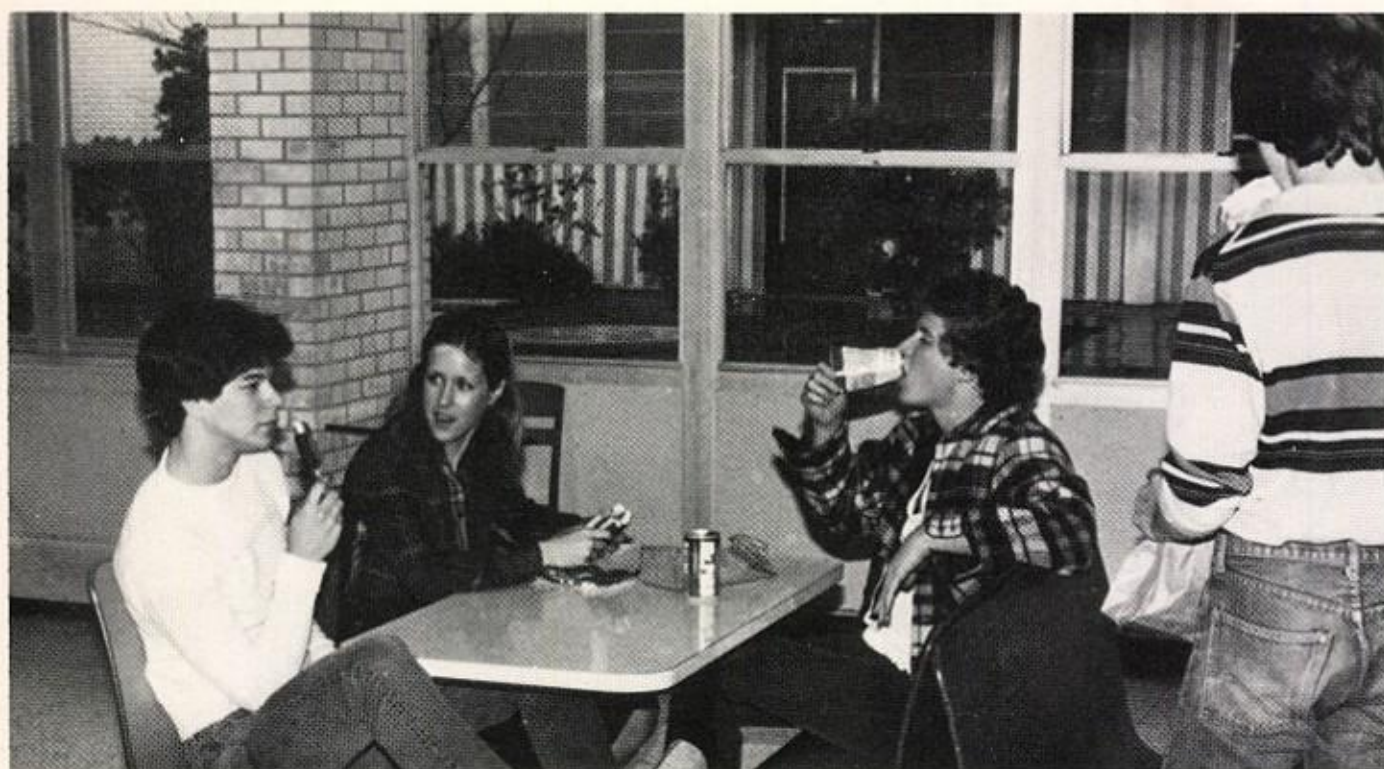

Sharon,
 Well it's the end of the year. You have enlightened your life with less education & drinking with out passing out.
 RAISE hell this summer

We lived through the school months in an orderly fashion. As in each year, Lee High School's personality underwent alterations in '78, natural changes arising from the diverse-ness of classes passing through the high school experience.

But just as our "personality" developed, we witnessed startling shifts in our educational world, changes affecting students, but implemented without student consent. Did we have total control of our environment? '78 told us: "no way" . . .

Sudden disciplinary problems arising from racial tension, coupled with an overall leniency in the enforcement of school regulations, surprised those who thought of Lee as a problem-less school.

Mr. Lawrence Bergen became our new principal as the fall quarter ended. The entrance of Mr. Bergen sparked mixed student reaction. Commonly known to us as a "junior high disciplinarian," he became the target of false rumours and accusations. In the end, however, Mr. Bergen adapted smoothly to our more mature environment, while adapting us to his stricter methods.

The smoking area moved to a remote location behind the cafeteria. We were no longer free to wander the halls at lunch, while tardies and detentions developed into more serious concerns. But classes on the first floor quit coughing and gasping during third period, a major parking plan forged ahead, and the addition of cafeteria annex furniture offset hot tempers.

Mr. Bergen examined Lee carefully before taking action, and later, we understood that Lee had received a "vibrant" influence. Our world had been checked and corrected.

Sharon,
 Hi. Well, I signed it, alright? I'm glad to have known you and hope to know you better. "muff said"

As Houston passed through the coldest January on record into the warmth of Spring, we began our last series of "4-course" days. The old but reliable 55-minute system would be re-installed in '78-'79. Educational experimenters proclaimed that the drop in HISD scores signalled a need for the basic, conventional system. Our reactions were yet to be seen. Students worked hard to remember life in the 55-minute world.

Glimmers of the decade's final two years appeared to us over a misty horizon. Beyond, the 80's, 90's, the year 2000. What would the world hold? We had truly lived for the pleasure-filled present world, but had three years prepared us for those unseen forces? Surveys looked promising. In a nationwide poll, Lee placed high in "political knowledge."

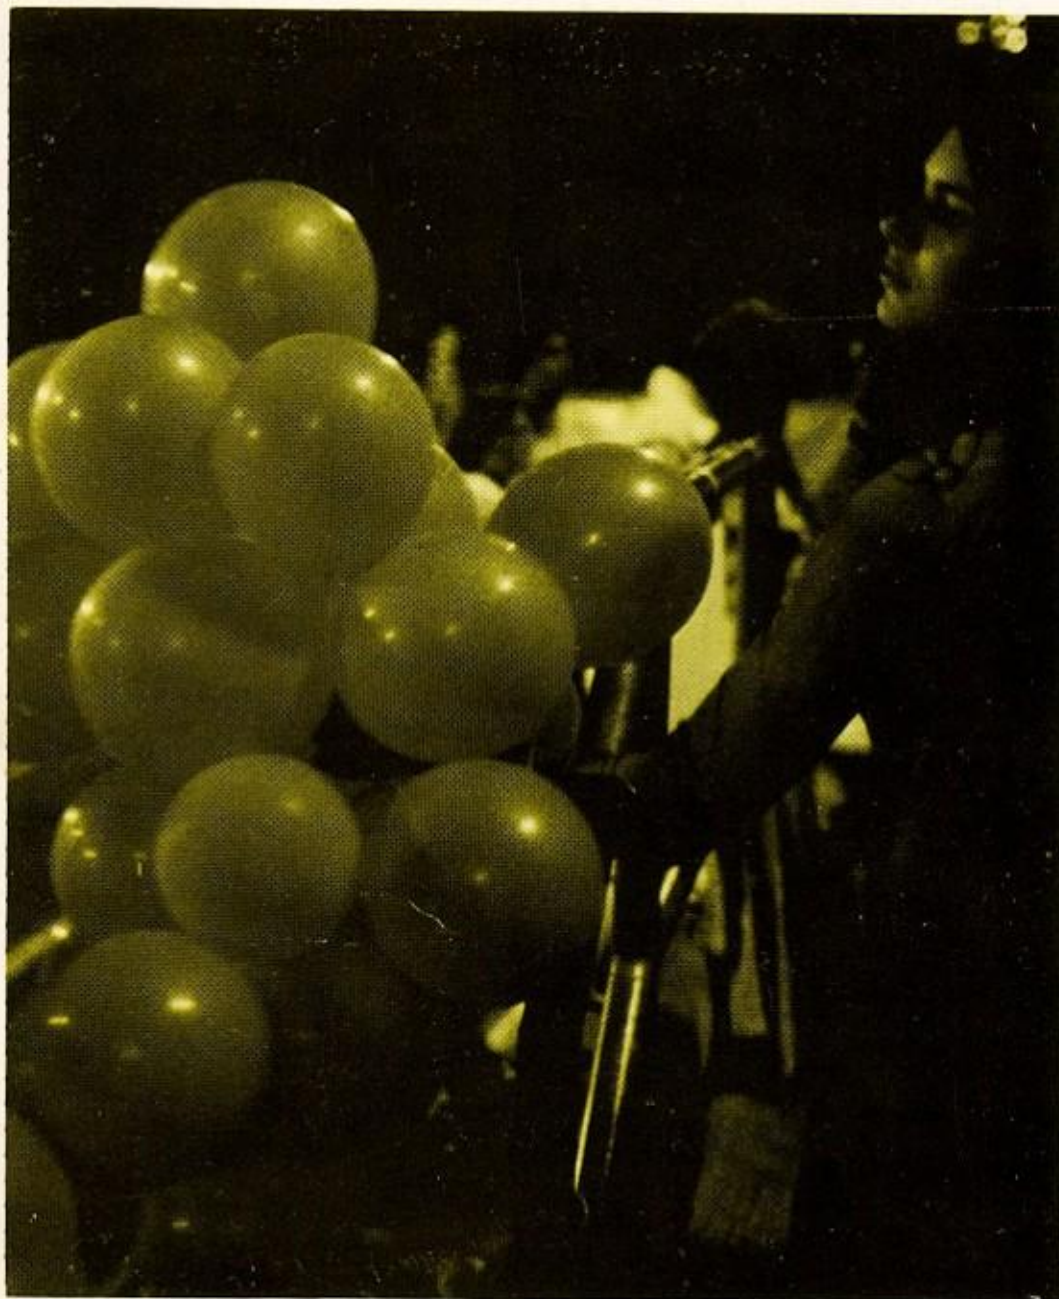

But if we were to make it outside, we needed to break the ties with our imaginary, secure high school world, the teenage years, and prepare individually for our future. Hopefully, education had gone further than lesson plans and term papers. Hopefully, the totality of the Lee High School world had prepared us.

Sharon,
hope you enjoyed your Sophomore year. Believe me,
the next 2 will be even better.
New York's choir
were fun.

See you—

The adventure ended — We reflected on a long year.

For some, June provided a relief. The hard times were over, to be forgotten. Still, for most it was sadness, a gathering up of experiences — those incredible times that would never be relived — to be remembered forever.

It was our world, our year, molded by what we were, and what we had become.

SABER '78

Kathy Grinstead - Love it

To all readers,

Over 30 people gave birth to SABER '78. Never before have I seen such love and unity among such a "diverse" group. The editors, the staff, the photographers — I thank you for the hundreds of hours you spent "shacking it up." To the Rebels the Anti-Rebels, Bongo Joe, and even to the "snobs" — your insanity kept me sane during deadlines. I thank the administration for their help, and Mr. D-Eon Priest for his professional assistance. To Mrs. Margaret "Tiny" Wisdom, the mastermind behind the unique hell-inspired SABER world, I owe more than could ever be repaid. I truly hope that SABER '78 has met the challenge in making an honest portrayal of life at Lee in 1978.
